ALPHABETICAL LIST OF INVENTIONS

FOR WHICH

PATENTS WERE ISSUED ON THE 1st DAY OF MAY, 1923.

NOTE.—Arranged in accordance with the first significant character or word of the name (in accordance with city and telephone directory practice). Includes patents, reissues, and designs.

Abrading machine. F. W. Browning. 1,453,742; May 1.
Accelerator, Foot. A. M. Alexander. 1,453,651; May 1.
Accelerators, Making vulcanization. P. I. Murrill. 1,453,515; May 1.
Acoustic device. H. D. Brown. 1,453,969; May 1.
Acoustic method and apparatus. R. A. Fessenden. 1,453,316; May 1.
Advertising box, Folding. F. X. List. 1,453,849; May 1.
Advertising device. T. G. Craver. 1,453,755; May 1.
Aeroplane suspension. H. A. Crawford. 1,453,307; May 1.
Agar-Agar composition and producing the same. C. Matsuoka. 1,453,848; May 1.
Agricultural implement. E. M. Heylman. 1,453,565; May 1.
Agricultural machine. W. McKennitt. 1,453,631; May 1.
Aircraft, Fairlead or guide for the control cables of. S. T. Williams. 1,453,426; May 1.
Airplane. H. Coakley. 1,453,830; May 1.
Air washing and cooling apparatus. P. A. Dennon. 1,453,494; May 1.
Alcohol flame intensifier. A. M. Rawls. 1,453,510; May 1.
Alcoholic liquid, Process and apparatus for the manufacture of nonpotable. F. de M. Accioly. 1,452,374; May 1.
Alkali-earth-metal permanganates, Production of. R. E. Wilson, L. W. Parsons, and S. L. Chisholm. 1,453,562; May 1.
Alloy and making it, Aluminum-silicon. J. D. Edwards. 1,453,928; May 1.
Ammonium perchlorates, Manufacture of. R. A. Long. 1,453,984; May 1.
Amplifier. E. A. Lefebre. 1,453,879; May 1.
Angle-iron machine. W. M. Schneider. 1,453,953; May 1.
Animal trap. J. C. Bauman. 1,453,615; May 1.
Animal trap. T. J. Ellison. 1,453,342; May 1.
Animal trap. T. M. Hovell. 1,453,795–6; May 1.
Animal trap. M. Schuetz. 1,454,015; May 1.
Annealing sheet iron. J. A. Small. 1,453,411; May 1.
Antiskid device for vehicles. W. H. Krug. 1,453,360; May 1.
Arbor support. E. J. Lees. 1,453,470; May 1.
Attenuation equalizer. R. S. Hoyt. 1,453,980; May 1.
Attenuation, System for attaining uniform. O. B. Blackwell. 1,454,011; May 1.
Auto lock. J. N. McHugh. 1,453,882; May 1.
Automobile body, Convertible. G. H. Wong. 1,453,372; May 1.
Automobile body motion stabilizer. T. J. Fay. 1,453,344; May 1.
Automobile bumper. W. E. Dunston. 1,453,866; May 1.
Automobile light dimmer. C. S. Hash. 1,453,501; May 1.
Automobile lock. W. J. Smith. 1,453,531; May 1.
Automobile signal. N. Browne. 1,453,911; May 1.
Automobile speed regulator. F. W. Teves. 1,453,368–9; May 1.
Automobile theft detector. J. J. Michalski. 1,453,320; May 1.
Automobiles, Air filter for. R. A. J. King. 1,453,627; May 1.
Automobiles, Clutch-controlling mechanism for. J. A. Ewell. 1,453,386; May 1.
Automobiles, Horizontally-moving window for. W. Richardson. 1,453,520; May 1.
Automobiles, Rear-spring support for. H. Knippel. 1,453,467; May 1.
Automobiles, Theft-prevention device for. J. N. Farlow. 1,453,497; May 1.
Automobiles, Turning indicator for. L. T. Bolkesjö. 1,454,012; May 1.
Axle, Adjustable front. J. Ross. 1,453,525; May 1.
Badges or button. B. I. Reed. Des. 62,293; May 1.
Bag. A. J. Farnsworth and E. M. St. Claire. 1,453,549; May 1.
Bag frame. F. A. Fuller. 1,453,455; May 1.
Balancing machine. D. Kilgour. 1,453,844; May 1.
Band-cutter cutting machine. B. F. Stowell. 1,453,609; May 1.
Banking apparatus. C. E. Menor. 1,453,512; May 1.
Barber chair. W. F. Koken. Des. 62,302; May 1.
Barber pole. W. F. Koken. Des. 62,301; May 1.
Barrel-holding device. B. F. Culver and W. H. Doyle. 1,453,547; May 1.
Barrel or keg. G. E. Mittinger. 1,453,883; May 1.
Bassinet. N. I. Mills. 1,453,942; May 1.

Battery-core-making machines, Ejecting mechanism for. J. Graves. 1,453,869; May 1.
Battery jar. W. W. Weitling. Des. 62,295; May 1.
Bearing, Antifriction side. J. F. O'Connor. 1,453,695; May 1.
Bearing box, Adjustable. J. J. Gunn. 1,453,936; May 1.
Bearing cap, Adjustable. H. R. Westwell. 1,453,982; May 1.
Bearing, Lubricated roller side. E. G. Busse. 1,453,700; May 1.
Bearing, Main. W. T. Price. 1,453,518; May 1.
Bearing plates, Shim for center-. C. E. Dath. 1,453,661; May 1.
Bearings, Manufacture of antifriction. H. M. Rockwell. 1,453,366; May 1.
Bed, Invalid. F. B. Bumgardner. 1,453,970; May 1.
Belt pulleys, Oil shield for. A. H. Hebert. 1,453,673; May 1.
Bib and apron or similar article, Combined. M. D. Benson. Des. 62,270; May 1.
Block: See—
Boiler. E. Cederblom. 1,453,703; May 1.
Boiler superheater. C. S. D. Perry. 1,453,638; May 1.
Boilers, Circulation of water in water-tube. H. E. Yarrow. 1,453,965; May 1.
Boilers, Washout plug for. J. Cashmer. 1,453,916; May 1.
Bolt: See—
Lock bolt.
Bottle. M. I. Katz. Des. 62,300; May 1.
Bottle. W. B. Marble. Des. 62,303; May 1.
Bottle capper. O. S. Platt. 1,453,405; May 1.
Bottle closure or cap. R. Murchie. 1,453,514; May 1.
Bottle, Dosage. W. J. Covell. 1,453,444; May 1.
Bottles, etc., Machine for making. W. E. Glaspey. 1,453,759; May 1.
Box: See—
Advertising box. Lamp-shade-delivery box.
Bearing box. Shipping box.
Display box.
Brace: See—
Chassis brace. Folding brace.
Bracket: See—
Bumper-bar-supporting bracket. Fender bracket.
Bracket. A. G. Feldman. 1,453,788; May 1.
Brake. R. W. Perkins. 1,453,600; May 1.
Brake beams, Third or fourth point suspension support mount or bracket for. E. A. Le Beau. 1,453,684; May 1.
Brake equalizer. C. M. Mohler. 1,453,597; May 1.
Brake head, Adjustable. W. C. Hedgcock. 1,453,838; May 1.
Brick, Combination apparatus for drying, burning, and cooling. T. M. Wilson. 1,453,819; May 1.
Bricks, Method of and means for burning. G. E. Luce. 1,453,850; May 1.
Briquetting sawdust, peat, coal dust, and similar pulverous substances. H. A. Mueller. 1,453,988; May 1.
Brush. J. Collier. 1,453,306; May 1.
Brush, Fountain. G. M. Gale. 1,454,023; May 1.
Brush holder. W. E. Keene. Des. 62,289; May 1.
Brush holder. P. R. Thomas. 1,453,959; May 1.
Bucket. F. H. and F. S. Beach. 1,453,540; May 1.
Bucket, Grab. W. J. Eaton. 1,453,027; May 1.
Building block. N. A. Nord. 1,453,806; May 1.
Bumper-bar-supporting bracket. P. Riedele. 1,453,521; May 1.
Burner: See—
Gas burner. Oil burner.
Liquid-fuel burner.
Burner. D. Arkwright, jr. 1,453,780; May 1.
Button, Collar. H. and H. Sirot. 1,453,809; May 1.
Button, Pivot. M. Weiss. 1,454,004; May 1.
Cabinet. A. G. Marshall. Des. 62,304; May 1.
Cabinet and table, Combined. H. B. Pine and C. W. Cisney. 1,453,946; May 1.
Cabinet, Steaming. L. Angelus. 1,453,967; May 1.
Calks to horseshoes, Securing. D. Yensen. 1,453,899; May 1.
Call-distributing system. W. S. Paca. 1,453,321; May 1.
Can-heading machine. A. Calleson. 1,453,619; May 1.
Car arrangement, Hopper-. H. S. Hart. 1,453,835; May 1.
Car coupling. V. Picklo. 1,453,404; May 1.

Car-door lock. W. H. Lawrence. 1,453,510; May 1.
Car-door-operating mechanism. A. Campbell. 1,453,701; May 1.
Car-door latch, Dump-. H. S. Hart. 1,453,836; May 1.
Car, Double-tier multiple-unit tank. M. Mauran. 1,453,476; May 1.
Car dump, Kick-back. C. B. Anfindsen. 1,453,331; May 1.
Car, Maximum capacity railway. D. Hindahl. 1,453,675; May 1.

Aircraft. Bomb-throwing device for. O. Wilcke. 1,454,990; May 15.
Alcohol, Dehydration of. H. E. Buc. 1,455,072; May 15.
Alloy. A. S. Hyman. 1,455,531; May 15.
Alloy. H. C. Kirk and G. H. Dumler. 1,455,589; May 15.
Ammonia liquor, Evaporating. F. F. Marquard and C. W. Littler. 1,455,299; May 15.
Amusement apparatus. M. Iliguchi. 1,454,968; May 15.
Amusement device. A. H. Bechtol and W. A. Tratsch. 1,454,947; May 15.
Amusement device. W. Williams. 1,454,991; May 15.
Anchoring device. H. C. Mahon. 1,455,641; May 15.
Animal trap. L. Haege. 1,454,998; May 15.
Animal trap. E. L. Ziola. 1,455,131; May 15.
Ash-pan lifter. M. Lombardi. 1,455,216; May 15.
Ash tray. I. M. Clarke. Des. 62,373–4; May 15.
Ash tray. P. I. Heuisler. Des. 62,352; May 15.
Ash tray and extinguisher, Combined. E. C. Callahan. Des. 62,372; May 15.
Asphalt pavements, Self-heating tool for. T. Morrison. 1,455,648; May 15.
Attaching device. G. S. Andres. 1,455,516; May 15.
Antiskid chain. W. B. Terry. 1,455,178; May 15.
Automobile body attaching tool-holding case. J. E. Robison. 1,455,549; May 15.
Automobile bumper. E. V. Allen. 1,455,514; May 15.
Automobile direction indicator. P. M. Flack. 1,455,581; May 15.
Automobile engine suspension. C. A. Tilt. 1,455,365; May 15.
Automobile fender. J. Allen. 1,455,468; May 15.
Automobile hat holder. M. W. Dye. 1,454,962; May 15.
Automobile lock. J. P. Geraghty. 1,455,583; May 15.
Automobile lock. C. A. Hasenicht. 1,455,138; May 15.
Automobile radiator thermometer. A. Cameron. 1,455,043; May 15.
Automobile rear-signal device. S. A. Flowers. 1,455,526; May 15.
Automobile signal. W. Cline. 1,454,920; May 15.
Automobile signal. M. G. Prandick. 1,455,054; May 15.
Automobile starters, Locking device for. L. W. Yonge. 1,455,697; May 15.
Automobile tool. F. W. Jackson. 1,455,617; May 15.
Automobile top. R. C. Hoagland. 1,455,203; May 15.
Automobiles and similar motor-driven vehicles, Extension pedal pad for. D. Sinclair. 1,455,675; May 15.

FOR WHICH

PATENTS WERE ISSUED ON THE 29TH DAY OF MAY, 1923.

NOTE.—Arranged in accordance with the first significant character or word of the name (in accordance with city and telephone directory practice). Includes patents, reissues, and designs.

Acid, Method and apparatus for manufacturing sulphuric. T. R. Harney. 1,457,164; May 29.
Acoustic apparatus. I. B. Crandall. 1,456,538; May 29.
Advertising device and twine holder, Combined. J. L. Orr. 1,456,825; May 29.
Aeroplane. H. Frey. 1,457,222; May 29.
Air-circulating system. R. Kramer. 1,456,699; May 29.
Air, Method and apparatus for cooling and cleaning. J. J. Preble and L. H. Parker. 1,457,087; May 29.
Air separator. R. M. Gay. 1,457,110; May 29.
Air supply, Auxiliary. A. Boone. 1,457,207; May 29.
Aircraft and the like, Control for. H. M. Fransen. 1,457,024; May 29.
Airplane. F. R. Maxwell, jr. 1,456,643; May 29.
Airships and the like, Skeleton frame construction for. K. Arnstein. 1,456,497; May 29.
Alarm: See—
  Burglar alarm.
Alarm lock. G. Gesmundo. 1,456,689; May 29.
Alloy and its production, Bronse. P. Ostendorf. 1,457,288; May 29.
Alloy, Copper and zinc. P. Ostendorf. 1,457,289; May 29.
Aluminum or its alloys for electroplating, Preparing. H. D. Cunningham. 1,457,149; May 29.
Amino compounds, Manufacture of aromatic. O. W. Brown and C. O. Henke. 1,456,969; May 29.
Ammonia, Making aldehyde. H. W. Matheson. 1,456,702; May 29.
Animal trap. J. Gottwald and A. Posler. 1,456,733; May 29.
Animal trap. O. H. Moen. 1,456,929; May 29.
Anthracene press cake, Purifying. H. D. Gibbs. 1,456,848; May 29.
Antirust composition. C. C. Howe and S. W. Libby. 1,457,169; May 29.
Arch support. A. and I. Bernat. 1,456,758; May 29.
Armor plate and making same. F. Bradley and H. L. Frevert. 1,457,101–3; May 29.
Arsenical solutions, Making. A. Mai. 1,456,509; May 29.
Ash hopper. A. P. Strong. 1,456,654; May 29.
Auto creeper. S. London and L. Weber. 1,457,117; May 29.
Auto table. K. B. Harvey. 1,457,028; May 29.
Autographic register. L. F. Hagemann. 1,456,768–73; May 29.
Automobile direction signal. G. W. Mason. 1,457,260; May 29.
Automobile exhaust lock. G. A. and T. K. Lowry. 1,456,640; May 29.
Automobile hand signaling device. A. R. Fergusson. 1,457,023; May 29.
Automobile locking mechanism. J. W. Flynn. 1,456,922; May 29.
Automobile radiator. D. H. Weyandt. 1,457,202; May 29.
Automobile radiator cap. H. A. Mayberry. 1,457,070; May 29.
Automobile running boards, Adjustable step for. J. Disch and J. G. Trese. 1,457,152; May 29.
Automobile signal. C. C. Bielitz. 1,456,967; May 29.
Automobile signal. G. W. Nicholson and A. J. Kelly. 1,457,263; May 29.
Automobile signal. W. F. Wedemeyer. 1,457,200; May 29.
Automobile tanks, Appliance for automatically indicating the amount of gasoline in. G. A. Szabo. 1,456,743; May 29.
Automobiles, carriages and the like, Fender brace for. F. L. Bronson. 1,457,144; May 29.
Automobiles, Clutch-spring-compressing device for Chevrolet. A. F. Gross. 1,456,796; May 29.
Automobiles, Heater and fuel saver for. H. T. Rasmussen. 1,456,933; May 29.
Automobiles, Platform-spring suspension for. A. J. Barron and H. E. Crow. 1,457,138; May 29.
Automobiles, Stop for the controlling levers of. F. W. Williams. 1,456,750; May 29.
Automobiles, Water-circulating machine run by the fan belt for gasoline engines on. J. C. Voigt. 1,456,684; May 29.
Azo dyestuffs. R. Stüsser. 1,457,235; May 29.
Bag fitting. H. J. Chilton. 1,456,721; May 29.
Bag folding and sealing device. V. Slezak. 1,456,836; May 29.
Bag holder. C. J. Hause. 1,457,246; May 29.
Bags, Hanger for mothproof. G. Rottman. 1,456,610; May 29.
Ball: See—
  Float ball.
Ball-attaching means. M. Resek. 1,456,716; May 29.
Ball retainers, Machine for filling. J. Diesk. 1,456,787; May 29.
Bank panels, Adjustable mounting for terminal-. O. F. Forsberg. 1,456,500; May 29.
Barium sulphate, Purifying natural. A. L. A. Teillard. 1,456,949; May 29.
Bathing suit. A. Panalle. 1,457,264; May 29.
Batteries and the like, Filling device for. O. H. Kolb. 1,457,079; May 29.
Battery container, Storage-. R. B. Owen. 1,456,565; May 29.
Battery ignition system. A. Rosner. 1,456,880; May 29.
Bayonet wire cutter. P. P. Grabowsky. 1,456,767; May 29.
Beaches and resorts, Means to withdraw surface water from bathing. S. M. Booth. 1,456,759; May 29.
Bearing, Adjustable ball. S. Munson. 1,457,184; May 29.
Bearing, Antifriction. C. D. Jenks and H. M. Perry. 1,456,984; May 29.
Bearing, Antifriction. J. F. O'Connor. 1,456,996–7; May 29.
Bearing, Antisand. G. W. Price and C. F. Zimansky. 1,456,713; May 29.
Bearing, Electrically-insulated. A. Kingsbury. 1,456,804; May 29.
Bearing, Thrust. W. H. Lieber. 1,457,081; May 29.
Bearing, Thrust. R. C. Newhouse. 1,457,086; May 29.
Bed, Extension. E. E. Wanamaker. 1,457,129; May 29.
Bed, Folding. G. R. McAllaster. 1,456,988; May 29.
Bed structure, Davenport-. H. and N. M. Freedman. 1,456,635; May 29.
Bedspring structure. W. O. Lathrop. 1,456,738; May 29.
Belt material, Drive-. H. M. Gusdorf. 1,457,243; May 29.
Belts, Apparatus for making abrasive. R. A. Moore. 1,456,561; May 29.
Binding element. C. F. Kettering. 1,456,851; May 29.
Bits when being sharpened, Apparatus for turning deep-well. J. G. Schooley and H. M. Ransdell. 1,456,833; May 29.
Blocking machine. G. S. Dey. 1,456,673; May 29.
Blow torch. J. B. Anderson. 1,456,718; May 29.
Board: See—
  Ironing board. Plaster board.
Board, table, and container, Combination running. J. E. Kermode. 1,456,780; May 29.
Bobbin clutch. G. H. Magrath. 1,457,226; May 29.
Boiler: See—
  Clothes boiler.
Boiler construction. E. Kidwell. 1,457,281; May 29.
Boiler-feed-water system. G. W. Cope. 1,456,722 May 29.
Boiler-tube cutter. M. Maher. 1,457,258; May 29.
Boilers, Baffle for water-tube. E. Kidwell. 1,457,282; May 29.
Bolt: See—
  Clampbolt.
Book covers, Electrically-heated former for rounding the backs of. A. Trost. 1,457,108; May 29.
Boxes, Automatic signal-operating device for mail. H. C. Feist. 1,456,543; May 29.
Bottle-capping and wire-removing machine. R. J. Canton. 1,456,617; May 29.
Bottle closure, Automatic. C. Harrer. 1,456,774; May 29.
Bottle holder. R. E. Frank. 1,456,728; May 29.
Bottle holder, Milk-. M. G. Gardonyi. 1,457,060; May 29.
Bottle, Nonrefillable. C. W. Sharp. 1,456,939; May 29.
Bottle, Vacuum. A. G. Hale. 1,456,797; May 29.
Bouquet holder. G. Robinson. 1,456,859; May 29.
Box: See—
  Cash box. Match box.
  Conduit outlet box.
Braiding machine. C. Tober. 1,456,656; May 29.
Bracket: See—
  Scaffold bracket. Scaffold and roof bracket.
Brake: See—
  Pneumatic brake.
Brake. G. J. Thomas. 1,457,048; May 29.
Brake and clutch lock. J. S. Sims. 1,456,579; May 29.
Brake-applying device, Pressure-equalizing. O. J. Frock. 1,457,156; May 29.
Brake-band fitting. O. Konigslow, sr. 1,456,605–6; May 29.

Brake, Double-acting load. W. E. Hale. 1,457,162; May 29.
Brick and like materials, Crate for loading and unloading. H. G. Fergus. 1,456,975; May 29.
Brick or tile for furnace construction. C. F. Binns. 1,456,498; May 29.
Brush, Fountain. B. D. Geib. 1,456,977; May 29.
Buckle. E. L. Johnson and O. Lundsten. 1,457,032; May 29.
Building element. J. Melles. 1,456,812; May 29.
Bundle carrier and shocker. J. Miller. 1,456,675; May 29.
Burglar alarm. J. E. Lee. 1,457,176; May 29.
Burner: See—
  Gas burner. Oil burner.
  Hydrocarbon burner.
  Liquid and gaseous fuel burner.
Cabinet, Stationery. R. Neddo. 1,456,562; May 29.
Cables, Fastening device for. A. W. Olson. 1,456,824; May 29.
Calling device. W. Kaisling. 1,456,602; May 29.
Can Closures, Attachment for. B. B. Foster. 1,456,791; May 29.
Can-feeding mechanism. J. A. Lee. 1,457,177; May 29.
Can lifter and ice tongs. G. Vergote. 1,457,238; May 29.
Cans, Machine for opening. P. C. West. 1,456,525; May 29.
Cane stripper. G. D. Luce. Re15,616; May 29.
Car-door lock. J. C. Fritts. 1,456,611; May 29.
Car, Dump. G. G. Gilpin. 1,456,978; May 29.
Car end, Corrugated-sheet-metal. 1,456,705; May 29.
Car, Motor, J. K. Vanatta. 1,456,659; May 29.
Car roof. C. D. Bonsall. 1,456,531; May 29.

DECISIONS IN PATENT AND TRADE-MARK CASES.

Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

BRIGGS AND JACOBI v. KAISLING. KAISLING v. BRIGGS. BRIGGS AND JACOBI v. KAISLING.

Nos. 1,552, 1,553, and 1,554. Decided April 3, 1923.

1. INTERFERENCE—PRIORITY—SOLE INVENTOR WHO IN GOOD FAITH JOINS ANOTHER IN FILING A JOINT APPLICATION.

Where B. was in good faith a party to the joint application filed by B. and J. and also to the preliminary statement filed by them in the interference, and it would even have been to his advantage in taking testimony had he claimed to be the sole inventor, it was an error on the part of the Patent Office when it became apparent that B. and not B. and J. was the real inventor to deny relief either by amendment of the joint application or by according to B. the privilege of filing a sole application.

2. CONSTRUCTION OF CLAIM—WORD WHICH ORIGINATED IN THE APPLICATION OF ANOTHER INVENTOR.

The word "simultaneous" originated in the application of another inventor, and that application fails to place emphasis on this term or to point out any particular necessity for giving it a technical interpretation. Held that in B.'s structure, where a second effect is produced by a further movement of the same instrument which performs the first, the operation is so continuous as to be substantially simultaneous and that to rule otherwise would be to place form before substance, or by the arbitrary interpretation of a term evidently not intended to have special significance to deprive the prior or real inventor of the benefit of a device reasonably capable of performing the identical function.

Mr. J. H. Milans and Mr. C. T. Milans for Briggs et al.

Mr. G. A. Yanochowski for Kaisling.

Before ROBB and VAN ORSDEL, Justices, and SMITH, Judge U. S. Court of Customs Appeals.

ROBB, J.:

These are appeals from decisions of the Patent Office in interference proceedings and each involves an electrical switch of the type used to control the lighting, ignition and other circuits of a motor vehicle. A single record embraces all the evidence. Kaisling has one application involved, while the Briggs & Stratton Co. is the assignee of all adverse interests covered by the other applications. It is apparent, therefore, that in substance and effect this is but a single case.

We first will consider Kaisling's contentions in appeal No. 1,553, wherein the tribunals of the Patent Office concurrently awarded priority to Briggs. There are here involved four claims, of which the 1st and 4th are illustrative, as follows:

1. A switch comprising a base having contacts, a rotary switch member having contact means for engaging the contacts, a removable key for controlling the actuation of said switch member, and other switch contacts actuated by the removable key.

4. A lighting switch and an auxiliary switch for automobiles and the like, a removable actuating member for said auxiliary switch, and means controlled by said actuating member for rendering said lighting switch inoperative.

Kaisling has been accorded August or early September of 1913 as his earliest date of conception and his filing date of December 15, 1913, as his date of constructive reduction to practice, and these dates are unchallenged.

Two applications of Briggs are here involved, dated March 8th and 15th, 1915, respectively.

The Examiner of Interferences reviewed the evidence to the effect that in December of 1912 and February of 1913 drawings were made for Briggs, which were produced and identified by the party who made them and by the model maker who built two switches (Exhibits Nos. 4 and 15) from them. These switches were shop tested and early in 1913 one like Exhibit No. 15 was installed on a car in Detroit, where is was successfully used for three or four months. While the Examiner was not satisfied with the evidence concerning this test, he was satisfied that a reduction to practice had been proven by the shop tests, and therefore awarded Briggs the date of March, 1913, for conception and reduction to practice. On appeal, the Examiners in Chief expressed themselves as convinced that the practical test in Detroit amounted to reduction to practice, and in this conclusion the Commissioner concurred. We think this conclusion clearly right. In the first place, Exhibits Nos. 4 and 15 bear no evidence of having been tampered with, and the evidence concerning their construction is straightforward and free from any taint of suspicion. They represented, at the time they were made, the limits of the progress made by Briggs in the art. It is in evidence that a switch like Exhibit No. 15 was taken to Detroit by Mr. Briggs for the purpose of interesting the F. B. Electric & Mfg. Co. Mr. John W. Fitzgerald, who was president and chief engineer of that company, a very intelligent and disinterested witness, testified to the installation and test of a switch which looked and operated like Exhibit No. 15, and there was evidence of a corroborative character which has been reviewed by the tribunals of the Patent Office. Mr. Fitzgerald testified positively that this switch was on the car three or four months. He described its operation in detail, stated that he rode in the car a number of times, and said that the switch "did the work for which it was designed without any trouble." We regard the evidence concerning the identity of these exhibits and the reduction to practice of the invention as convincing.

After the completion of Exhibit No. 4, it was discovered that by partially inserting the key the switch could be turned to either position. Advantage was taken of this discovery in Exhibit

No. 15 by so arranging the lock that the ignition switch could be moved by rotating the key in the same direction required to lock or unlock the switch. It therefore is apparent that whatever advantage springs from this change enures to the benefit of Briggs. Even though the particular advantage had not been appreciated at the time, nevertheless, had it been an inherent function of the device as designed and constructed, the inventor could not have been deprived of it. (Morgan Engineering Co. v. Alliance Machine Co., 176 Fed., 107; 157 O. G., 1244.) Much less can an inventor be deprived of such advantage when he so reconstructs his device as to emphasize this advantage. We agree with the Patent Office, therefore, that Exhibit No. 15 clearly reads upon each of the claims of this particular issue.

Appeal No. 1,554 involves the same application of Kaisling and a joint application of Briggs and Jacobi, the single count reading as follows:

In a combination switch, a removable handle, switch contacts, a movable member for co-operation with said switch contacts, said movable member being controlled by said handle, and other switch contacts controlled by the turning of the attached handle.

Exhibits Nos. 4 and 15, heretofore discussed, were relied upon by the joint applicants. The Patent Office tribunals entertained no doubt that these exhibits disclosed the invention expressed in this count, but, being of the view that the suggestions of Jacobi did not rise to the dignity of invention,—in other words, that Briggs was the sole inventor,—awarded priority to Kaisling, notwithstanding that the invention clearly had been reduced to practice by Briggs prior to the entry of Kaisling into the field.

The sole object of an interference proceeding is "to determine the question of priority of invention." (R. S., 4904.) Recognizing this, we ruled in the Roberts case, (49 App. D. C., 250; 263 Fed., 646), that where a joint application filed in good faith by two inventors embraces an invention of which one of the applicants is the sole inventor, the Patent Office should permit the real inventor to correct the mistake and thus obtain recognition of his invention. We said:

To prevent a possible failure of justice, the present application should have been considered as a continuation of the abortive application. As already suggested, we perceive no reason why the mistake could not have been rectified by a simple amendment, but in any event the sole inventor should not be deprived of his day in court by the raising of artificial barriers against him. He claimed his invention, and, through mistake, gave his son credit where no credit was due. The elimination of the son ought not to deprive the father, the sole inventor, of the benefit of his original application; and we so rule.

Again, in Bijur v. Kensington (51 App. D. C., 230; 278 Fed., 313; 295 O. G., 887) we ruled that where a joint application was filed for a patent on which it was decided that one of the applicants was the sole inventor, he was entitled to the date of the joint application for reduction to practice, as his sole application, being an amendment of the joint application related back to the filing of the original application.

[1] In the present case, Briggs was a party to the joint application and to the preliminary statement filed here. His good faith cannot be successfully challenged because no possible advantage could have been derived by attributing to Jacobi a share in the invention. The testimony would have been exactly the same in either case. Indeed, it would have been to the advantage of Briggs had he claimed to be the sole inventor, for in that situation Jacobi could have been a corroborative witness. When, therefore, it became apparent to the Patent Office that Briggs and not Briggs and Jacobi was the real inventor of this issue, either the joint application should have been amended or Briggs accorded the privilege of filing a sole application, but he was denied either form of relief. This was error. The result, as we have seen was an award of priority to one not the prior or real inventor and the consequent defeat of the express provisions of the statute.

We come now to appeal No. 1,552. The issue here is expressed in five counts, of which the 1st and 5th are illustrative, as follows:

1. In an electric switch, a plurality of circuit contacts, a switch arm engageable with said contacts in succession, a supplementary switch, and mechanism constructed and arranged to lock said switch arm in any of its successive positions and to simultaneously actuate said supplementary switch.

5. An electric switch comprising a plurality of contacts adapted to be connected to different circuits, a switch-arm movable to any one of a plurality of positions to engage said contacts and control the circuits connected thereto, a second switch-arm and contact adapted to be connected to a circuit, a key-operated rotatable locking device for the first switch-arm, means for operating the second switch-arm by rotation of the locking device to locking position, and means for sustaining a key in position for operating said rotatable locking device.

The same application of Kaisling and the same exhibits of Briggs and Jacobi are relied upon. Here, as in appeal No. 1,544, the Patent Office ruled that the invention was attributable to Briggs alone. What we have said in the prior appeal is equally applicable here, but a further ground of decision was that neither Exhibit No. 4 nor Exhibit No. 15 supports these counts, because under the view of the Patent Office there is no simultaneous operation of the two switches in either exhibit. The Board says:

The counts call for the locking of the lighting switch arm and the actuation of the ignition (supplemental) switch simultaneously. There is no simultaneous operation of these two switches in either exhibit. In No. 15, starting with both switches unlocked and the ignition switch in its "on" position, the latter switch may be operated by the key if the latter is only partially inserted, the key being turned to the left. When the switch reaches the "off" position the key can be turned no farther until it is first pushed in to its full extent. Then it may be turned in either direction. Turning it to the right merely brings the ignition switch back to its former position, and the two movements effect no useful result. Neither of these movements has caused the lighting switch to become locked. This can be effected only by turning the key to the left almost a complete rotation after the ignition switch has been actuated. The operation in which the ignition switch is actuated by the key and the lighting switch is locked consists in first inserting the key partially, then turning it to the left to actuate the ignition switch, then stopping the rotation of the key, then pushing the key inwardly to its full extent and then turning it almost a complete rotation to the left. At substantially the end of this operation the lighting switch is locked. There is in this switch no simultaneous operation of the ignition switch and the devices for locking the lighting switch, and for this further reason Briggs and Jacobi cannot rely upon either Exhibits Nos. 4 or 15 as evidence of conception or reduction to practice.

[2] In the first place, the word "simultaneous" originated in another application. (Naul, filed March 10, 1916, now Patent No. 1,320,704.) That application fails to place emphasis upon this term or to point out any particular necessity for giving it a technical interpretation. In the Briggs structure, as clearly appears from the statement of the Examiners in Chief, the operation is so continuous as to be substantially simultaneous. To rule otherwise would be to place form before substance, or, by the arbitrary interpretation of a term evidently not intended to have special significance, to deprive the prior or real inventor of the benefit of a device reasonably capable of performing the identical function. (See Westinghouse Machine Co. v. C. and G. Cooper Co., 245 Fed., 468.)

The suggestion was made by Kaisling in the Patent Office, as here, that Briggs concealed and suppressed his invention. As to this contention little need be said, for the installation at Detroit of a device like Exhibit No. 15, under the conditions we have detailed, is a complete answer to Kaisling on this point.

It follows that the decision in No. 1,553 is affirmed, and the decisions in Nos. 1,552 and 1,554 are reversed.

Affirmed as to No. 1,553.

Reversed as to Nos. 1,552 and 1,554.

Changes in the Patent Office.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 8, 1923.

Hon. EDWARD C. FINNEY,
First Assistant Secretary, Interior Department, Washington, D. C.

DEAR JUDGE FINNEY: In reply to your letter of May 1st, requesting a statement of the "achievements" of this bureau with respect to the return of surplus to the Treasury, or the introduction of new and efficient methods to permit more work to be performed with the same appropriations, I have the honor to report that in the last fiscal year the Patent Office turned back into the Treasury $172,081.21 of the amount received by it as fees, over and above its expenses. Although the Patent Office has been called upon in the last two or three years to do 50% more patent work and 100% more trade-mark work than in previous years, $62,240.98 of the appropriations for the year ending June 30, 1922, were turned back into the Treasury.

In three years new applications jumped from 75,000 to 113,000 per year (trade-marks from 8,000 to 17,000), so our purpose has been to improve the efficiency of the various divisions to keep the work from going further behind. On July 1st, last, there were nine technical divisions more than one year behind—to-day not one division is. Methods have been revolutionized in the ten clerical divisions, so that the work, which was many months behind two years ago, is practically current now. Radical changes in methods only have enabled us to handle the work, with an increase of only 7% in personnel in three years, during which time the volume of work increased from 50% in patent work and over 100% in trade-mark work.

In the Application Division a whole new system of keeping the records resulted in permitting the handling of the clerical work of 108,000 applications in the year 1922 with a force of 17 clerks, while in 1920 20 clerks were needed to handle 104,000 cases.

The Issue Division is responsible for the publication of the OFFICIAL GAZETTE, a weekly periodical of 250 pages containing about 1,100 cuts weekly, and the printing of the weekly issue of 1,000 original patents and trade-marks. It is a stupendous job, costing in all about $750,000 annually. Radical changes had to be made to issue these patents and trade-marks on time each week and to publish the regular issue of the OFFICIAL GAZETTE each Tuesday. As to saving: One of the indexes has been omitted, saving about $10,000 per year; the printing of trade-marks has been simplified, and the Public Printer states that this will save $5,400 per year; the headings of patent drawings are multigraphed instead of printed, resulting in a great saving of clerical time and a cash saving of about $2,000 yearly; the matter common to the weekly issue of the 1,000 patents and trade-marks is being printed instead of typewritten, thus affording a saving of $1,000, besides making for accuracy.

In the Drafting Division simplified methods enabled the division to dispense with one employee.

In the Financial Division, which handled over $3,000,000 in fees last year, the introduction of a bookkeeping machine enabled one employee to do the former work of three.

Instead of distributing the expensive technical "Rules of Practice" simple circulars giving information in the language of the layman have been prepared, saving at least $500 per annum over the cost of the "Rules" and the saving of clerks in writing about 20,000 information letters annually.

Returning about 45,000 letters of inquiry and requests per year with the replies thereto, instead of filing and indexing them, as in the past, has amounted to considerable saving in clerk hire and storage space.

A change in the method of reproducing foreign patent drawings for the use of 460 technical examiners resulted in a saving of $15,641.25.

The changed method of recording and indexing 40,000 deeds saves two clerks.

The changed method of handling the 2,400 petitions annually saves one clerk.

The trade-mark search room was reorganized, most of the force voluntarily working nights for four weeks to attain this end. This has resulted in an enormous saving of time in making 400 official searches each week, so that the Trade-Mark Division cared for 17,000 cases in 1922, when three years ago it handled only 8,000 per year, and the division is now four months nearer to date than before reorganization.

The Publications Division sells 200,000 patents each month, for ten cents each, bringing in a yearly revenue of about $250,000.00, or $20,000 monthly. Most are ordered one at a time, and the methods of selecting, handling, and storing have been radically changed for greater efficiency. Newly-designed steel stacks enable copies to be selected and delivered in about half the former time.

Numerous other changes have been made which have resulted in economy and efficiency here and there throughout the Office, but the ones above specified are the most notable.

If you wish more detailed information with respect to any of the foregoing, I shall be pleased to furnish it.

Sincerely,

THOMAS E. ROBERTSON,
Commissioner.

REISSUES.

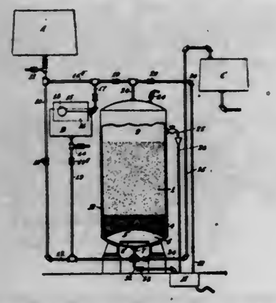
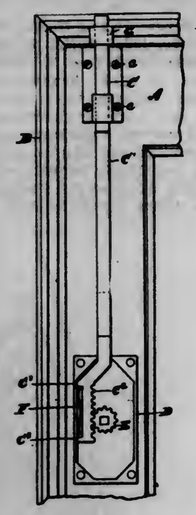
15,617. MEASURING AND INDICATING APPARATUS. HENRY BREWER, Wilmette, Ill., assignor to Leeds & Northrup Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Nov. 29, 1922. Serial No. 604,090. Original No. 1,361,676, dated Dec. 7, 1920, Serial No. 278,407, filed Feb. 21, 1919. 49 Claims. (Cl. 234—5.5.)



24. The combination with a deflecting member, of a source of power, variable electrical means and a plurality of electrical devices adapted severally to co-operate with said means to control said deflecting member, said means varied by said source of power under control of said deflecting member, means actuated by said source of power for bringing said electrical devices successively into co-operation with said means, an instrument giving indications respecting said electrical devices, controllers for said instrument brought successively into co-operation with said instrument and actuated by said source of power under control of said deflecting member, and a marker actuated by said source of power under control of said deflecting member producing a record related to the indications of said instrument.

34. The combination with a plurality of temperature responsive devices, of a galvanometer, a group of signals for each of said devices, a switching mechanism for each of said groups of signals for controlling the signals thereof individually, switching mechanism for associating said devices one at a time with said galvanometer, and means controlled by said galvanometer for actuating said first named switching mechanisms simultaneously.

47. The combination with a plurality of temperature responsive devices, of a movable member controlled by each of said devices for different lengths of time, and a single marker actuated by said movable member for periods corresponding to said lengths of time, for effecting records having component marks of different lengths.



15,618. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR SOFTENING WATER. THOMAS R. DUGGAN, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Permutit Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 22, 1922. Serial No. 556,137. Original No. 1,276,629, dated Aug. 20, 1918, Serial No. 127,127, filed Oct. 23, 1916. 2 Claims. (Cl. 210—2.)

1. In the purification and softening of water, the process which comprises transmitting water downwardly through a granular bed of exchange silicates until such silicates have functioned to a sufficient degree, thereupon passing salt solution followed by wash water through such bed in an upward direction with removal of salt solution and wash water at or above the upper face of such bed until the silicates are regenerated, interrupting the flow at this time and draining the bed from the lowest point, and once more passing water to be softened through the bed in a downward direction.

15,619. LATCH. CURTIS A. MASSOLL, Detroit, Mich., assignor to John A. Whittaker, Detroit, Mich. Filed Mar. 23, 1921. Serial No. 454,934. Original No. 1,338,689, dated May 4, 1920, Serial No. 333,246, filed May 8, 1918. 4 Claims. (Cl. 292—39.)

1. In a device of the class described, keepers located at the top and bottom of the frame work and provided at the outer sides with bolt engaging means, a vertically movable bolt carried by the door and provided with a tapering end presenting an inclined face to the bolt engaging means of the keepers for forcing the door inwardly to its closed position, said bolt having a face parallel with the side of the door extending from the tapered portion and slidable over the bolt engaging means as the door is forced inwardly by the inclined end of the bolt, before the bolt has reached its limit of motion, the bolt engaging means of the keeper being arranged to permit an extended movement of the bolt whereby any sagging of the door will be prevented from diminishing the effectiveness of the tapered end of the bolt when forcing the door tightly to its closed position, and manually operated means for actuating said bolt.

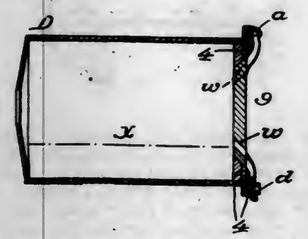
15,620. ROLLER MILL. FRANK E. MARCY, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Nov. 16, 1922. Serial No. 601,240. Original application filed Jan. 25, 1919, Serial No. 273,097. Renewed Oct. 13, 1920, Serial No. 416,773. Original No. 1,361,601, dated Dec. 7, 1920. 12 Claims. (Cl. 83—9.)

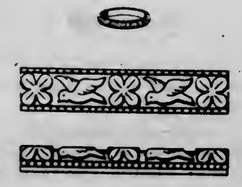


1. In a mill of the character described, a tumbling barrel having a feed end and a normally open discharge end, an inwardly projecting flange at the discharge end, the inner edge of the flange defining the available opening through which the material may flow, freely moving reducing bodies in the barrel, and a door or plate secured to the barrel, and a door or plate secured to the barrel having a maximum dimension less than the diameter of the opening aforesaid and adapted to be moved across said opening to form with the boundaries thereof an annular passageway for the direct discharge of the material.

15,621. ROLLER MILL. FRANK E. MARCY, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Nov. 29, 1922. Serial No. 604,093. Original No. 1,361,601, dated Dec. 7, 1920, Serial No. 273,097, filed Jan. 25, 1919. Renewed Oct. 13, 1920, Serial No. 416,773. 7 Claims. (Cl. 83—9.)

1. In a mill of the character described, a tumbling barrel having a feed end and a discharge end respectively at its opposite extremities and adapted to contain longitudinally extending loose freely movable reducing bodies, an inwardly projecting flange at the discharge end of the barrel, and a guard closing across the plane of disposition of the flange and movable at will without disturbing the other parts of the mill to permit access to the interior of the barrel, said flange being provided with a passageway outward of its inner edge for effecting the direct discharge of material from the barrel.

15,622. ROLLER MILL. FRANK E. MARCY, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Nov. 29, 1922. Serial No. 604,094. Original No. 1,361,601, dated Dec. 7, 1920, Serial No. 273,097, filed Jan. 25, 1919. Renewed Oct. 13, 1920, Serial No. 416,773. 9 Claims. (Cl. 83—9.)



1. In a mill of the character described, a rotatable barrel having a feed end and a discharge end and provided with a reducing compartment adapted to contain longitudinally extending, loose, freely movable, reducing rods, and a rod-intercepting guard closing across the discharge end and adapted to be moved at will to a position to permit access to the reducing compartment, said guard having its inner surface substantially free of obstructions to free movement of the rods having a discharge opening extending through it from one side to the other for the discharge of the material from the reducing compartment directly through the guard, and the said guard serving when in closed position to intercept the reducing rods to prevent their accidental escape.

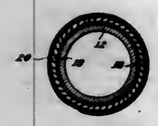
1. A warping machine including, in combination, with a frame having at one end a main horizontal guideway extending transversely and facing upwardly and also inwardly and also having below the main guideway another transverse horizontal guideway, a carriage having its center of gravity outward of both guideways and also having a bearing upon the upwardly and inwardly facing portions of the first guideway and also a bearing on the other guideway.



1,457,294. QUILLING MACHINE. GEORGE ADSIT, Paterson, N. J., assignor to Benjamin Eastwood Company, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 6, 1921. Serial No. 505,720. 2 Claims. (Cl. 242—27.)

1. In combination, a support, a horizontal rotary spindle journaled therein, a thread traversing mechanism movable back and forth in said support substantially lengthwise of the spindle, a barrel cam journaled in said support beside and on an axis parallel with the spindle, means to transmit movement from the cam to said mechanism, and a lubricant absorbing wiper extending longitudinally of and bearing against the periphery of the cam.

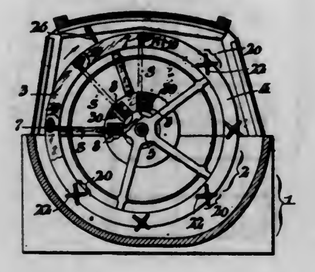
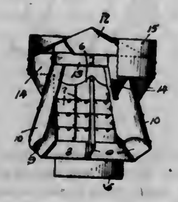
1,457,295. PIPE PROTECTOR. SANTINO BADO, Mount Vernon, N. Y. Filed July 28, 1921. Serial No. 488,057. 2 Claims. (Cl. 137—75.)



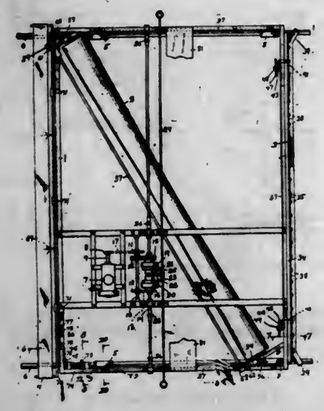
1. In combination with a metallic pipe, a layer of tar paper contacting the outer surface of the same and completely covering said surface, a layer of tar rope wound about said tar paper with the windings contiguous, and a layer of tar applied to said twine layer providing a smooth outer surface.

1,457,296. CAR CONSTRUCTION. WILLIAM J. BOHAN, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Aug. 13, 1921. Serial No. 491,943. 11 Claims. (Cl. 105—415.)



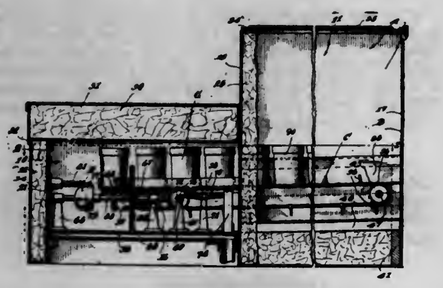
1. In car construction an underframe including: a bolster, an end sill; longitudinally extending centrally disposed draft sills between the end sill and bolster; diagonally extending combined bracing and shock-absorbing-mechanism-supporting sills from said centrally disposed draft sills to the ends of the bolster; and a shock absorbing mechanism supported by each of said diagonally extending supporting sills.

1,457,297. MACHINE FOR TREATING TEXTILE MATERIALS OR PRODUCTS. JOHN J. BROPHY, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Mar. 14, 1922. Serial No. 543,674. 10 Claims. (Cl. 8—19.)



1. A machine for treating textile materials including a pair of spaced rotatable frames capable of sustaining horizontally between them, sticks or poles for hanging the articles being dyed; and engaging devices carried by said frames each comprising a cup for receiving a pole end, and a cover movable crosswise of said cup to permit insertion of the pole end, and having a complementary notch into which, when the device as a whole is partially or completely inverted during rotation of the frames, the pole end drops to a position across the line of juncture of the cup and cover to hold the latter locked against movement so long as the engaging device remains partially or completely inverted.

1,457,298. VENTILATOR. MERT T. BUCKLEY, Wichita, Kans. Filed Sept. 12, 1922. Serial No. 587,649. 2 Claims. (Cl. 98—4.)

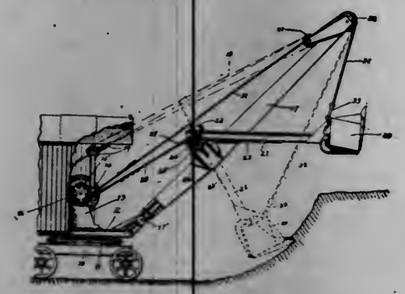


2. A ventilator comprising a base pipe having an upwardly and outwardly flaring extension, said extension provided with circumferential rows of vertically aligned slots, an outwardly and downwardly flared flange secured to said base at its point of joinder with the said extension, spaced fins secured to said base and said extension, an outwardly and downwardly flared skirt secured to said fins and enclosing said extension, fins attached to the outside of said skirt at its upper end, and a ventilator top and top band supported by said last mentioned fins, the two sets of fins being in staggered relation one to the other.

1,457,299. CONCRETE-ROAD MACHINE. EDWARD G. CARR, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 29, 1921. Serial No. 525,570. 9 Claims. (Cl. 94—44.)

1. The combination in a concrete road machine, of a spreading templet, and a roller arranged at an oblique angle with respect thereto.

1,457,300. COIN-CONTROLLED DISPENSING APPARATUS. WOLFE COHEN, Revere, Mass. Filed June 11, 1921. Serial No. 476,865. 8 Claims. (Cl. 211—8.)



1. An ice cream dispensing machine comprising a casing having ice compartments therein, a longitudinally extending trough arranged in the casing intermediate the ice compartments, a delivery door in said casing, a trough arranged at right angles to the first trough and terminating at said door, right angularly related conveyor chains arranged in said troughs, and means for synchronously operating said chains.

1,457,301. ROPE-THRUSTING SHOVEL. WALTER FERRIS, Milwaukee, and SVANTE R. W. M. BAGER, South Milwaukee, Wis., assignors to Bucyrus Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Mar. 24, 1921. Serial No. 455,302. 12 Claims. (Cl. 214—135.)

1. In a power shovel, the combination of a rotatable platform, two independently rotatable drums mounted thereon, a boom carried thereby, a dipper and dipper handle carried by said boom for swinging and shifting movements, a hoisting cable connected at one end with one of said drums and at the other end with said dipper for raising and lowering said dipper and for shifting said dipper handle in one direction only, a second cable connected with the other of said drums and associated with said dipper handle for shifting said handle in another direction.

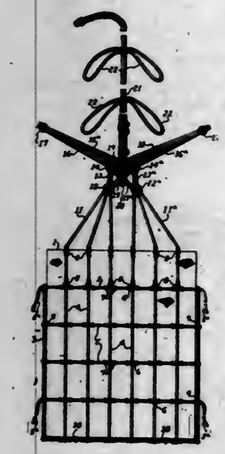
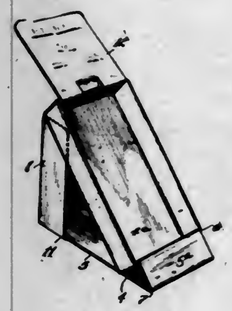
1,457,302. RAIL JOINT. FREDERICK E. HARDER, Detroit, Mich. Filed Dec. 7, 1922. Serial No. 605,338. 3 Claims. (Cl. 238—208.)

3. A rail chair comprising a base adapted to receive a rail flange and having side arms, one of which is adapted to lie parallel with the web of a rail and the other of which extends at an angle thereto to provide a wedge shaped space therebetween, said last mentioned side arm being provided with a plurality of openings adapted for the passage of securing pins into said rail.



1,457,303. STRUCTURAL SHAPE. THOMAS HIGGINS, Glenshaw, Pa. Filed Feb. 18, 1922. Serial No. 537,491. 4 Claims. (Cl. 189—37.)

1. A metallic beam formed from a single flat rolled plate, comprising a web portion of single thickness and flanges of double thickness of said plate, said web portion overlying and locking the edges of the plate.



1,457,304. FIRE RESCUE BAG. HARRIETTE E. HODGSON, New York, N. Y. Filed June 16, 1921. Serial No. 477,873. 4 Claims. (Cl. 227—11.)

1. A fire-rescue device comprising a flat bag of flexible material, an enclosing network of vertical and transverse strands, the vertical strands being brought together in two groups and knotted together above the top of the bag, and a lowering cable which is looped through this knotted structure.

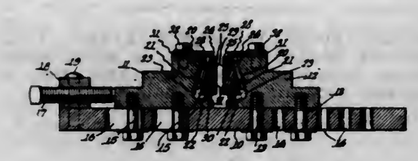
1,457,305. DISPLAY CARTON. JOHN V. HOBE, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to Albert T. Fischer, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed July 24, 1919. Serial No. 312,932. 5 Claims. (Cl. 206—44.)

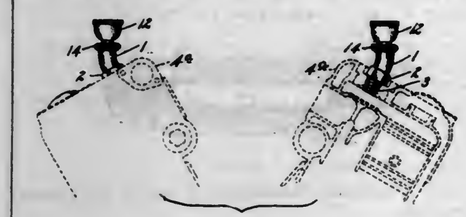
3. A display carton, comprising a body portion having an open top, a cover having one end thereof hingedly secured to the body adjacent an end of the open top, an easel member having side members and an end member which joins the side members, the said cover member extending between the side members of the easel and within the end member of the easel, said cover being hingedly connected with the easel adjacent an edge of the end member of the easel.



5. A display carton, comprising a body portion having an open top, a cover therefor, a display card independent of said cover and hingedly secured to said body portion, adjacent an edge of the open top, a tab member formed as a part of said display card, the body of the carton being provided with a slot adapted to receive said tab and within which opening the tab is adjustable, thereby to support the card in desired position.

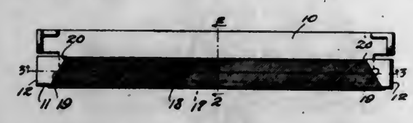
1,457,306. DISPLAY CARD. CHARLES B. KELLOGG, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 22, 1922. Serial No. 570,208. 12 Claims. (Cl. 40—126.)

1. A display card made from a single blank, comprising a table top having front and side supports, and side members shaped to a predetermined design attached to the side supports, said side members being interlocked with the table top intermediate the rear and front edges thereof.



1,457,307. VISE. ORLANDO C. KERNS, Akron, Ohio. Filed Feb. 20, 1922. Serial No. 538,030. 2 Claims. (Cl. 90—60.)

1. In a holding device of the character described, main jaws, said jaws being provided upon their inner sides with cut out portions, said cut out portions having upstanding inclined faces converging upwardly, said faces having longitudinal ribs projecting inwardly and laterally from the faces provided with slots, auxiliary jaws arranged within the cut out portions and having outer inclined faces converging upwardly to slidably contact with the inclined faces of the main jaws, said auxiliary jaws being provided in their inclined faces with longitudinal grooves receiving said ribs, transverse elements carried by the auxiliary jaws and passing through the longitudinal slots in the ribs and serving as stops to limit the upward movement of the auxiliary jaws, springs arranged beneath the jaws and serving to move them upwardly and means to adjust one main jaw with relation to the other.



1,457,308. PRIMING DEVICE. WALTER S. KILLAM, Detroit, Mich. Filed Oct. 8, 1921. Serial No. 506,260. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—187.5).

1. In a priming device wherein a cup is supported in a vertical position and has a needle valve movable by rotation to and from an angular end of a longitudinal passage in a support for the cup and wherein the needle valve controls the admission of a priming agent to the passage and is adapted to close the passage by seating on said support at the end of the passage therein:—means for holding said cup seated on said support against accidental unseating, said means comprising a rotatable nut engaging said support and by such engagement preventing accidental rotation of said cup.

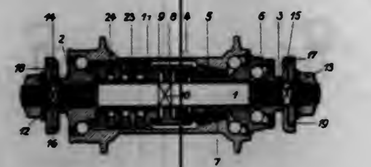
1,457,309. ATTACHMENT FOR LAWN MOWERS. HENRY F. W. KOHLBACH, Fort H. G. Wright, N. Y. Filed May 5, 1922. Serial No. 558,807. 1 Claim. (Cl. 76—82.)

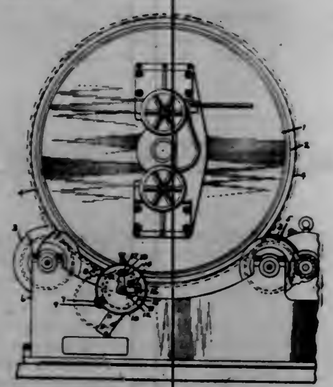
A sharpening device for a lawn-mower comprising a plate having a longitudinal recess for the reception of the stationary blade of a mower, upstanding lugs on the ends of the plate and having their inner faces extending obliquely across the face of the plate, the upper portions of the oblique inner faces of the lugs being undercut and the lower portions vertical, means engaged through the plate for engagement with the stationary blade of a mower, and a removable file disposed on the plate and overlying the said recess and having its ends extending obliquely and being undercut for wedging engagement with the upper portions of the inner faces of the said lugs.

1,457,310. CURRENT REGULATOR FOR IGNITION SYSTEMS. STANLEY D. LIVINGSTON, Meriden, Conn., assignor to The Connecticut Telephone & Electric Company, Incorporated, Meriden, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Jan. 28, 1920. Serial No. 354,596. 20 Claims. (Cl. 123—148.)



1. In a motor ignition system, the combination of an automatic switch, a resistance, and thermostatic means including a heating coil for automatically short circuiting the resistance when the speed of the motor increases above a predetermined limit.

1,457,311. FREE WHEEL HUB. HANS LUDWIG, Oberursel am Taunus, Germany. Filed Aug. 1, 1921. Serial No. 489,028. 18 Claims. (Cl. 192—6.)



1. In free wheel hubs the combination of a back pedalling brake with means within the hub for transmitting the braking momentum from the hub to the axle of the hub, and means for securing both ends of this axle fixedly to the frame substantially as and for the purpose described.

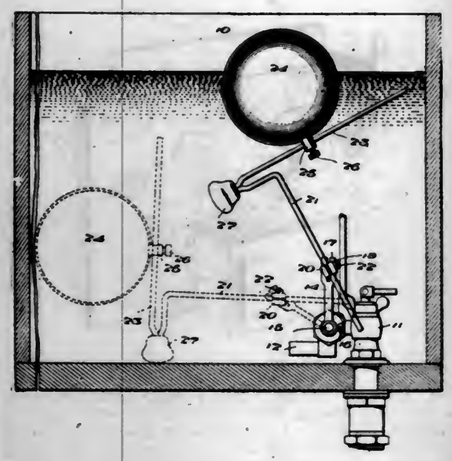
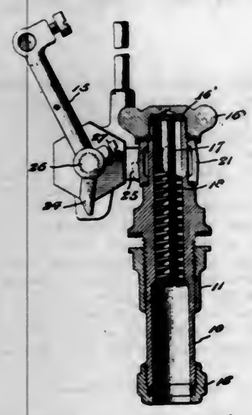
1,457,312. REVERSING MECHANISM. OLIVER J. MARSHICK and EDWIN L. CROSBY, Detroit, Mich. Filed Nov. 15, 1920. Serial No. 424,088. 5 Claims. (Cl. 204—64.)



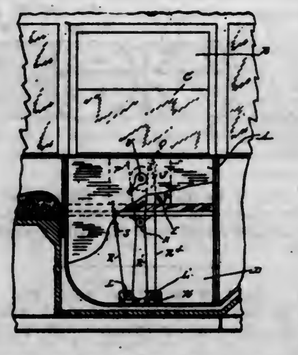
1. In a reversing mechanism, in combination with a rotatable gear wheel operatively connected with a rockable furnace drum, a pair of adjustable limiting arms adapted to be fixed in position for engagement by a projecting portion of said gear wheel at the selected ends of its path of travel, a pair of oppositely disposed contact terminals, and a second gear wheel operatively connected with said first-named gear wheel, adapted to be rocked by the movement thereof into contact of a projection thereon against one or the other of said oppositely disposed contact terminals.

1,457,313. PHONOGRAPH. RALPH W. MORRISON, Omaha, Nebr. Filed Jan. 13, 1920. Serial No. 351,150. 8 Claims. (Cl. 274—24.)



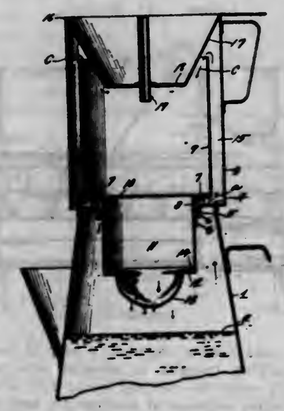
1. In an improvement in a phonograph having a pivotally mounted tone arm and having a sound-conducting tube provided with apertures in its side wall and pivotally mounted on the tone arm, an apertured sound reproducer rotatably mounted on said tube and provided with diaphragms and stylus-bars, and means coactive with the rotation of the sound reproducer for moving it longitudinally of the tube to dispose one of its stylus-bars at a predetermined distance from the pivotal mounting of the tone arm and to dispose one of its apertures in register with an aperture of said tube.

1,457,314. FLOAT-VALVE-OPERATING MECHANISM. PHILIP MUELLER, Decatur, Ill., assignor to Adolph Mueller, trustee, Decatur, Ill. Filed Oct. 29, 1919. Serial No. 334,121. 16 Claims. (Cl. 137—104.)



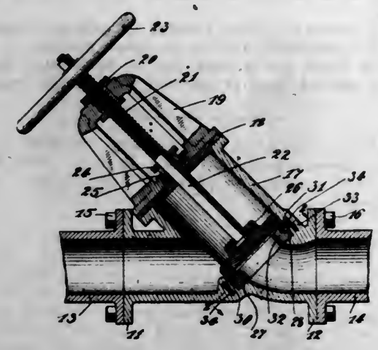
7. In combination, a valve casing, a valve in said casing, an operating arm for said valve, a connecting rod laterally adjustable in said arm, a float-carrying rod longitudinally adjustable in said connecting rod, and a float vertically and angularly adjustable on said carrying rod.

1,457,315. FLUSH VALVE FOR TANKS. PHILIP MUELLER, Decatur, Ill., assignor to Adolph Mueller, trustee, Decatur, Ill. Filed Nov. 12, 1919. Serial No. 337,485. 9 Claims. (Cl. 137—104.)



3. A valve of the class described comprising an inlet stub having an open-ended passage, a valve body, a valve chamber in said body communicating with said passage through an elbow extension, a flow impeding member mounted in said passage, and a closure cap secured to one end of said stub to permit removal of said flow impeding member without disturbing the valve parts.

1,457,316. WINDOW-CONTROL MECHANISM. ARTHUR R. PRICE, Detroit, Mich., assignor of one-half to Secord M. Ross, Detroit, Mich. Filed Apr. 11, 1921. Serial No. 460,539. 1 Claim. (Cl. 268—4.)



In a window control mechanism, the combination with a vertically sliding window member and a chamber receiving said member in its lowered position, of an actuating cable for said window member, a driving sheave in the upper portion of said chamber upon which an intermediate portion of the cable is coiled, one of the coils of said cable being secured to said driving sheave, actuating means for said sheave, a pair of spaced sheaves in the bottom portion of said chamber under which portions of said cable are looped, a pair of axially aligned sheave mounted upon the window member over one of which a portion of said cable is looped intermediate the loops engaging said sheaves in the bottom portion of said chamber, a portion of the cable being looped under the other sheave on said window member, said sheaves upon the window member being engageable between said sheaves in the bottom portion of said chamber in the lower limiting position of said window member.

1,457,317. DRIP COFFEEPOT. DANIEL G. SELL, Kansas City, Mo. Filed July 10, 1922. Serial No. 574,050. 4 Claims. (Cl. 53—3.)

1. A coffee making utensil comprising a water receptacle adapted to be placed over a fire and having its upper end opened, a main receptacle supported on the upper end of the water receiving receptacle and having an opening in its bottom, an auxiliary receptacle disposed within the main receptacle and smaller than the main receptacle, supporting lugs for supporting the bottom of the auxiliary receptacle spaced from the bottom of the main receptacle, a coffee receiving cup disposed within the auxiliary receptacle and extending downwardly through the opening in the bottom of the main receptacle into the water receptacle and a cold water pan supported on the upper end of the main receptacle and extending downwardly into the upper end of the auxiliary receptacle and spaced from the walls thereof.

1,457,318. VALVE. GEORGE F. SHEVLIN, Glens Falls, N. Y. Filed July 22, 1921. Serial No. 486,660. 6 Claims. (Cl. 251—167.)

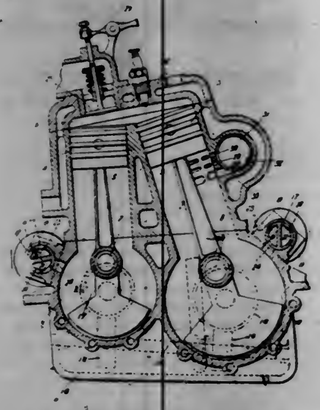
5. In a valve, a casing of relatively soft metal having a seat for a valve seat member, a valve seat member, a ring having an inclined surface cast in the periphery of the valve seat member, a ring member of relatively hard metal embedded in the said casing adjacent the seat for the valve seat member and having a plurality of spaced lugs extending therefrom to approximately the surface of the said casing, and means associated with the said lugs and adjustable to position therein exteriorly of the casing to engage the inclined surface of the ring in the valve seat member to maintain the valve seat member in position and to be disengaged from the valve seat member to permit the removal thereof from the casing.

1,457,319. GROWING OF YEAST. BERT A. STAGNER, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to National Retarder Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Ohio. Filed July 25, 1919. Serial No. 313,332. 4 Claims. (Cl. 195—20.)

1. The method of growing bakers' yeast of good color, odor, and keeping qualities, and having good baking strength in the manufacture of leavened bread, comprising growing said yeast with nutrient mediums containing suitable carbohydrate material and a nitrogenous yeast food made by hydrolyzing collagen containing material with lime and water at an elevated temperature.

1,457,320. GROWING OF YEAST. BERT A. STAGNER, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to National Retarder Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Ohio. Filed July 25, 1919. Serial No. 313,333. 3 Claims. (Cl. 195—20.)

1. The method of growing baker's yeast of good color, odor and keeping qualities, and having good baking strength in the manufacture of leavened bread, comprising growing the said yeast with nutrient mediums containing suitable carbohydrate material and a nitrogenous yeast food made by hydrolyzing elastin containing materials with lime and water at an elevated temperature.

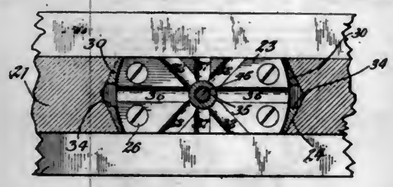


1,457,321. CRAWFISH DESTROYER. BENJAMIN H. STRONG, West Point, Miss. Filed June 29, 1922. Serial No. 571,800. 5 Claims. (Cl. 167—6.)

1. A solid product suitable for killing crawfish and similar borers, which comprises a small amount of a cyanid together with a bonded hard mass of material which is capable of disintegration by water, such mass of material being many times greater than the amount of cyanid, and such solid product being rounded so as to readily roll and of a size adapted to be introduced into and to roll downwardly in a hole of a crawfish.

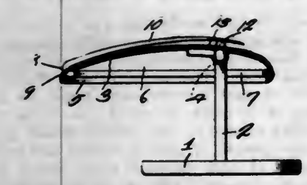
3. A body of generally rounded shape, of a size adapted to be introduced into and to roll downwardly in a crawfish hole, comprising a cyanid and a major portion of a material of a nature which crawfish will not eat.

5. A process of killing crawfish by causing a generation of hydrocyanic acid in the lower portions of the holes in which the crawfish live, by introducing thereinto a rounded mass of material containing a cyanid.



1,457,322. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. ALBERT HOWELL SPROULE, London, England. Filed Oct. 5, 1920. Serial No. 414,851. 20 Claims. (Cl. 123—53.)

1. In an internal combustion engine, having one or more cylinder units, two pistons in each cylinder unit, a common combustion space for the two pistons, two separate cranks, one to each piston, a connection from each piston to its crank, positive gearing between the two cranks so that they will rotate at relatively different speeds, and means to enable one of the pistons to be advanced relatively to the other so as to vary the effective volume of the combustion space to suit different loads and conditions, either during the operative or inoperative periods of the engine.



1,457,323. SASH CENTER. CLINTON D. TABOR, Huntington, N. Y., assignor of one-half to Herman I. Sorensen, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 15, 1921. Serial No. 445,139. 6 Claims. (Cl. 16—142.)

6. A sash center comprising two plates adapted to be connected respectively with the frame and sash of a window, one of said plates having an inwardly dished outer chamber, the bottom of which is provided with a central bearing opening and a plurality of guide openings arranged around said bearing opening, and the other plate being provided with a pivot hub which is journaled in said bearing opening and a plurality of locking grooves which are arranged at different angles, a locking bar arranged between said plates and provided with a rib adapted to engage with one or another of said grooves and also with a plurality of tension pins projecting through said guide openings, a flat metal spring arranged in said outer chamber and engaging different parts of its margin with the ends of said pins, and a bolt arranged in said hub and connecting the central part of said spring with the plate having said hub.

1,457,324. COLLAR BUTTON AND TIE HOLDER. JAMES A. TAYLOR, Waco, Ky. Filed Nov. 2, 1922. Serial No. 598,580. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—63.)

1. A collar button comprising a base, a post carried by said base, a head pivotally mounted on said post, the upper end of the post extending through an aperture in the head, a pin carried by the head and having one of its ends anchored to the head adjacent one side thereof, the free end of the pin extending across the aperture in the head, said upper end of the post forming means whereby upon a movement of the head to a position in parallel relation to the base the free end of the pin will be forced outwardly.

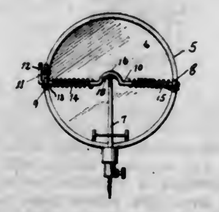
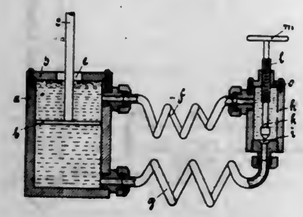
1. In a feed mixing machine, a pair of longitudinally disposed mixing troughs, a conveyer mounted in each trough, said conveyers rotating in opposite directions, and a paddle wheel mounted at an opposite end of each conveyer to rotate therewith for throwing material into the other conveyer, one of said troughs being provided with a discharge opening adjacent one end thereof but out of the zone of the paddle wheel.



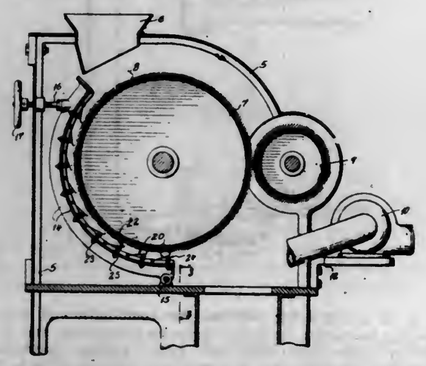
14. In a feed mixing machine, a pair of longitudinally disposed mixing troughs, a conveyer mounted in each trough, said conveyers being geared together and rotating in opposite directions, a paddle wheel mounted at an opposite end of each conveyer and rotatable therewith for throwing material into the other conveyer, an enclosure arranged in superposed relation to said mixing troughs having side and end walls, partition walls extending between said side walls forming a hopper at each end of said enclosure with an intermediate air space, a boiler mounted in said air space having a connection leading to the interior of one of said hoppers, a heating chamber having heat insulated bottom and side walls and being in heat interchanging relationship with the walls of said mixing troughs, a combustion chamber below one of said mixing troughs and communicating with said heating chamber, a steam coil in said combustion chamber having inlet and outlet connections with said boiler, a burner in said combustion chamber and means in said combustion chamber for regulating the heating effect of said burner upon said steam coil.

1,457,326. PROCESS OF AND APPARATUS FOR COOKING FIBROUS MATERIALS. JOHN D. TOMPKINS, Valatie, N. Y. Filed Apr. 12, 1919. Serial No. 289,694. 17 Claims. (Cl. 92—7.)



1. The process of cooking fibrous material consisting in withdrawing gases from the top of the digester and re-introducing them into the bottom thereof by means of a pump, introducing steam into the gases before they reach the pump and using the water of condensation as a compressing member for the gases in the pump.

1,457,327. TONE REGULATOR. CHARLES O. TUCKER, Hutchinson, Kans. Filed Nov. 2, 1921. Serial No. 512,235. 4 Claims. (Cl. 274—27.)

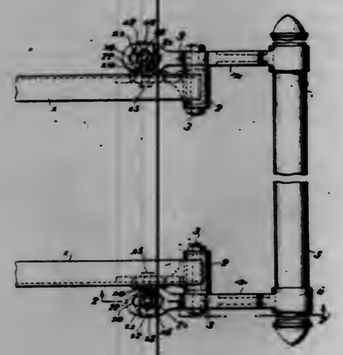


1. The combination with a sound box, a diaphragm and stylus carrying member, of diametrically opposed attaching members formed on the outer periphery of the sound box, teeth formed on one of said attaching members, a transversely extending rod having a bent end adjustable on said teeth and resilient means secured on said rod whereby the contacting pressure with the stylus carrying member may be varied to regulate the volume of tone.

1,457,328. DAMPING DEVICE FOR WEIGHING APPARATUS. CORNELIS FRANCISCUS MARIE VAN BERKEL, Rotterdam, Netherlands, assignor to Maatschappij Tot Vervaardiging van Snijmachines Volgens "Van Berkel's Patent" en van Andere Werktuigen, Rotterdam, South Holland, Netherlands, a Limited Liability Company of The Netherlands. Filed Mar. 30, 1921. Serial No. 457,135. 1 Claim. (Cl. 188—97.)

In weighing apparatus, the combination of a damping cylinder open at its top, a communication between the upper portion of the cylinder and the lower portion of the cylinder including a substantially horizontal pipe leading from the upper portion of the cylinder and a pipe leading from the lower portion of the cylinder and a throttle valve between the said pipes, said throttle valve comprising a casing open at its top and connected near its top with the horizontal pipe and connected near its bottom with the other pipe and means in the casing for controlling the flow of liquid therefrom into the said other pipe and vice versa.

1,457,329. COTTONSEED-LINTING MACHINE. FELIX E. VOORHIES, Dallas, Tex. Filed June 25, 1921. Serial No. 480,332. 3 Claims. (Cl. 19—44.)



1. A cotton seed linting machine comprising a frame support, a plurality of linting blades made of sheet metal and having one edge attached to the frame support, and the other edge turned at an angle with the blade to form a lint cutting edge, and means to force seed over the cutting edge.

1. In a buffer for vehicles, the combination of levers for supporting a buffer bar, means for pivotally supporting said levers intermediate their ends upon the front or rear end portion of a vehicle structure, the inner portions of the said levers being provided with longitudinally extending slots, bolts extending through said slots, means for adjustably supporting the said bolts at their upper ends, the said bolts being adapted to be adjusted in directions at right angles to the slots in said levers, and yielding resilient means secured upon said bolts upon opposite sides of the inner end portions of said levers, substantially as described.

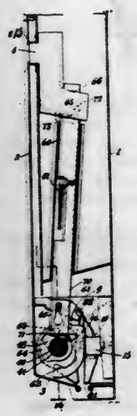
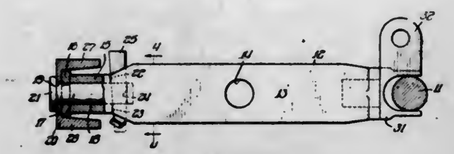
1,457,331. AUTOMOBILE BUFFER. ASTLEY W. WHARTON, Churchville, Pa. Filed Feb. 28, 1923. Serial No. 621,868. 3 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)



1. In a buffer for vehicles, the combination of levers having forwardly extending arms and upwardly and vertically extending arms, the latter having horizontal openings therethrough, a buffer bar supported upon the outer ends of the forwardly extending arms, means for pivotally connecting the said levers at the angles between the said arms to one or the other end portions of a vehicle structure, horizontally extending bolts having connection at their inner ends to the said vehicle structure and at their forward ends extending through the openings in the said vertical arms, elastic sleeves upon said bolts situated intermediate the said arms and the portions of the said vehicle structure to which the said bolts are connected, and means in engagement with the outer ends of said bolts for clamping the said sleeves between the said arms and the said portion of the vehicle structure.

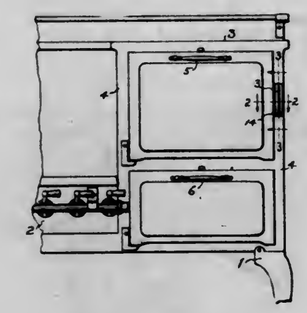
1,457,332. AUTOMOBILE BUFFER. ASTLEY W. WHARTON, Churchville, Pa. Filed Feb. 28, 1923. Serial No. 621,869. 3 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

1. In a buffer for automobiles, the combination of arms, means for connecting the inner ends thereof to an end portion of an automobile structure, projections extending upwardly from said arms, projections upon the automobile structure situated inwardly of and in alinement with the projections upon said arms, both said projections having openings therethrough, bolts extending through the said projections, and elastic means upon said bolts intermediate said projections, substantially as described.



1,457,333. DISPENSING CABINET. SETH WHEELER, Castleton, N. Y. Filed May 25, 1920. Serial No. 384,033. 24 Claims. (Cl. 194—69.)

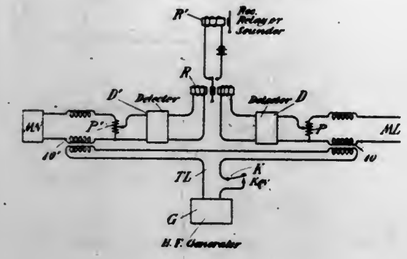
1. In a vending cabinet, a casing, means to maintain articles therein, and means to deliver said articles from said casing comprising a plurality of rollers provided with means to force said rollers apart at a predetermined delivery time.



5. In a vending cabinet, a casing, means to maintain articles therein, and means to deliver said articles from said casing comprising a plurality of rollers provided with guide disks one of which has means to force said rollers apart at the time of delivery.

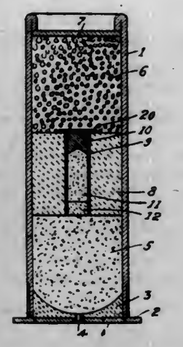
1,457,334. REVERSIBLE FULCRUM. LOREN L. WHITNEY, Hammond, Ind., assignor to American Steel Foundries, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 17, 1921. Serial No. 493,011. 8 Claims. (Cl. 188—232.)

5. In a brake beam, the combination of a compression member, a tension member, a fulcrum bracket extending therebetween and having an end in frictional engagement with one of said members, means extending through one of said members and associated with said fulcrum bracket, means for pressing the aforesaid means and said fulcrum bracket into frictional engagement with one of said members for yieldably retaining said fulcrum bracket in adjusted position, and means for limiting said fulcrum bracket in its reversible movements.



1,457,335. OVEN THERMOMETER. GEORGE D. WILKINSON, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Cribben & Sexton Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Aug. 15, 1921. Serial No. 492,233. 3 Claims. (Cl. 73—119.)

1. A stove having an oven, a front frame for the oven having a countersunk seat, and a thermometer mounted in the seat of the front-frame and having its heat-responding leg extending through said frame and located in the oven.



1,457,336. BALANCING CIRCUITS. HERMAN A. AFFEL, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 30, 1919. Serial No. 327,456. 6 Claims. (Cl. 179—15.)

1. In a signaling system, a transmission circuit, a sending circuit, a receiving circuit, a balancing circuit for balancing said transmission circuit, whereby said sending and receiving circuits may be made substantially conjugate, means for translating signals originating in said sending circuit into high frequency currents, means for translating received high frequency currents into low frequency signaling currents to be transmitted over said receiving circuit, one of said translating means being included in tandem between said transmission circuit and said balancing circuit independently of the corresponding signalling circuit, so that the energy to be balanced undergoes a change of frequency before the balance is effected.

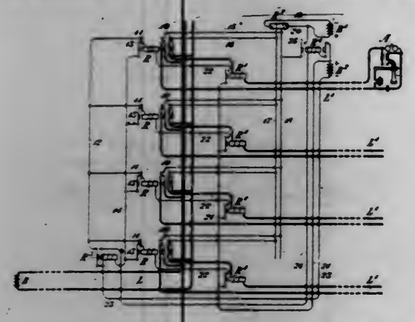
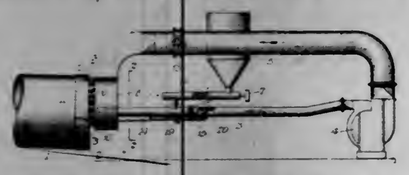
1,457,337. SHOTGUN SHELL. EARLE M. BARROWS, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Jan. 20, 1919. Serial No. 272,130. 14 Claims. (Cl. 102—15.)



11. A device of the class described comprising a wad, a tracer projectile mounted therein for separation therefrom after the wad has passed out of the shell, said projectile having a weighted forward end for directing its flight and containing a combustible composition, with means for delaying the ignition of such composition.

1,457,338. SELECTIVE CONNECTION OF TRUNK LINES. LEON D. BARROWS and LEO H. DARROW, New York, N. Y., assignors to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 1, 1919. Serial No. 286,670. 5 Claims. (Cl. 179—32.)



1. In a telephone system, a plurality of associated stations, a line for connecting said stations to a distant station, talking conductors for each station, relays associated with each of said talking conductors, relays controlled by each of said first mentioned relays, means controlled by said second mentioned relays whereby exclusive connection may be established between any one of the associated stations and distant station, a retardation coil common to said associated stations, and means whereby said retardation coil will be intermittently short circuited through one of its windings and a busy tone transmitted to any of the associated stations upon an attempt to send a call therefrom while the line is in use.

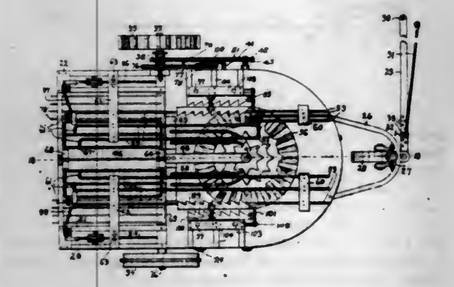
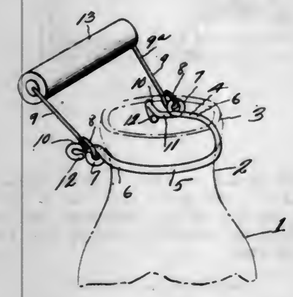
1,457,339. KILN AND BURNER THEREFOR. EDWIN M. BASSLER, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Mar. 22, 1920. Serial No. 367,624. 7 Claims. (Cl. 110—104.)



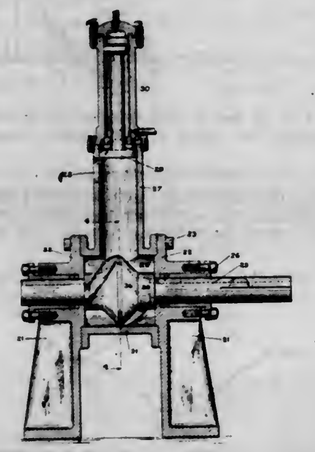
1. The combination of a kiln and a burner therefor, said burner comprising a fuel supply pipe, means for creating a current of air therethrough forming a primary air supply, a header, pipes which connect said header with the interior of the kiln and are spaced radially from said fuel supply pipe, and means for supplying air under pressure to said header forming a secondary air supply, said secondary air supply being of relatively low pressure and large volume as compared with the primary air supply, substantially as described.

1,457,340. SPRING FORMING AND QUENCHING MACHINE. JOHN F. BEANS, Canton, Ohio, assignor to The Beans Spring Company, Massillon, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Oct. 14, 1921. Serial No. 507,674. 9 Claims. (Cl. 266—6.)



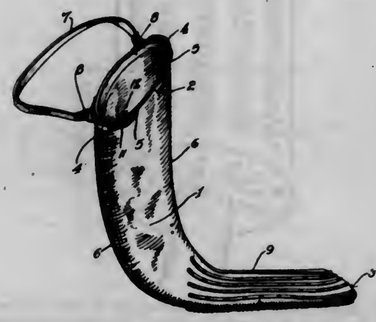
1. A spring forming and quenching machine including a tank containing quenching liquid, a forming head comprising upper and lower jaws mounted for vertical movement into and out of said tank, means connected to the upper jaw for raising and lowering the same, means for suspending the lower jaw from the upper jaw and means independent of the upper jaw for counterbalancing the lower jaw.

1,457,341. HARVESTER. FREDERICK G. BLESSEN, Creston, Nebr. Filed May 10, 1920. Serial No. 380,168. 9 Claims. (Cl. 56—415.)



1. A grain shocker comprising a frame having opposite side channels, feeding means for delivering bundles to one of the channels, means operable upon the filling of said channel to reverse the operation of the feeding means for delivering bundles to the other channel, alternately operable packers for the channels to pack the bundles therein and controlled in operation by the filling of the first channel, and shock dumping means operable upon the filling of the second channel for delivering the packed rows of grain on the ground in interstacked relation.

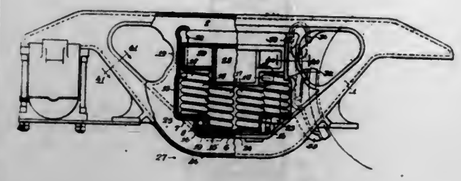
1,457,342. MILK-BOTTLE CARRIER. VICTOR BOULIA, Orwell, Vt. Filed Feb. 14, 1922. Serial No. 536,430. 1 Claim. (Cl. 215—100.)



A bottle carrying device comprising a segmentally shaped neck receiving member formed from spring material, the ends of said segmentally shaped member being bent to form eyes, a bail pivotally connected to said eyes, the ends of the members beyond the eyes being bent inwardly and diverging outwardly, then downwardly and inclining inwardly toward each other beneath the diverging portions thereby forming stiff relatively large bottle neck engaging members between which the bottle neck may be easily forced to its position within the segmentally shaped member.

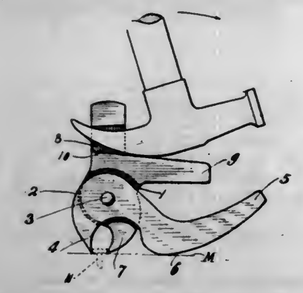
1,457,343. RUBBER MIXER OR LIKE MACHINE. DAVID R. BOWEN, Ansonia, Conn., assignor to Farrel Foundry & Machine Company, Ansonia, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Aug. 27, 1918. Serial No. 251,639. 35 Claims. (Cl. 18—2.)

1. In a rubber mixer or like machine, a working chamber, a rotor therein, means on said rotor constricting the intermediate portion of said chamber to a small extrusion space, and blades on said rotor for causing a mixing extrusion of the material through said space.



1,457,344. PICK SACK. JESSE THOS. CAMPBELL, Hornbeak, Tenn. Filed Apr. 29, 1922. Serial No. 557,353. 2 Claims. (Cl. 150—2.)

1. In a device of the class described, a sack; loop-shaped guides extended around the lateral edges of the sack and connected to the front and back of the sack in spaced relation to the lateral edges of the sack; a sling; and means for mounting the ends of the sling slidably on the guides.



1,457,345. CAR TRUCK. GEORGE S. CHILES, Chicago, Ill., assignor of one-half to John W. Dalman, Chicago, Ill. Filed Jan. 8, 1923. Serial No. 611,387. 93 Claims. (Cl. 105—197.)

1. In a structure of the class described, a side-frame comprising an upper compression member, a lower tension member and columns, a spring assemblage supported on said tension member between said columns, said assemblage comprising two end springs, a central group of springs some of which are offset from the straight line between the centers of said end springs, the part of said tension member on which said end springs rest being at a higher level than the intermediate part on which said central group rests.

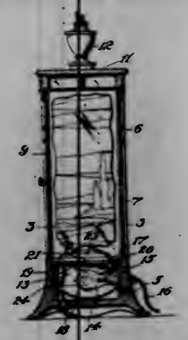
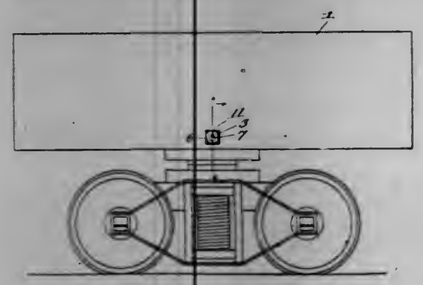
1,457,346. NAIL PULLER. HARLON A. CLIFFORD, Greenfield, Mass., assignor to Emma D. Clifford, Greenfield, Mass. Filed June 7, 1920. Serial No. 387,006. 1 Claim. (Cl. 254—23.)



A nail puller including opposed body members which are pivotally united, one of the body members having opposed recesses formed therein, a relatively long arm extending from the body member and positioned so that one longitudinal face coincides with the inner end walls of the recesses, a gripping jaw extending from the body member, the opposed body member having a gripping jaw and a fulcrum foot, the fulcrum foot having its face which engages the material from which the nail is to be pulled formed to present a compound curve of such configuration that the curves of least radii are positioned adjacent the jaws and the curves of greatest radii being positioned away from said jaws, the point of initial contact between the fulcrum foot and the said material being located beneath the said arm.

1,457,347. TELEPHONE CABINET OR HOUSING. FRANK COLLINS, New York, N. Y. Filed Sept. 8, 1921. Serial No. 499,168. 3 Claims. (Cl. 240—2.)



1. A cabinet for a telephone instrument or the like having a main telephone receiving compartment provided with translucent glass side panels and a second compartment at one end of said main compartment, said compartments being separated from each other by a glass plate, an electric lamp arranged in said second compartment, and a switch for closing the lamp circuit located in said second compartment and having a part projecting into the main compartment, said switch adapted to be closed when the telephone is arranged in the main compartment whereby the light rays from said lamp are projected through said glass plate to illuminate the interior of the main compartment.

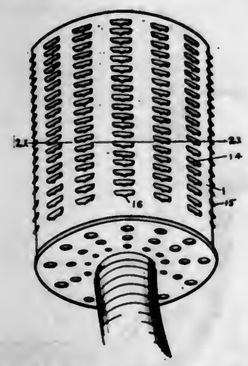
1,457,348. CHECK LOCK. WILLIAM J. CONNELL, Huntington, W. Va. Filed Feb. 25, 1922. Serial No. 539,221. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—15.)

In combination with a dump car, of means for locking a check key thereto, comprising a cylindrical casing received through one side of the car, an annular flange formed with the casing adjacent to its inner end, a face plate threadedly secured to its outer end, and having a notched opening registering with the bore of said casing but being of less area than that of said bore, a barrel received in the casing having an inner reduced end projecting through the inner end of the casing and being provided with a longitudinal slot designed to register with the notch when the barrel is in one position, a laterally extending head carried by the projecting end of the barrel, said casing being provided with a semi-circular groove which communicates with a longitudinal slot entering from the outer end thereof and said slot being aligned with the notch in the face plate whereby a key may be inserted through the notch, the longitudinal slot of the casing and the slot of the barrel respectively to turn the lateral extending head through the medium of the barrel to a position to be contacted by the load in the car, as and for the purpose specified.

1,457,349. PAPER-MAKING MACHINE. WILLIS S. CRANDELL, Elsmere, N. Y. Filed May 28, 1921. Serial No. 473,435. 14 Claims. (Cl. 92—43.)

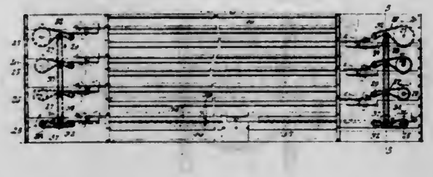
1. In a cylinder paper machine, bottom and side confining walls providing a passage for the flow of a fibre bearing liquid, a cylinder mould having its lower portion immersed and rotating in said passage, a flat shelf disposed in a substantially horizontal plane in said passage on the upstream side of said cylinder mould, and dividing said passage and having its rear edge free, said shelf being adapted to extinguish currents or eddies in the fibre bearing liquid in its flow to said cylinder mould and means for supplying said liquid to said passage beneath said shelf.



1,457,350. ORNAMENTAL AND SUPPORTING ARTICLE. FEDORA DAMIANO, Cambridge, Mass. Filed Nov. 8, 1921. Serial No. 513,741. 1 Claim. (Cl. 63—1.)

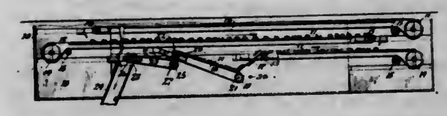
An article of jewelry, comprising a combined ornamental necklace, having a pendant, and a plurality of apparel clasps arranged in balanced position secured to the necklace and adapted to hold both the necklace and the pendant in predetermined position.

1,457,351. AIR FILTER. LEWIS L. DOLLINGER, Rochester, N. Y. Filed Jan. 9, 1922. Serial No. 528,086. 3 Claims. (Cl. 183—67.)



1. In an air filter, the combination of an outer cylinder having a series of openings therein, tongues overhanging each of the openings in said cylinder on the outside thereof, said tongues being struck up from the outer cylinder to form the openings therein and being inclined downwardly from the top of each of the openings, a filtering screen mounted within said cylinder and means whereby air is drawn from the outside of said outer cylinder through said filtering screen.

1,457,352. APPARATUS FOR CONVEYING AND SPACING ARTICLES. CHARLES H. DREHER, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Jan. 16, 1922. Serial No. 529,502. 8 Claims. (Cl. 198—76.)



1. An apparatus of the character described, comprising an endless conveyer belt, pulleys around which opposite turns of said belt passes, a driven sprocket wheel connected with one of said pulleys, an idle sprocket wheel, a driving sprocket wheel arranged between said driven and idle sprocket wheels, and a chain belt passing with opposite turns around said driven and idle sprocket wheels and engaging one of its stretches with said driving sprocket wheel.

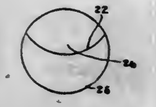
1,457,353. APPARATUS FOR SPACING ARTICLES. CHARLES H. DREHER, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed July 25, 1922. Serial No. 577,437. 5 Claims. (Cl. 198—34.)

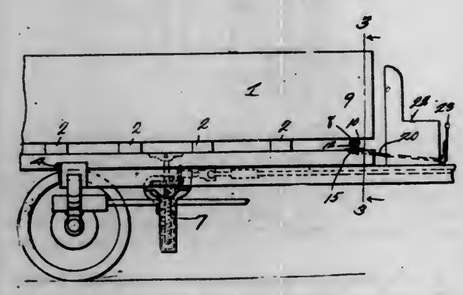


1. An apparatus of the character described, comprising a stationary incline which receives articles to be spaced irregularly from a source of supply, a gathering conveyer which receives the articles from said incline, and a spreading conveyer which receives said articles from said gathering conveyer, said spreading conveyer having a faster propelling effect than said gathering conveyer.

1,457,354. GRAMOPHONE REPEATING DEVICE. ALFRED EDWARD FISHER, Oshawa, Ontario, Canada. Filed July 18, 1922. Serial No. 575,702. 7 Claims. (Cl. 274—15.)

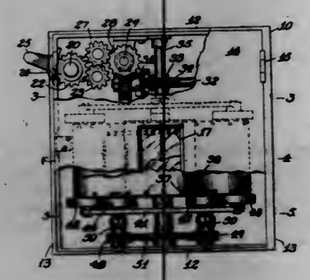
1. In a gramophone repeating device, the combination with the sound box and record, of a bracket secured to the sound box, an arm pivotally mounted on the bracket, a wheel journalled on the free end of the arm, the wheel engaging the record upon the arm being swung into the operative position and elevating the sound box with the consequent disengagement of the needle from the record, a shoulder on the bracket and a shoulder on the arm engaging each other upon the arm being swung into the operative position.

1,457,355. BIFOCAL EYEGLASS LENS. WILLIAM F. FISHER, Minneapolis, Minn. Original application filed May 12, 1920, Serial No. 380,729. Divided and this application filed Apr. 23, 1923. Serial No. 634,136. 1 Claim. (Cl. 88—164.)



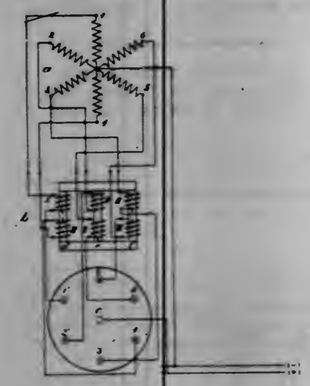
A one-piece bifocal minus eye-glass lens for myopic corrections having a lower reading portion and an upper distance portion separated from each other by a fine hair line, both of said portions having optical centers of their own located in the thinnest points of said portions, respectively, and on opposite sides of said line.

1,457,356. TENNIS AND OTHER RACKET PRESS AND CASE AND THE LIKE. ALEXANDER FORBES, Hampstead, London, England. Filed Jan. 24, 1922. Serial No. 531,412. 4 Claims. (Cl. 46—24.)



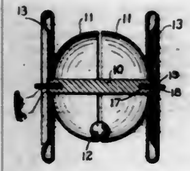
1. A racket press comprising a frame, provided with flange portions lying in a single plane and adapted to engage one face of the racket, and a perpendicular flange united thereto and curved to conform to the exterior edge of the racket frame, and retaining bars extending across the frame and provided with means for securing them adjacent to their ends to opposite portions of the said frame.

1,457,357. WAGON-DUMP-BODY LATCH. HOMER G. FRAZIER, La Fayette, Ind. Filed Aug. 10, 1922. Serial No. 580,890. 2 Claims. (Cl. 298—38.)



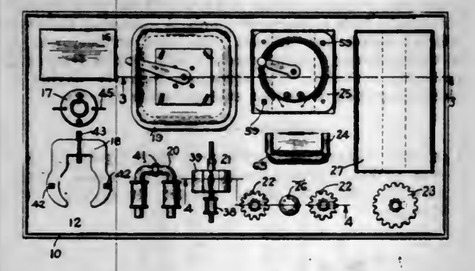
1. The combination with a pivoted dump body carried by a frame, of latching means carried by the opposite sides of the frame, said latching means comprising downwardly and outwardly extending pivoted dogs in the path of the side rails of the body, spring means for normally forcing said dogs outwardly, plates carried by the upper sides of the side rails of the body and adapted to be engaged by the pivoted dogs, said pivoted dogs and plates being provided with eccentric engaging surfaces.

1,457,358. AUTOMATICALLY-OPERATED ROAD MAP FOR MOTOR VEHICLES. RICHARDS C. FULTON, White Plains, N. Y. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 553,038. 17 Claims. (Cl. 40—42.)



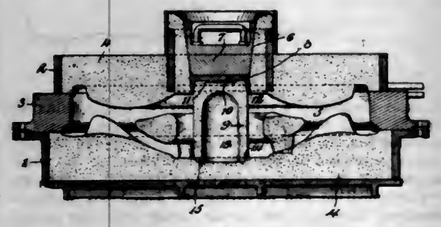
6. An automatically operated touring guide device for motor vehicles, comprising a suitable casing, means for detachably and movably mounting a tour designating element in said casing, said element being adapted to be passed over and moved by a drum and being visible through the casing, a shaft mounted in the casing and driven by a rotatable member of a vehicle, a lever rotatably mounted on said shaft and carrying a plurality of gears adapted to mesh with and be driven by a gear on said shaft, and means involving other gears mounted in the casing for driving said drum through the gears on said lever.

1,457,359. SYSTEM OF CONNECTIONS FOR MULTIPHASE CHOKING COILS. ARTHUR GAUDENZI, Baden, Switzerland, assignor to Aktiengesellschaft Brown Boveri & Cie, Baden, Switzerland. Filed Aug. 29, 1921. Serial No. 496,560. 2 Claims. (Cl. 175—363.)



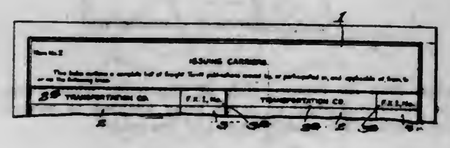
1. In a system of connections for multiphase choking coils having a common iron core provided with columns and the coils of at least two different phases on each column for the operation of rectifiers, the combination that the coils situated on a column produce therein either individually or in groups magnetic fluxes in opposed directions and the magnetic flux produced in this column by coils of the other columns immediately before and after its own magnetization has the same direction as but smaller ordinates than the flux produced by its own coils in such a manner that the time course of the magnetic flux in each column will be approximately in the form of a sine function.

1,457,360. FLOOR CHIME. ALFRED C. GILBERT, New Haven, Conn., assignor to The A. C. Gilbert Company, New Haven, Conn. Filed Nov. 19, 1920. Serial No. 425,116. 2 Claims. (Cl. 46—47.)



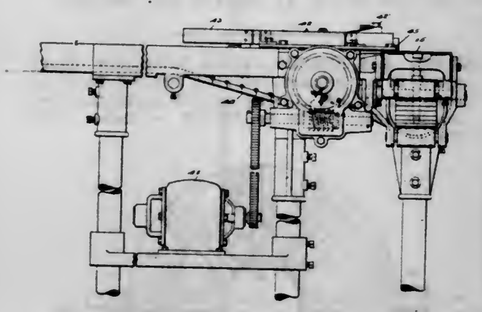
1. In a bell toy, a one-piece axle provided with reduced end portions each formed with an outwardly facing shoulder, bell sections having apertures by which they are fitted over said reduced end portions against said shoulders, wheels having apertures by which they are fitted over said reduced end portions outside of but against the respective bell sections, each extremity of said axle having a laterally spun portion presenting a flange clamping the corresponding wheel and bell section tightly against the shoulder so as to secure said parts tightly on the axle, a bail, and means for securing the bail to the axle ends.

1,457,361. CONTAINER FOR TOY SETS AND THE LIKE. ALFRED C. GILBERT, New Haven, Conn., assignor to the A. C. Gilbert Company, New Haven, Conn. Filed Jan. 17, 1921. Serial No. 437,808. 9 Claims. (Cl. 206—1.)



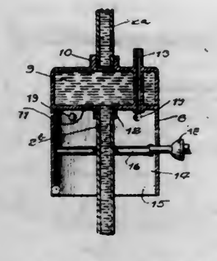
1. In a container for toy sets or the like, a supporting member provided with a pair of slots, the body of said member being cut therebetween to form a tongue, and an object, portions of which are received in said slots and held against removal by said tongue.

1,457,362. MOLD FOR MAKING METAL CASTINGS. JAMES EDWARD GOENS, Roanoke, Va. Filed Feb. 14, 1922. Serial No. 536,598. 7 Claims. (Cl. 22—128.)



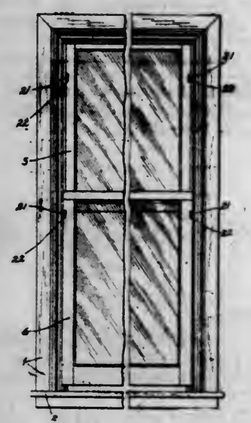
1. In a mold for casting annular objects, a hollow center core made of molding sand and shaped somewhat like a cup, said core having an annular shoulder and a tapering extremity on its lower and open end beyond the shoulder which open end is supported and closed by the sand in the drag, the tapering extremity entering therein, and having a dome-shaped closed upper end upon which the molten metal may be poured.

1,457,363. CONSOLIDATED TARIFF INDEX. CHARLES B. GUTHRIE, Washington, D. C. Filed Feb. 23, 1922. Serial No. 538,647. 3 Claims. (Cl. 283—32.)



1. A consolidated index comprising groups of leaves bearing suitable printed matter arranged to form separate tariff sections which relate to various kinds of commodity tariffs, each of said tariff sections being provided with key symbols that are arranged to show the carriers that participate in certain tariffs as initial or originating carriers, and a separate section which is arranged to show tariffs applicable in the reverse direction where the carriers in a particular territory are delivering carriers, and key symbols to indicate initial, intermediate, or terminal carriers, and the cross reference in the tariff section of the index for showing the co-relation between the key symbols therein, and the symbols in the section that contains the description of the tariffs.

1,457,364. CONVEYER SYSTEM. GEORGE H. HALLOCK, GEORGE F. FREDERICK, and BENJAMIN H. PURCELL, Terre Haute, Ind., assignors to Automatic Machinery Company, Terre Haute, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Sept. 15, 1919. Serial No. 323,964. 9 Claims. (Cl. 198—81.)

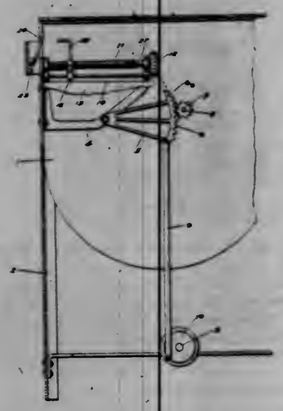


1. The combination with a main conveyer, of a feeding conveyer leading laterally to the main conveyer, a rotary transfer disk arranged in a corner between said conveyers for frictional reception of articles, means for rotating said disk, an obstructer arranged adjacent the disk in the line of travel of articles on the disk, means for normally restraining said obstructer in obstructing position, and means synchronized with the main conveyer for intermittently withdrawing the restraining means.

1,457,365. GAS WATER HEATER. JOHN G. HAUS, Weirton, W. Va. Filed Feb. 21, 1922. Serial No. 538,358. 2 Claims. (Cl. 126—350.)

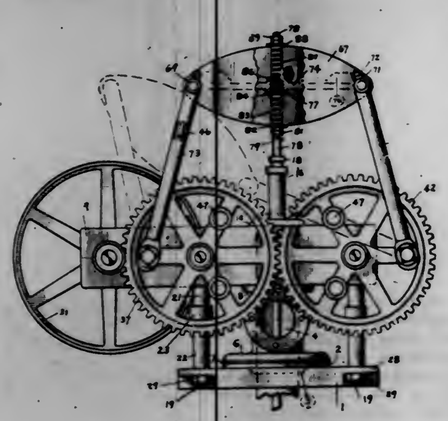
1. A device of the character described, consisting of a cylindrically formed member having a water compartment in its upper end, and a heating chamber, a boiler and means whereby the water may have free circulation between said boiler and said chamber, a gas burner in said cylinder below said compartment, said means embracing water pipe one portion of which projects through said burner.

1,457,366. WINDOW CONSTRUCTION. ALBERT VICTOR HORNER, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed Dec. 6, 1921. Serial No. 520,425. 6 Claims. (Cl. 20—149.)



1. In window construction, the combination with a window frame having sashes movably mounted therein, and slides interposed between the sashes and the jambs of the frame, of means for detachably hinging the sashes to the slides and means constituting part of the hinging means for locking the sashes against opening more than a predetermined extent.

1,457,367. AUTOMATIC CONTROL DEVICE FOR WASHING MACHINES. HENRY W. HUBERS, Davenport, Iowa. Filed Oct. 23, 1920. Serial No. 419,068. 3 Claims. (Cl. 192—141.)



1. In a washing machine, in combination with the electrically controlled operating mechanism thereof, a threaded shaft rotatably mounted in proximity to said operating mechanism, and provided with a blank portion at one of its ends; a traveler releasably connected with said shaft, so as to be capable of being shifted from one point to another thereon, and adapted to be moved longitudinally thereof upon said shaft being suitably rotated; a switch at the end of movement of said traveler, connected with the electrical devices controlling said operating mechanism, and adapted to be opened by said traveler at the end of its movement; and means for communicating the movement of said operating mechanism to said shaft to impart an intermittent rotation thereto.

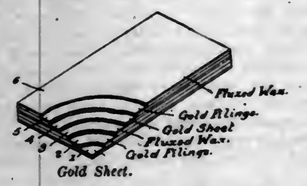
1,457,368. PUMP. SAMUEL E. HUNTTING, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Aug. 11, 1921. Serial No. 491,457. 9 Claims. (Cl. 103—205.)

1. In a pump mechanism, a cross head and a pump rod adapted to be reciprocated by four connecting rods, and four cranks adapted to drive said connecting rods.



1,457,369. MANUFACTURE OF WALL PAPER. HERBERT C. JARVIS, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed Jan. 30, 1922. Serial No. 532,737. 5 Claims. (Cl. 101—426.)

1. A process of printing a strip of wall paper which consists in superimposing the strip of wall paper on another strip of paper and printing said strip of wall paper with a printing roller having its printing surface wider than the exposed strip of wall paper when hung, the underlying strip of paper being adapted to receive the imprint of a projecting end of the roller.

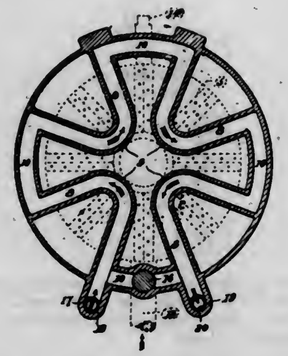
1,457,370. MOLDING SUBSTANCE FOR DENTAL AND OTHER USES AND PROCESS FOR MAKING SAME. RICHARD H. JEFFERIES, Richmond, Va. Filed Apr. 21, 1921. Serial No. 463,332. 8 Claims. (Cl. 148—32.)

1. A substance of the class described comprising a metallic base, and a layer carried by said base and consisting of a mixture of fluxed wax and solder.

5. The herein described process of forming a molding material or substance, consisting in placing upon a metal base plate, layers of flux, wax and small particles of a metal of a lower melting point than the metal of said base plate, and then raising the temperature of the whole mass sufficient to melt the wax and cause it and the flux and said particles to adhere to said base plate.



1,457,371. GAS BURNER. JAMES E. KENNEDY, Washington, D. C. Original application filed Oct. 20, 1921, Serial No. 511,283. Divided and this application filed Apr. 29, 1922. Serial No. 557,256. 4 Claims. (Cl. 158—99.)

4. A gas burner including a cast upper section having radial burner members connected by outwardly inclined webs and provided with inner and outer walls, the inner wall defining a central opening in the upper section, and a sheet metal disk having a central opening with its inner and outer margins flanged over the inner and outer walls of said upper section into gas-tight contact therewith.

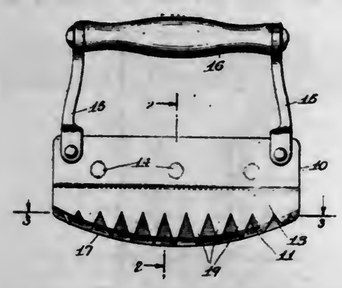
1,457,372. WATER-HEATING GRID. JAMES E. KENNEDY, Washington, D. C. Filed Apr. 29, 1922. Serial No. 557,257. 7 Claims. (Cl. 126—53.)

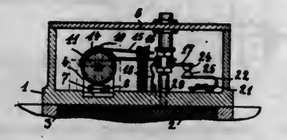


1. A water heating grid for gas stoves and the like embodying a grid plate with a central opening and inwardly projecting heat radiating fins extending inwardly of said opening, tubular connections provided alternately between the inner and outer ends of the fins forming a continuous circulatory tortuous passage for water, means providing a partition between two adjacent fins, and means to respectively connect said two fins internally with water supply and delivery pipes.

1,457,373. FISHHOOK. FRITZ KESSEL, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 26, 1921. Serial No. 510,543. 1 Claim. (Cl. 43—38.)

The combination with a fish hook, having a shank and a barb, a pair of spring arms attached to the upper portion of the shank and disposed in a plane which intersects the shank at an acute angle and passes a substantial distance over the barb of the hook, said arms diverging from the shank and extending a substantial distance beyond said barb, said arms each comprising a length of relative thin spring wire bent back at its middle portion upon itself and being twisted from end to end of the arm for imparting the required thickness and rigidity to the arm and the twists being sufficiently close to permit the required flexing of the arm from end to end when subjected to impact and pressure.

1,457,374. CHOPPER. ALBERT LAZARUS, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 26, 1922. Serial No. 608,848. 7 Claims. (Cl. 146—210.)

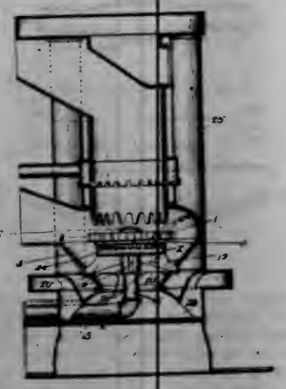


1. A chopper of the class described comprising a chopper body composed of a central blade member having a continuous cutting edge and other blade members mounted at the opposite sides of the central blade member and spaced therefrom, said last named blade members being provided with a plurality of spaced chopper blades.

1,457,375. MOLD MIXTURE. VICTOR LOUGHEED, San Francisco, Calif., assignor to Enterprise Foundry Company, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Aug. 18, 1919. Serial No. 318,209. 3 Claims. (Cl. 22—188.)

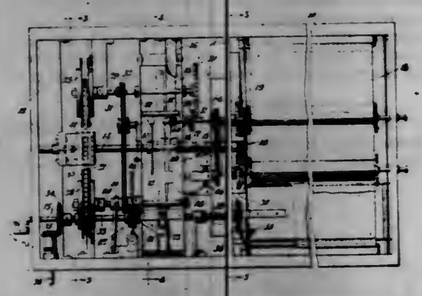
1. A porous mold for casting metal, said mold being composed mainly of a refractory porous substance and containing calcium sulphate limited in quantity to that sufficient for binding together the said substance without destroying its porosity, and a basic substance capable of combining with the trioxide element of the binder and limited in quantity to that sufficient to render said element non-reactive with respect to the metal to be cast.

1,457,376. THERMOSTATIC CIRCUIT CLOSER. ADOLF LUDI, Grenchen, Switzerland. Filed June 14, 1921. Serial No. 484,791. 3 Claims. (Cl. 200—139.)



1. A thermostatic circuit closer comprising a stationary contact, a slotted gudgeon, a contact arm of a switch sleeved with a slotted end on said gudgeon a pusher for moving the contact arm to contacting position, a spring resting against said arm biasing it to open position, a bar compounded of two parallel metal strips of different coefficient of expansion passing close to said slotted sleeve and kept fast at one end so as to bend, when getting heated, a stud fixed to the free end of said bar, traversing the slotted gudgeon and the slotted sleeve and projecting beyond the sleeve, and a flat spring fast to said arm resting with a sharp edge against the projecting end of the stud, but left free at the withdrawal of the same by the bending bar, and adapted to slip over the replaced stud when the arm is brought back again by said pusher into its contacting position.

1,457,377. GRATE. GEORGE A. MACKENZIE, Bay City, Mich. Filed Apr. 28, 1919. Serial No. 293,349. 4 Claims. (Cl. 126—170.)



1. In a furnace, a grate body having spaced depending flanges, a support for said grate body having hollow arms and a hollow ring mounted on the outer ends of the arms and communicating therewith, said ring having an upstanding flange adapted to fit against one of the flanges of said grate body and the flange of the ring having openings therethrough, a cover for closing the upper sides of said arms and having a flange arranged to engage the other flange of the grate body and having openings therethrough, and means for placing the hollow arms in communication with a source of heated air.

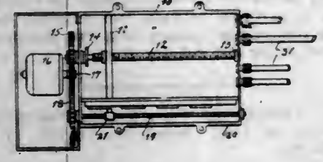
1,457,378. STATION INDICATOR. STEVE MAJKA and PETER BOROWSKY, Dover, N. H. Filed Apr. 6, 1922. Serial No. 550,054. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—42.)

A station indicator comprising a compartmented casing, a pair of winding rolls, a web wound thereon, means for distending said web, all of said elements being in one compartment, a drive shaft actuated by the wheels of the vehicle carrying the indicator, means for disengaging the connections therebetween, means for manually rotating said shaft when disconnected, a second shaft positively driven from the first shaft, an intermediate shaft, a toothed collar fixed thereon, a perforate band, drums fixed on the first and second shafts on which said band is wound, said band engaging the toothed collar to rotate the intermediate shaft, and a gear train driven by said intermediate shaft, communicating rotary motion to said winding rolls.



1,457,379. CAN LIFTER. PERRY D. MABEAU, Binghamton, N. Y. Filed Mar. 3, 1920. Serial No. 362,923. 1 Claim. (Cl. 294—100.)

A jar lifter comprising a pair of jaw members formed from a single piece of wire bent upon itself intermediate its ends to form a spring bow member provided at its apex with an eye and bent below the apex to form shoulders to be engaged by the fingers, said jaw members being formed by looping the wire at its ends and bending the same into arcuate shape to conform to the neck of a jar with the sides of the wire forming the loops of the jaw members disposed in the same horizontal plane and a rod extending through the eye in the spring bow and provided with a sliding member for expanding and contacting the jaw members.

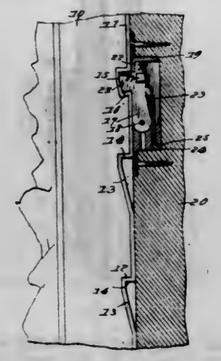
1,457,380. MEANS FOR DISTRIBUTING LUBRICATING GREASE. WILLIAM METZGER, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 23, 1922. Serial No. 538,511. 3 Claims. (Cl. 184—7.)

1. Means for distributing lubricating grease comprising a container, a piston operable therein, a motor mounted upon said container for operating said piston and a movable contact member upon said container for controlling the operation of said motor, the said contact member being operated by the piston operating means.



1,457,381. DYNAMO-ELECTRIC MACHINE. ALBERT HENRY MIDGLEY, Uxbridge, England. Filed Apr. 3, 1922. Serial No. 549,326. 2 Claims. (Cl. 171—223.)

1. A dynamo electric machine having one of its field poles sub-divided circumferentially, means for exciting the leading part of said pole from an approximately constant voltage, and the trailing part of the pole being excited from the armature conductors lying under the pole face of the leading part.

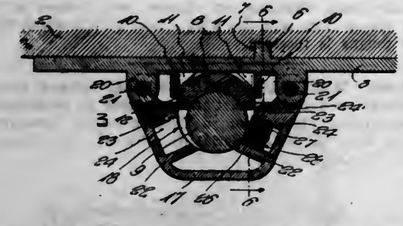
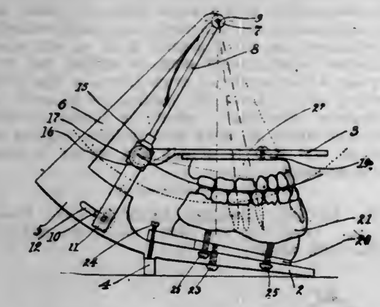
1,457,382. SASH LOCK AND HOLDER. MOSES A. MILLER, St. Albans, Vt. Filed Dec. 3, 1921. Serial No. 519,750. 3 Claims. (Cl. 292—127.)



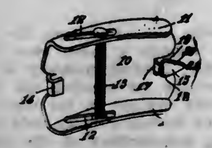
1. In a sash lock and holder, a sash having a face plate with recesses formed therein with shoulders at the upper ends of the recesses and a recess having an inclined shoulder at its lower end, a dog pivotally mounted in a window casing and having a nose projecting therefrom adapted to enter the recesses of the face plate, the said dog having a lower edge adapted to engage the inclined shoulder of one of the recesses and a straight upper edge adapted to engage the shoulders of the other recesses, means for urging the nose of the dog into operative relation with the said shoulders, a laterally extending arm carried by the dog, and manually operated means engaging the arm for pushing the dog against the action of the said urging means.

1,457,383. PUZZLE. WILLIAM H. MILLER, Hillsboro, Ill. Filed Aug. 18, 1920. Serial No. 404,401. 32 Claims. (Cl. 46—41.)



1. A puzzle comprising a set of numbers to be arranged in a pattern, and a second fixed pattern adapted for superposition thereon and individually defining certain number locations such that an arithmetical operation performed upon the numbers common to both patterns will yield a constant result irrespective of the relative positions of said patterns.

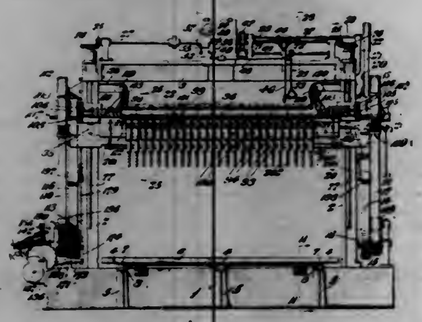
1,457,384. BEARING BOX FOR MINE CARS. WILLIAM R. MILLER, Park Place, Pa. Filed Sept. 15, 1921. Serial No. 501,009. 2 Claims. (Cl. 64—10.)



1. An axle mounting comprising a support, a housing having its end portions pivotally and removably connected with said support whereby either end of said housing may be released and swung downwardly to an inoperative position, said housing having end walls recessed to receive an axle and uppper and lower partitions in the side portions of said housing forming brush-receiving pockets extending longitudinally in the side portions of the housing and intermediate the height thereof and between the end walls thereof.

1,457,385. DENTAL ARTICULATOR. GEORGE S. MONSON, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Nov. 26, 1918. Serial No. 264,192. 15 Claims. (Cl. 32—1.)

8. A dental articulator comprising a jaw model carrier, an oblique pivot arm carried by said carrier, the axis of said pivot arm coinciding with the radius of a sphere the centre of which is above and approximately equidistant from the condyle centres and from the occlusal surfaces of all the teeth in a normal human jaw, said pivot arm being guided to move angularly about said centre in a vertical plane in the medial line of occlusion of said teeth, a co-operating jaw model carrier carried by said pivot arm and hinged thereto to afford relative movement of one of said jaw model carriers toward and away from the other, as in simple occlusion.



1,457,386. BELT BUCKLE. WILLIAM M. MYERS, Hannibal, Mo. Filed Mar. 13, 1922. Serial No. 543,312. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—194.)

1. A belt buckle comprising a body of plate-like form provided at its edges with flanges formed with inclined slots, a lock-bar slidable along said slots, tongues formed on the ends of the body and bent backwardly with respect thereto and lying substantially parallel therewith, and a strap disposed against the rear side of the body with one end abuttingly engaging one tongue and formed at a point spaced from said end with a hole within which the other tongue is received.

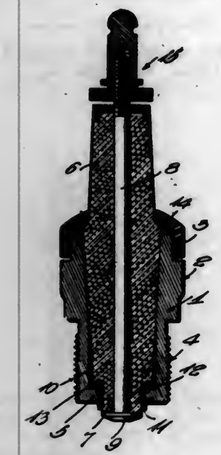
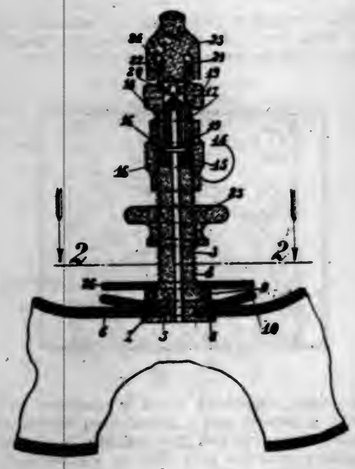
1,457,387. MULTIPLE-SPINDLE DRILL. FRANK EGON NEITZEL, San Francisco, Calif., assignor to Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 12, 1921. Serial No. 451,737. 16 Claims. (Cl. 77—22.)



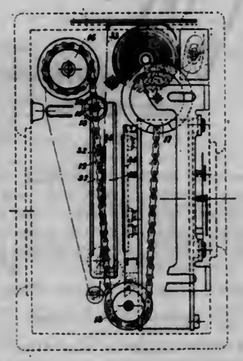
1. The combination with a work table, of a shaft operatively connected with it to feed it, a clutch comprising a continuously revolving member loose on said shaft and a member keyed to said shaft, a shifting rod connected to said keyed member, a drum driven by said shaft and having a stop to move said shifting rod to open the clutch members, a spring to effect the closing of said members, and means to move said shifting rod out of the path of said stop to permit said spring to close said clutch members.

1,457,388. DECOY. EARNEST NEWMAN, Lake Providence, La. Filed Aug. 31, 1922. Serial No. 585,506. 1 Claim. (Cl. 43—3.)



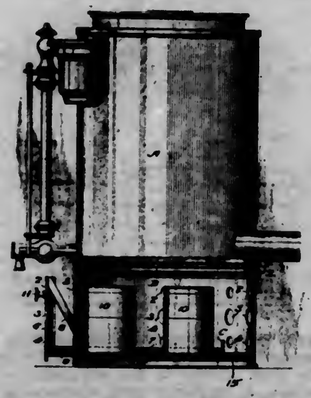
A decoy comprising opposed sections, the sections being constructed to simulate a goose, when the sections are brought together, latching members at the upper portion of the sections for securing the sections together, bolts disposed adjacent to the lower portion of the sections, a band having openings, said band adapted to engage the undersurfaces of the sections, the openings adapted to receive the bolts to secure the sections together, and a rod having connection with the band to provide a support for the decoy.

1,457,389. SPARK PLUG. LE ROY L. PETTY, Phoenix, Ariz., and PAUL E. KELLER, Marion, Ohio. Filed May 16, 1921. Serial No. 470,043. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—169.)



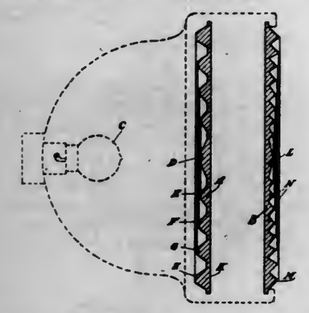
A spark plug comprising a metallic shell having an inturned annular flange at its lower end forming a shoulder, a metal bushing aranged inside of the shell and tightly contacting the inner wall thereof and provided intermediate its ends with a shoulder resting on the first named shoulder and having a reduced neck extending through the lower end of the shell beyond said flange, a body of insulating material fitted snugly inside of the shell and having its lower end reduce in diameter and extending through and beyond the aforesaid neck, and an electrode embedded in said body and having a head on its lower end bearing against and of the same diameter as the reduced end of the body.

1,457,390. VALVE FOR PNEUMATIC TIRES. HECTOR PLASSCHAERT, Wachtebeke-Lez-Gand, Belgium. Filed Aug. 18, 1920. Serial No. 404,382. 3 Claims. (Cl. 152—12.)



1. A valve tube having means to attach the same to a tire, a coupling sleve screwed to the valve tube, a valve casing screwed to the coupling sleeve, and having a valve seat, a plunger mounted in the valve casing, having guides and also having a pointed end to close against the valve seat, and a cap screwed to the valve casing and arranged to close hermetically against the outer side of the valve seat.

1,457,391. PRINTING MECHANISM FOR REGISTERING MACHINES. HECTOR PLASSCHAERT, Wachtebeke-Lez-Gand, Belgium. Filed June 1, 1921. Serial No. 474,255. 4 Claims. (Cl. 234—36.)



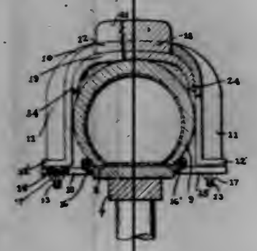
1. Printing mechanism of the class described, comprising a drum, spring rotated in one direction, a counter drum, flexible elements connecting said drums, a roller carried by said flexible elements and movable therewith back and forth between the drums, a runway for the roller arranged at an angle to said flexible elements to cause said roller to move on one side thereof as said roller travels from the drum to the counter drum and to move on the opposite side thereof as said roller travels in the reverse direction, and a printing element, opposite the last named side of the runway and against which said roller imparts a printing impression as said roller travels from the counter drum to the drum.

1,457,392. COFFEE URN. ISAAC C. POPPER, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Theroz Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 30, 1920. Serial No. 427,292. 1 Claim. (Cl. 53—3.)

A coffee urn made in two interfitting sections forming continuations of each other, one an urn proper, and the other a combustion-chamber, the bottom or combustion chamber having an opening at the side, and a drawer fitted to slide in and out through said opening and constructed and arranged to receive, hold and properly place cans of fuel beneath the urn when the drawer is slid in place.

1,457,393. DUPLEX LENS. ARTHUR WILLIAM POUGHER, Manchester, England. Filed June 1, 1922. Serial No. 565,225. 3 Claims. (Cl. 240—48.4.)

1. Means for preventing dazzle in lamps in which a pair of lenses are employed, such lenses having prisms formed thereon, characterised in that the lenses are spaced apart and the prisms formed thereon comprise a plurality of concentric prisms the two innermost and opposite prisms being so shaped that rays of light passing therethrough from the source of light do not intersect and are emitted divergently from the prisms furthest from the source of light, whilst the remaining prisms are so shaped that the rays of light emanating from the source of light are directed from such latter prisms in such directions that they intersect and are diffused, whereby the light emitted from the lamp comprises two concentric beams of light, the inner being stronger than the outer for the purpose specified.



1,457,394. UNDERGARMENT. CELIA REICH, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed July 21, 1921. Serial No. 486,432. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—144.)

A one-piece garment comprising a pair of bloomers and a camisole, the rear portion of the bloomers being separated from the adjacent portion of the camisole and bifurcated along the hip lines vertically to provide a flap, the upper edge of the flap carrying a body-encircling elastic band while the lower rear marginal edge of the camisole is provided with an elastic band extending from one bifurcation to the opposite bifurcation, the portion of the marginal edge which extends forwardly being inelastic.

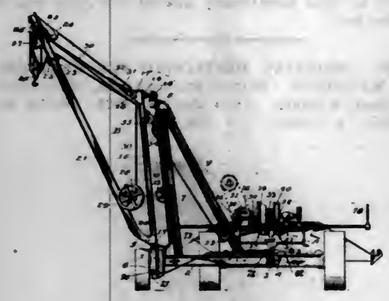
1,457,395. TRACTION DEVICE. JOSEPH H. REISLER, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed July 28, 1922. Serial No. 578,201. 2 Claims. (Cl. 156—14.)

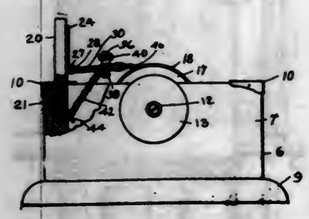


1. A traction device for vehicles, comprising a U-shaped yoke member having a widened mid-portion and an opening therein, a lobed tread member mounted in said yoke member with its lobe portion projecting outwardly through the opening, and clamping means for securing said yoke member to a vehicle rim and for drawing said tread member into firm engagement with the yoke member and vehicle tire.

1,457,396. ELASTIC WHEEL. CHARLES REUSS, Brussels, Belgium. Filed Mar. 2, 1920. Serial No. 362,855. 2 Claims. (Cl. 152—28.)

1. In a wheel, a felloe having members provided with openings, a hub having members provided with openings arranged between those of the felloe members, so that said felloe and hub members are arranged for relative eccentric movement, elastic blocks in said openings, connecting said felloe members and hub members together, and means coacting with said felloe members to form lubricant containing chambers in which said openings and said elastic blocks are arranged.

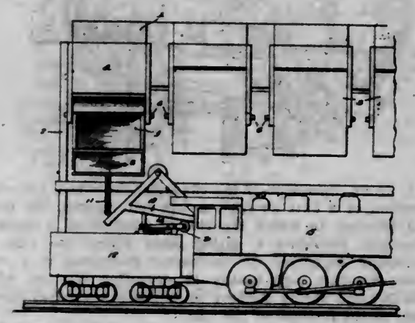
1,457,397. DERRICK. SAMUEL SHAFER, Jr., Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Chain Belt Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Jan. 13, 1921. Serial No. 436,973. 28 Claims. (Cl. 212—58.)



1. In a portable derrick, a portable main truck, an auxiliary truck associated therewith, means connecting the auxiliary truck with the main truck so that it will travel therewith and arranged to permit the auxiliary truck to be moved bodily over the ground relative to the main truck, without disconnecting it therefrom, and a derrick supported upon the auxiliary truck.

1,457,398. BRUSH-MAKING MACHINE. ARTHUR EFRAIM SILANDER, Berlin, Germany. Filed July 25, 1921. Serial No. 487,481. 1 Claim. (Cl. 300—10.)

A reciprocating table for brush and like making machines, comprising a frame, slidable runners connected to said frame, runways supporting the frame by means of the runners, vertically guided slides holding the runways, supporting brackets, screw spindles guided in said brackets and connected to said slides, nuts arranged on said spindles so as to support the slides on the brackets, and means for operating said nuts in unison so as to vary the altitude of the frame relative to the brackets while maintaining it parallel to its original plane.



1,457,399. RAZOR-BLADE SHARPENER. BENEDETTO P. SIMONE, Providence, R. I. Filed June 16, 1922. Serial No. 568,721. 1 Claim. (Cl. 51—98.)

In a razor blade sharpener, a box, a driving shaft rotatably mounted in the box transversely thereof, a roll fast to the shaft within the box and projecting slightly above the box, a peripheral band of stropping material upon the roll, an upright upon one end of the box, an attaching plate fixed to the upright, hinge sleeves upon the attaching plate, a pintle in the sleeves, clamping plates, a resilient loop integral with the clamping plates and embracing the pintle between the sleeves, a clamping member engaging an intermediate portion of the plates, and a spring supported by an intermediate portion of the plates and fast to the box below the pintle.

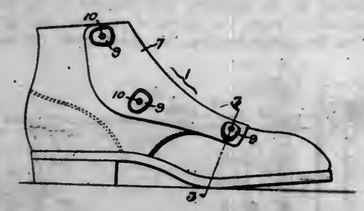
1,457,400. COALING DEVICE. ERWIN F. SIPTROTH, Easton, Pa. Filed Apr. 12, 1921. Serial No. 460,854. 4 Claims. (Cl. 214—42.)

1. An apparatus of the class described comprising a framework located adjacent a track, a hopper supported by the framework, a chute depending from the hopper, a rotatable drum mounted at the end of the chute and having an opening therein, weighted means for normally positioning the drum with the said opening in register with the chute, a deflecting plate connected with the drum adjacent the openings, a tripping lever, means for connecting the lever with the plate and a tripping device for engaging said lever to cause the same to rotate the drum into discharging position.



1,457,401. FISHING DEVICE. HENRY SMITH, Turnersville, Tex. Filed Nov. 27, 1922. Serial No. 603,573. 2 Claims. (Cl. 43—5.)

2. In a fishing device, a rod, a spring encircling the rod, means for holding the spring under tension, arms pivotally connected to the rod, hooks carried by the said arms, means on one arm adapted to engage the other arm for limiting the movement of the arms toward each other, a trigger pivotally connected to one arm, a seat on the other arm engaged by the trigger, and a hook connected to the said trigger.

1,457,402. SAFETY SHOE. JOHN F. SMITH, Taunton, Mass. Filed Sept. 18, 1922. Serial No. 588,812. 6 Claims. (Cl. 36—50.)

6. A protective shoe having an upper provided with a substantially central opening at the front thereof extending from the top of said upper to a point beyond the ball line of the shoe, a flap fixed upon the upper at one side thereof and having a series of fasteners adjacent its free edge and cooperating means upon the opposite side of the upper thereby to secure said flap in closed position across said opening.

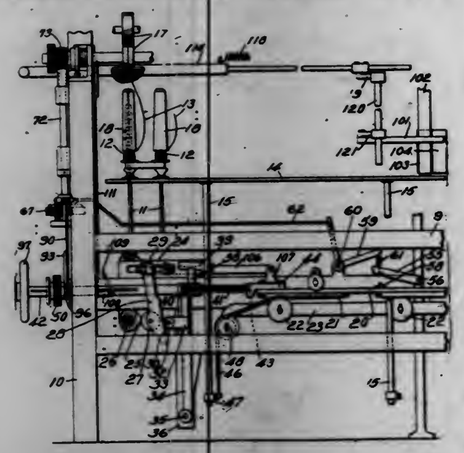
1,457,403. AUXILIARY AIR-INLET DEVICE FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. CORNELIUS N. SNAGG, Waterbury, Conn., assignor to The Simonsville Mannfacturing Company, Waterbury, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Oct. 23, 1922. Serial No. 596,498. 4 Claims. (Cl. 48—180.)

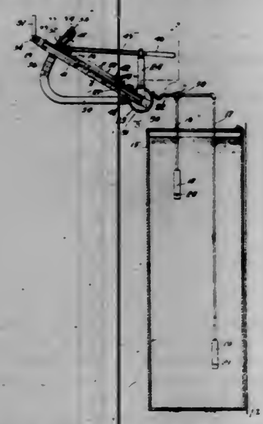
2. A device of the character described comprising a body portion fitting between the carbureter and the intake manifold and having a bore formed therethrough which alines with the bore of the carbureter and the intake manifold and having an extension which terminates substantially centrally of said bore, said extension carrying a spaced concavo convex baffle plate there being a port formed through said extension and there being ports communicating with the first named port and discharging at that face of the extension and longitudinally toward the concave side of said baffle plate and valvular means for controlling the passage of air to the first named port.

1,457,404. BLADE SHROUDING. JOHN EDWIN SNYDER, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed July 9, 1920. Serial No. 394,992. 4 Claims. (Cl. 253—77.)



1. The combination of a turbine blade having a slot of uniform cross section in the tip thereof, a shroud member engaging the end of the blade having a tongue of uniform cross section which projects into the slot, and means for securing the tongue within the slot.

1,457,405. SPINNING FRAME. MOSES SPENCER, Saylesville, R. I., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Hopedale Manufacturing Company, Milford, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Nov. 15, 1917. Serial No. 202,098. 9 Claims. (Cl. 242—43.7.)



1. A spinning frame having, in combination, spinning devices including a reciprocating carriage, and a bunch-building device comprising a cam, a rotating shaft, connections between the two whereby the former may be turned into inoperative position by the latter, means for turning the cam into operative position, means under the control of the operator and adapted to be brought into operation when the operator restarts the spinning operation for disconnecting the shaft from the cam to permit the latter to be turned into its operative position, connections between the cam and the reciprocating carriage for limiting the movement of the carriage for a predetermined length of time to produce a relatively short traverse, and means for reconnecting a shaft with the cam to permit the carriage to resume its reciprocations.

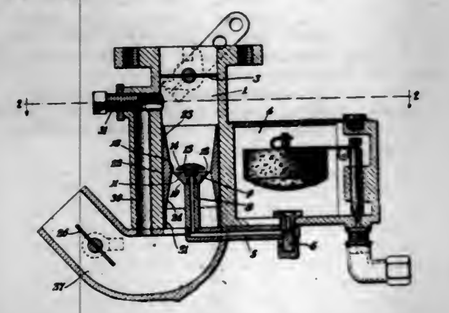
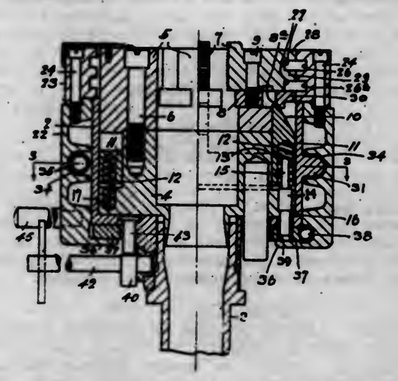
1,457,406. DEPTH AND SPECIFIC-GRAVITY MEASURING APPARATUS. CECIL W. STANCLIFFE, New York, N. Y., assignor to Pneumercator Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Maine. Filed June 19, 1919. Serial No. 304,871. Renewed May 16, 1921. Serial No. 470,202. 27 Claims. (Cl. 73—54.)



1. A means for determining depths and specific gravities of liquids, comprising pipe lines adapted to be submerged in the liquid and having discharge orifices at a known vertical height apart, a liquid column indicator having a chamber in communication with said pipe lines, and means for creating pneumatic pressures in said pipe lines and chamber sufficient to balance the heads of liquid above the respective outlets.

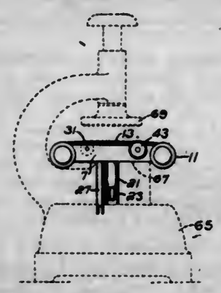
1,457,407. RIFLE DEMONSTRATOR. JAMES G. PHELPS STOKES, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 1, 1921. Serial No. 488,757. 34 Claims. (Cl. 42—94.)

1. In an apparatus of the character described, the combination of a butt support, a fore-end support, the fore-end support, in which the rifle is movable in a vertical direction, including a spring upon which the rifle is yieldingly supported for movement downward in a vertical direction, and means in operative relation with the fore-end spring support to indicate a vertical movement of the fore-end of the rifle.



1,457,408. CARBURETOR. FREDERICK R. SUNDERMAN, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Sunderman Products, Inc., Newburgh, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 17, 1919. Serial No. 290,657. 5 Claims. (Cl. 261—53.)

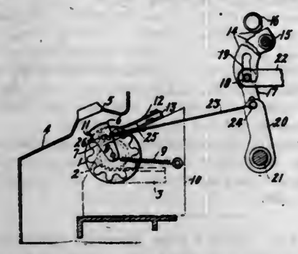
1. In a carburetor, the combination of a mixing chamber, an air intake portion leading to the mixing chamber, a fuel discharge member in the chamber, a sliding venturi member surrounding the fuel discharge member to control the velocity and quantity of air passing the discharge member responsive to varying degrees of suction applied to the mixing chamber, an air by pass extending from the air intake, around said venturi member and into the mixing chamber above the venturi member when the latter is in normal position so as to be variably obstructed by the upward movement of the venturi member responsive to certain increase of suction applied to the mixing chamber, and a choke valve controlling the flow of air to said by-pass.



3. In a carburetor, the combination of a mixing chamber, a fuel discharge member therein, a sliding venturi member surrounding the fuel discharge member to control the velocity and quantity of air passing the discharge member responsive to varying degrees of suction applied to the mixing chamber, a throttle valve in the outlet of the mixing chamber and an air passage leading into the mixing chamber above the upper edge of the venturi when the latter is in normal position and below the throttle valve, and adjustment means for regulating the amount of air flowing through the by-pass.

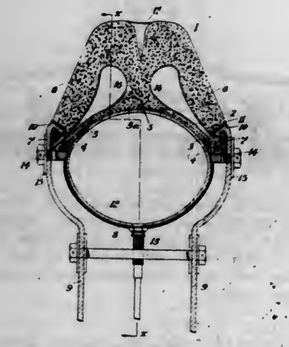
1,457,409. THREADING TOOL. ALBERT R. THOKE, Pittsburgh, and HUBERT G. SMITH, Wilkinsburg, Pa. Filed Mar. 7, 1922. Serial No. 541,652. 6 Claims. (Cl. 10—96.)

1. In a threading-tool, the combination of a suitable casing, a cam-ring having rotary relation with said casing, a spring actuated slidable head in said casing, die-blocks connected to said head, dies movable in and out in said die-blocks, notches formed in said dies forming lugs adapted to engage grooves formed in said cam-ring and the front face of said ring when said dies are advanced beyond the face of said cam-ring, means for retracting said dies, and means for automatically turning said cam-ring when said dies are advanced.



1,457,410. TIME STAMP. WILLIAM H. THOMPSON, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 25, 1921. Serial No. 510,231. 6 Claims. (Cl. 234—55.)

1. A self-contained printing member for time stamps comprising a frame having means for supporting an inking ribbon with a portion extending over the face of the frame, date printing wheels carried by the frame, hour printing dies carried by the frame and having operating shafts, means for securing said member to a clock casing, said member presenting an even surface to mate with the casing from which surface project solely the shafts for operating the hour printing dies.



1,457,411. COMPUTING MACHINE. RICE BARR VANCE, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Underwood Computing Machine Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 11, 1921. Serial No. 436,414. 9 Claims. (Cl. 235—60.)

2. In a computing machine to be used for checking previous computations, in combination, a series of number-elements, means to indicate on said number-elements a row of digits from which the result of a computation may be read, a shutter, a non-compute key, means whereby said shutter will be held in position to mask said row when said non-compute key is in normal position, and means whereby actuation of said non-compute key will cause said shutter to be withdrawn from its masking position.

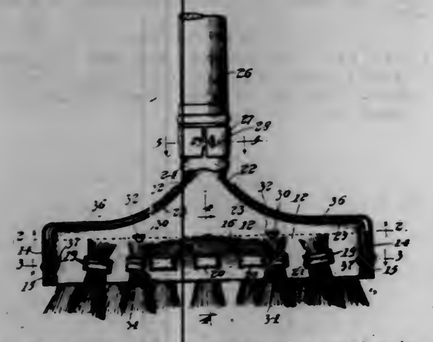
1,457,412. PNEUMATIC TIRE FOR VEHICLES. LEWIS GARFIELD WILLIAMS, Corsyrhelig, Godrergraig, Wales. Filed Dec. 11, 1922. Serial No. 606,250. 3 Claims. (Cl. 152—10.)

2. A tire for vehicle wheels comprising a tread portion having side extensions that are adapted to be secured to a wheel and that are deflectable towards one another transversely of the tire, and an annular groove formed centrally in said tread portion to assist deflection of said side portions under the influence of load imposed upon the tire, said groove being filled with soft, pliable material forming a part of said tread portion.

1,457,413. MACHINE FOR TREATING OR PROCESSING FABRICS AND OTHER GOODS. JOHN A. WILSON, Elizabeth, N. J., assignor to Duratex Corporation, Newark, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Mar. 9, 1920. Serial No. 364,572. 18 Claims. (Cl. 91—55.)



3. In a machine of the class described the combination of a coating means, a drying means, and means for carrying a fabric to be coated continuously past said coating means and drying means, including a driven drag belt adjacent to said coating means, and means to vary the tension of said drag belt.

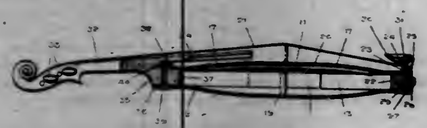
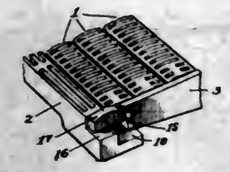
10. A machine of the class described comprising the combination of coating means, a driven drag belt adjacent to and in the rear of said coating means, a drying chamber, and means for carrying the fabric to be coated through said chamber and returning it to the coating means, including a creeping conveyor on which excess fabric is loosely carried without tension.



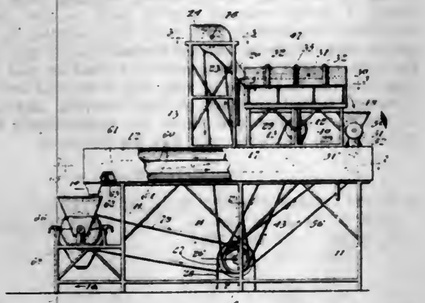
14. A machine of the class described comprising the combination of fabric treating means, a drier and a driven drag belt acting on the fabric adjacent said fabric treating means.

1,457,414. HEAD FOR BROOMS AND BRUSHES. VICTOR ADAMS, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 19, 1916. Serial No. 115,767. 7 Claims. (Cl. 15—171.)

1. In a brush, the combination of a metal strip, a number of spaced bunches of bristles secured thereto and arranged in a straight row, a separate binding slip surrounding each bunch and secured to said strip said clips having their ends overlapping and having their adjacent edges parallel.



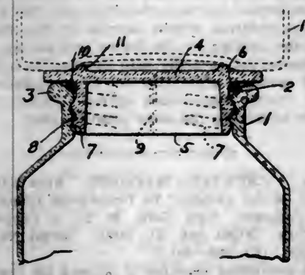
1,457,415. VIOLIN. JOSEPH ALTMEIER, Evansville, Ind. Filed June 29, 1921. Serial No. 481,343. 7 Claims. (Cl. 84—275.)



5. A violin comprising a body, a neck having an abutment bearing against the forward end of the body, the bottom of the body having an extension at its forward end overlapping and secured to said abutment, a block secured within the forward end of the body and having a post rising from the top of the body, and the neck having a finger board extending across and secured on said post.

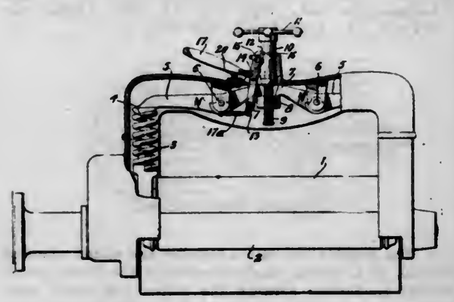
1,457,416. ROCKING AND DUMPING GRATE. CHARLES E. BARBITT, South Portland, Me., assignor to Hamlin Rocking Grate Co., Portland, Me. Filed Oct. 31, 1921. Serial No. 511,952. 1 Claim. (Cl. 126—176.)

In a rocking and dumping grate assembling, the combination, with a frame structure composed of at least four supporting elements,—said elements to be two side-bars and two end-bars,—with rocking grate members pivotally hung thereon, of means for securing the corner joints or junctures of said frame structure against lateral and endwise movements, said means consisting of the cut away portions of the extremities of said side-bars and said end-bars which provide shoulders whereby inward movement of either of the bars (side or end) is prevented, and also of the off-set side shelf portion on the extremities of the end-bars provided with upwardly extending lugs adapted to abut and shoulder behind and against thickened portions on the ends of said side-bars whereby outward movement of either side-bars or end-bars is prevented, constituting an interlocking corner joint, substantially as illustrated and described.



1,457,417. APPARATUS FOR PROCESSING PUMPKIN AND LIKE MATERIAL. LELAND A. BABCOCK, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Sprague Canning Machinery Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Oct. 29, 1919. Serial No. 334,292. 3 Claims. (Cl. 99—2.)

3. A mechanism for softening and cooking cut pumpkin, comprising a combined tank and steam chamber, means for heating the water in said tank to cause the generation of steam, a conveyor for carrying the cut pieces of pumpkin through said steam chamber above the water therein to expose the cut pieces to the direct action of steam, and means for feeding the cut pieces of pumpkin into said chamber and onto said conveyor, said feeding means comprising means for preventing the escape of steam from said chamber.



1,457,418. CLOSURE FOR FRUIT AND OTHER WIDE-MOUTHED JARS. FREDERIC E. BALDWIN, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Apr. 22, 1922. Serial No. 556,042. 5 Claims. (Cl. 215—38.)

1. A closure for fruit jars and other wide-mouthed containers comprising in combination an internally tapering and threaded neck provided on the inside of its rim with an outwardly flaring flat seat and on the outside of its rim with a bead reinforcing the flat seat, a cover member provided with a centrally arranged hollow collar having spherical form at its union with the cover and providing a seat, said collar having external segmental threads of less width than the neck threads to afford endwise play and having the mold seam arranged between the thread segments, and a flat gasket seated on the spherical seat and adapted for line contact with the flat seat.

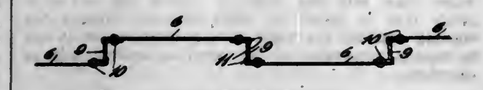
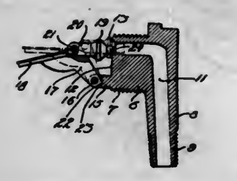
1,457,419. CLOTHES WRINGER. THOMAS W. BEHAN, Binghamton, N. Y. Filed Dec. 29, 1920, Serial No. 433,773. Renewed Oct. 30, 1922. Serial No. 597,920. 6 Claims. (Cl. 68—32.)



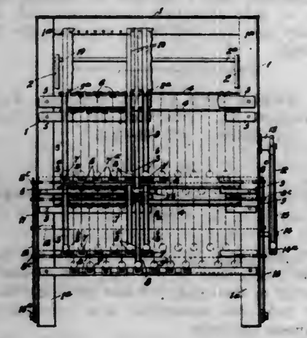
1. In a wringer or the like provided with a pair of parallel rolls and releasably supported means for exerting pressure between said rolls, the combination of a supporting device for said means, said device including a toggle which is unbroken when in supporting position, and manually operable means independent of said toggle for breaking said toggle to release said first mentioned means.

1,457,420. POTATO BUG AND APHIS EXTERMINATOR. FREDERICK W. BENDER, Cape Charles, Va. Filed Aug. 19, 1922. Serial No. 582,943. 6 Claims. (Cl. 43—140.)



3. In an insect destroyer of the character described, a supporting frame, traction wheels thereon, an exhaust fan including an exhaust fan casing, the casing having an outlet and a receptacle connected thereto, a suction pipe leading from the casing and extending rearward and then downward, a hood into which the suction pipe extends, the hood having end walls cut away to straddle a row of plants, a plurality of pipes leading from the suction pipe into the interior of the hood and opening at different portions of the hood, a pair of shafts passing through the hood parallel to the line of draft of the machine, brushes mounted upon said shafts, the brushes having a length equal to the length of the hood, and means for rotating the brushes in opposite directions and in a direction to cause those bristles projecting toward the middle of the hood to sweep upward.

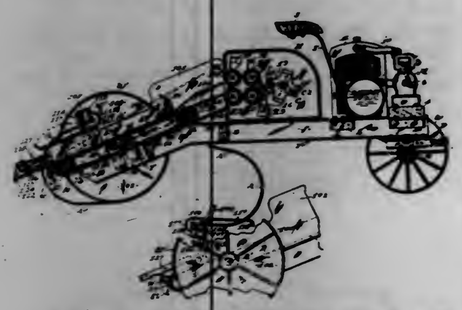
1,457,421. CAR ROOF. CHARLES DAVID BONSALL, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to P. H. Murphy Company, New Kensington, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Dec. 28, 1922. Serial No. 609,468. 4 Claims. (Cl. 108—5.4.)



1. A metal car roof comprising carline members having upper and lower flanges and metal roof sheets alternately disposed at two elevations and riveted to the upper and lower flanges respectively of said carlines.

1,457,422. DRAIN-VALVE DEVICE FOR HYDRANTS. LEON T. BUCKLER, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to George B. Clay, Elkins Park, Pa. Filed Nov. 23, 1920. Serial No. 426,100. 4 Claims. (Cl. 137—13.)

3. A drain device for hydrants including a body portion having a drain passage communicating with the interior of the hydrant water conduit; an outwardly closing valve for closing the drain passage, and means connected with the valve and movable, by water pressure in the conduit, to actuate the valve and close the drain passage, said means including an arm pivoted to the body portion and to the valve, substantially as described.



1,457,423. TYPESETTING APPLIANCE. CHARLES ASHTON HENRY BULLOCK, London, England. Filed May 2, 1921. Serial No. 466,030. 2 Claims. (Cl. 211—42.)

1. A typesetting appliance comprising a frame, means for supporting said frame at an angle to the horizontal, a plurality of channels adapted to contain type arranged side by side within said frame, a common rod upon which all said channels are pivoted by their upper ends, spiral springs connected between said rod and said channels for biasing said channels to elevated position, said springs encircling said rod, stops for limiting the upward movement of said channels disposed below said pivoted connection, finger pieces at the lower ends of said channel, openings adjacent said finger pieces, a fixed stop beneath each channel adapted to pass into its appropriate channel when said channel is depressed by the finger piece, said stop operating against the foot of a single type to insure its being extended through the opening adjacent the finger to a position where it can be readily withdrawn by the operator, substantially as specified.

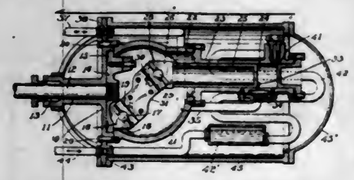
1,457,424. BRUSH-CUTTING MACHINE. WALTER R. BUNCH, La Verne, Calif., assignor of one-half to Arthur G. Hamilton, Fontana, Calif. Filed May 23, 1921. Serial No. 471,975. 18 Claims. (Cl. 55—118.)

1. A brush cutting machine including a rigid frame, a power element mounted on said frame, and a rotary cutting mechanism also mounted on said frame and including a plurality of feeding elements for conveying matter to be cut to the cutter, and a cutter cooperating therewith, conveying means for delivering matter to said feeding elements, said conveyers including a plurality of parallel endless carriers for moving matter forwardly of the machine to the cutting mechanism, and a collecting device supported at the end of said conveyer mechanism and movable over the surface of the ground for receiving matter deposited thereon during the progress of the machine, said collecting units embracing a plurality of curved rake elements commonly mounted and independently yieldable, means for simultaneously operating all of said rake elements for moving them into inoperative position, and a guiding mechanism supported rearwardly of said collecting mechanism and extended longitudinally over the bed of the machine, for the purpose described.

1,457,425. TRACK AND CURVE GAUGE. JUNIUS E. BUSBY, Hazard, Ky. Filed Feb. 27, 1922. Serial No. 539,622. 14 Claims. (Cl. 33—145.)

1. In a track gauge, a gauge body, having means at one end for attachment to one rail, and means detachably connected to the other end and offset laterally from the gauge body for measuring and ascertaining the spacing between the rails.



1,457,426. INDICATING MEANS. CHARLES R. CAMERON, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Aug. 29, 1922. Serial No. 585,090. 1 Claim. (Cl. 88—1.)

The combination, with a head light having the usual casing, lens member, retaining ring for holding the lens to the casing, and lamp within said head light, of means adapted for placement in front of the lens member for receiving rays of light from the lamp and projecting a portion of said rays in a direction rearwardly of the head light; said means being provided with a member adapted to be locked between the casing and retaining ring for maintaining said means in position relative to the head light.

1,457,427. CONDENSING PUMP. OLIVER H. CASTLE, Indianapolis, Ind. Filed Aug. 31, 1921. Serial No. 497,199. 7 Claims. (Cl. 230—27.)

1,457,428. REPEATING DEVICE FOR PHONOGRAPHS. JOHN A. EITUTIS, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 18, 1921. Serial No. 446,023. 8 Claims. (Cl. 274—15.)

1. In a phonograph, the combination with a motor, a turn-table above and driven thereby, and a tone arm mounted to swing over the turn-table and provided with a reproducer, of a repeating mechanism including means for raising the reproducer off of the record at the completion of the playing thereof and swinging the tone arm toward the outer edge of the record and lowering the reproducer to bring its stylus into engagement with the record at the beginning of the playing groove, said mechanism being driven by said motor and thrown into clutch therewith by the tone arm upon the completion of the playing of the record and remaining in clutch with said motor until after the stylus of the reproducer is brought into contact with the record at the beginning of the playing groove, and means for setting the mechanism for records of various diameters and also for swinging the tone arm clear of the outer edge of the turntable when desired, said setting means being carried by said raising and lowering means.

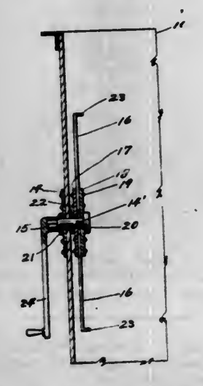
1,457,429. READING MACHINE. BRADLEY A. FISKE, Washington, D. C. Filed Jan. 30, 1922. Serial No. 532,866. 2 Claims. (Cl. 88—39.)



1. In a reading machine, the combination of a frame, a front plate secured to the frame, and between which and the frame is arranged the strip or sheet carrying the reading matter, said front plate being formed with a slot through which the reading matter will be observed, a lens supported by the frame for viewing the reading matter through said slot, and means for feeding the strip or sheet to move the reading matter with respect to the lens, substantially as set forth.

1,457,430. BEDSPRING FABRIC. CHARLES H. GAIL, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to The Shott Manufacturing Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 22, 1921. Serial No. 463,631. 4 Claims. (Cl. 245—5.)

3. A bed-bottom fabric comprising in combination, a plurality of spaced transverse rows of short horizontal helical springs directly connected together end to end with eyes between them each eye formed conjointly of terminal portions of the wires of which the adjacent springs are composed, and rows of elements disposed lengthwise the fabric engaging said eyes.

1,457,431. RECEPTACLE AND AGITATOR THEREFOR. RICHARD GUTHRIDGE, Norristown, Pa. Filed Sept. 9, 1921. Serial No. 499,381. 3 Claims. (Cl. 259—109.)

1. The combination of an open top receptacle, including vertical side walls and end walls which incline toward a normally closed discharge in the receptacle bottom and an opening device for said discharge with a plurality of independently mounted, rotatable, material displacing devices oppositely arranged in pairs at each end of the receptacle and so positioned upon said side walls that when rotated, "packed" material at the receptacle ends is caused to move along said inclined walls to said opening and means common to said opening device and said displacing devices for independently operating the same.

1,457,432. WATCH-BRACELET HOOK. GASTON A. GUYOT and ARTHUR F. GUYOT, Attleboro, Mass. Filed Jan. 16, 1922. Serial No. 529,424. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—237.)

1. A watch bracelet hook formed of a single piece of stock comprising front and back body members connected by a pair of widely-separated joint portions folded to engage and support each other a substantial distance inward from the bend, a yieldable tongue on the free end of one of said members bent into hook form and the opposite member being adapted to close said hook by the inherent spring at the joint, said members being provided with a strap-receiving opening.

1,457,433. SPRING WHEEL. JOSEPH HAMELIN, Bienville, Quebec, Canada, assignor, by mesne assignments, of one-half to Antoine Hamelin, Bienville, Quebec, Canada. Filed Sept. 28, 1921. Serial No. 503,731. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—37.)

In a resilient disk wheel, the combination of a hub; a disk encircling the hub and secured thereto, said disk having its outer peripheral portion laterally offset; an offset annular plate secured to said disk immediately adjacent the offset portion thereof to conjointly form with such portion an annular member of channel section; a second annular member of channel-section slidably related to the first member; cushioning means interposed between the two channel members and connected to the same; an annular rim encircling and secured to the second channel member; and a tire on said rim.

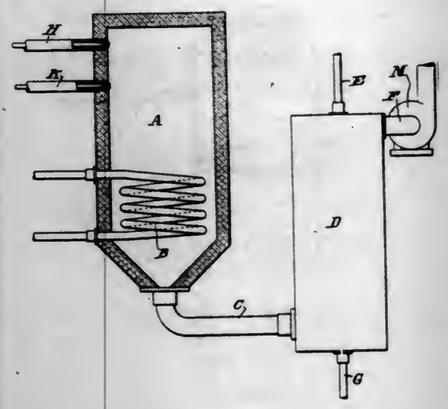
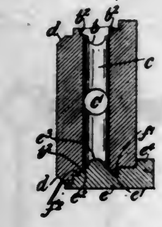
1,457,434. PITMAN. EDWARD WILLIAM HANSEN, Minden, Nebr. Filed Oct. 18, 1921. Serial No. 508,504. 3 Claims. (Cl. 74—17.)



1. In a pitman, the combination with a body member, diametrically opposite plates secured to one end portion of said body member and provided with threaded arms projecting beyond the latter, a bearing box through which said threaded arms pass freely, plates fitted upon said arms against the opposite sides of the bearing box and bridging the arms, nuts on said threaded arms bearing against said plates at respective sides of the bearing box, whereby said bearing box may be adjusted to adjust the effective length of the pitman, and a bearing box at the other end of said pitman.

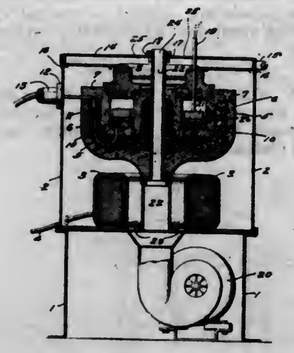
1,457,435. HEEL-ATTACHING DEVICE. JOSEPH F. HIGGINS, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Mar. 5, 1920. Serial No. 363,443. 7 Claims. (Cl. 12—125.)



1. In a shoe heel attaching device, a single adjustment clamping means adapted to clamp the shoe and heel and apply component lateral pressures to prevent strain upon the heel and producing a resulting pressure along a perpendicular line extending through the shoe and heel, and means permitting an axial swinging movement of the shoe about said perpendicular line.

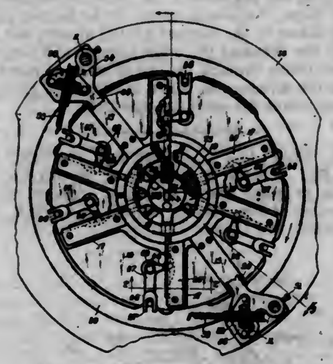
1,457,436. PROCESS OF MAKING METAL SULPHIDES. HENRY HOWARD and EARL BURNARD ALVORD, Cleveland, Ohio, assignors to The Grasselli Chemical Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Dec. 29, 1921. Serial No. 525,713. 12 Claims. (Cl. 23—13.)

1. Process of making metal sulphide which comprises suspending a metal sulfate in a finely divided condition in a reducing atmosphere at high temperature.



1,457,437. BUILDING BLOCK. CAROLINE KELLY and THOMAS BREVERS BELVOIR, Warden, Isle of Sheppey, England. Filed Sept. 20, 1921. Serial No. 502,016. 3 Claims. (Cl. 72—41.)

1. A block for building purposes comprising at least three elements stepped relatively to one another both vertically and horizontally, so that each block, although formed in one piece, is in the form of superposed parts and having vertical and horizontal grooves in its edges.



1,457,438. PERMEAMETER FURNACE. GEORGE A. KELSALL, Belleville, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 23, 1921. Serial No. 454,814. 15 Claims. (Cl. 204—64.)

3. A permeameter furnace comprising primary and secondary windings, means for testing a specimen of magnetic material, and a heating chamber suitably heat insulated from said windings, said heating chamber containing heating means which is adapted to heat the specimen to be tested.

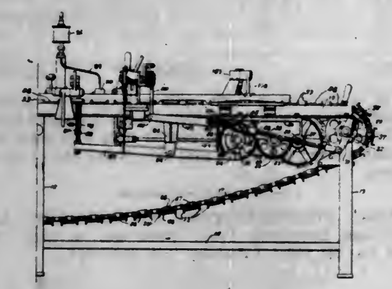
1,457,439. CORE-MAKING MACHINE. OSKAR KYLIN, Elkhart, Ind., assignor to Foster Machine Company, Elkhart, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Nov. 3, 1921. Serial No. 512,435. 13 Claims. (Cl. 22—13.)

1. In a core machine, the combination of a plurality of core forming segments having tapered outer surfaces, an internally tapered annular member adapted to clampingly engage said tapered surfaces of said segments, radially movable segment-actuating members pivotally attached to the outer sides of said segments, relatively stationary guides forming supports for said movable members, and means for actuating said movable members.



1,457,440. INCANDESCENT ELECTRIC LAMP. CHARLES EDWARD LEECE, Youngstown, Ohio, assignor of one-third to Robert Franklin Leece and one-third to Bolden Clark, both of Youngstown, Ohio. Filed July 6, 1921. Serial No. 482,688. 3 Claims. (Cl. 176—26.)

1. An incandescent filament lamp comprising a base and a globe, a metallic shell embracing said base, a plurality of filaments supported within the globe, a contact member carried by the base, a plurality of threaded sockets in said base, means for connecting said filaments at opposite ends to the contact member and to the sockets, and screws for threading into the sockets to connect electrically between the filaments and the shell.

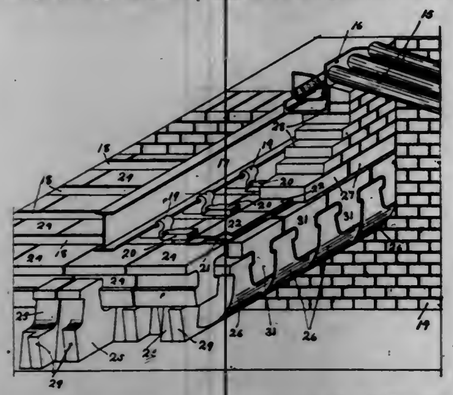
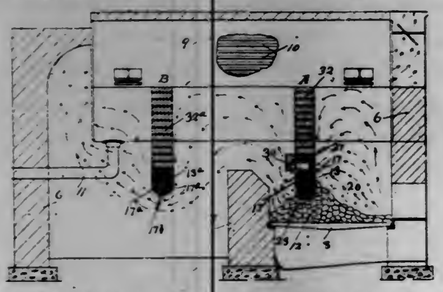
1,457,441. SOLDERING MACHINE. GEORGE A. LEIGHTON, Roslindale, Mass., assignor to American Can Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Dec. 6, 1920. Serial No. 428,596. 16 Claims. (Cl. 113—59.)



1. A machine for applying solder to metal articles, comprising a longitudinal guide and an endless link conveyer for moving said articles into position to be operated upon, and automatic means at stations along said guide for feeding and applying solder and shaping articles as desired actuated in connection with the movement of the said conveyor.

1,457,442. FURNACE ARCH. MICHAEL LIPTAK, St. Paul, Minn., assignor to Liptak Fire Brick Arch Co., Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed Oct. 21, 1918. Serial No. 259,026. 8 Claims. (Cl. 110—99.)



1. A furnace arch comprising laterally spaced beams, hanger blocks hung from said beams, underfacing blocks interlocked with and hung from said hanger blocks, corner blocks hung from the end members of said hanger blocks but projecting beyond the same, and filling blocks of substantially the same form as said hanger blocks filling the space between and overlying the upper portions of said corner blocks.

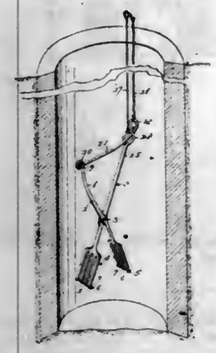
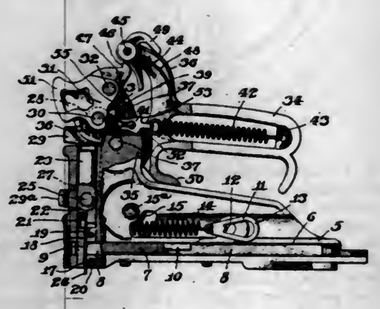
1,457,443. FURNACE. MICHAEL LIPTAK, St. Paul, Minn., assignor to Liptak Fire Brick Arch Co., Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed Dec. 5, 1918. Serial No. 265,448. 12 Claims. (Cl. 110—93.)



1. In a furnace, a baffle wall comprising a metallic supporting beam, side facing blocks hung upon said beam, and bottom facing blocks suspended from said beam and detachable therefrom while said side facing blocks are in position.

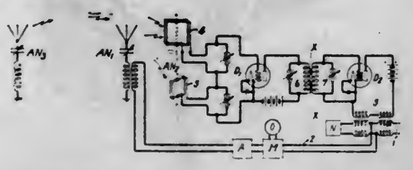
1,457,444. DRYING SUPPORT FOR ARTICLES. LON MCCALEB, Dyersburg, Tenn. Filed Mar. 4, 1922. Serial No. 541,162. 2 Claims. (Cl. 126—341.)



1. A device of the character described formed of a single length of wire, the wire being bent to form an arcuate body having eyes at its opposite ends, the wire then being extended beneath the body wire and bent to form depending hooks having upwardly turned bills, the portion of wire between said hooks extending over the top of the body wire and normally resting thereon, and a coiled contractile spring permanently engaged at one end with one of said eyes and adapted to be detachably engaged with the other eye.

1,457,445. GRAPPLING TONGS. HARVE MARCUM, Booneville, Ky., assignor of one-half to Rutherford B. Roberts, Hazard, Ky. Filed May 29, 1922. Serial No. 564,356. 3 Claims. (Cl. 294—116.)

1. A grappling device comprising a pair of crossed members pivotally united at their point of intersection, the corresponding end portions of the members terminating in grappling forks, the prongs of the forks having gripping teeth, the shank of one member having an eye, and a link pivoted to the shank of the other member and adapted to operatively clamp through the eye of said one member for actuating the members to cause the forks to grapple an object, and means for actuating the link.



1,457,446. STAPLING MACHINE FOR DRIVING WIRE STAPLES. ELWOOD H. MICHENER, Woodlynne, N. J., assignor to Acme Staple Company, Camden, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Feb. 8, 1922. Serial No. 534,855. 16 Claims. (Cl. 1—3.)

4. In a staple driving machine, the combination of a frame provided with a staple-guiding channel and with means to supply staples successively thereto, a staple driver movable in said channel, a pair of pivoted parts forming a toggle joint, said parts connecting the driver with the frame, an operating lever, a spring carried thereby and connected to one of said pivoted parts, and means adapted to move said toggle joint elements from a first to a second position against the action of the spring to place it under tension and thereafter to release said parts to return to initial position and permit the tensioned force of the spring to actuate the connected driver to drive a staple.

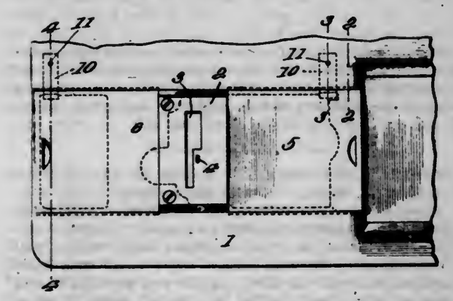
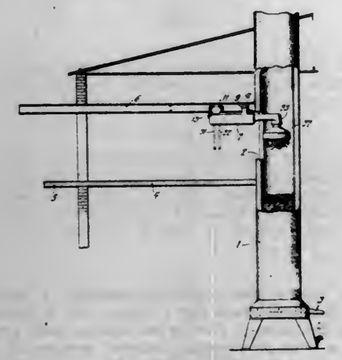
1,457,447. RADIO RECEIVING CIRCUITS. JOHN MILLS, Wyoming, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 22, 1921. Serial No. 524,070. 9 Claims. (Cl. 250—9.)



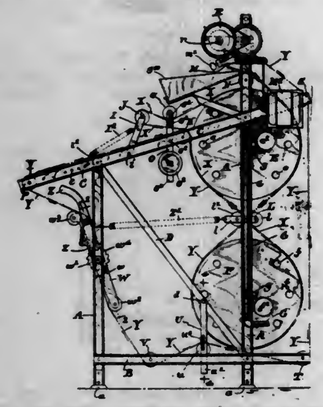
1. A receiving antenna comprising a series arrangement of two directive loops, respectively tuned to different frequencies, said loops being independently rotatable.

1,457,448. TURNSTILE REGISTERING APPARATUS. SAM MITZENMACHER, Chicago, Ill., assignor of one-half to Nathan Kanet, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 19, 1922. Serial No. 562,259. 3 Claims. (Cl. 235—93.)



1. In apparatus of the character described, the combination with a turn-stile having radially extending arms adapted to rotate on a vertical axis, of means for registering predetermined movements of said arms comprising registering mechanism, and means for actuating said registering mechanism comprising a normally taut flexible member positioned in the path of travel of said arms so as to be engaged thereby.

1,457,449. CLOTH PLATE FOR SEWING MACHINES. JAMES R. MOFFATT, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Union Special Machine Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Sept. 12, 1921. Serial No. 500,179. 3 Claims. (Cl. 112—260.)



1. A cloth plate for sewing machines having an opening therethrough, a cover plate for said opening, said cloth plate being formed with supporting ledges at opposite sides of the opening, and walls extending upwardly from said ledges and forming a recess for the cover plate, said cover plate having walls at the opposite sides thereof corresponding to the walls of the recess in the cloth plate, the distance of the supporting ledge at one side of the cloth plate and from the surface of the cloth plate being greater than the thickness of the cover plate, whereby when said cover plate rests on the supporting ledge, it will fit loosely in the recess, and spring means for forcing the cover plate upwardly and causing said cover plate to frictionally engage the cloth plate.

1,457,450. CUPOLA-CHARGING HOIST. WILLIS H. MORGAN, Connersville, Ind. Filed Dec. 2, 1921. Serial No. 519,366. 18 Claims. (Cl. 212—126.)

1. In mechanism of the class described, the combination of a track, an arm movably supported by the track and adapted to have its forward end projected within a cupola, a hoist mounted on the arm, a lifting magnet supported by the hoist at the forward end of the arm, means mounted on the arm for moving the arm whereby the magnet, when raised, may be projected into a cupola, and means operable by movement of the arm to deenergize the magnet when it is centrally disposed within a cupola.

1,457,451. DRIER FOR PHOTOGRAPHIC PRINTS. WILBERT H. MORGAN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Apr. 20, 1922. Serial No. 555,725. 13 Claims. (Cl. 34—4.)

1. In a drier for photographic prints and the like, the combination of upper and lower heated drums, with an air space between them, a belt traversing both drums and a belt guide in the air space between the drums for drawing the oppositely moving portions of the belt between the drums towards each other and thus increasing the amount of surface contact between the belt and the drums.

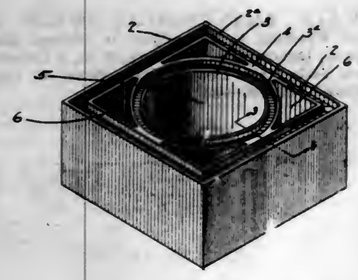
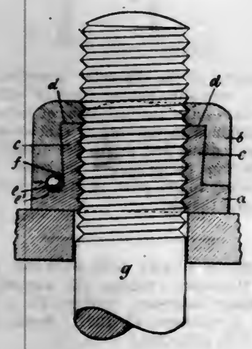
1,457,452. DRESSING TOOL FOR EMERY WHEELS. HENRY MORAIS, Springfield, Ohio, assignor to The Western Tool & Manufacturing Company, Springfield, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Aug. 26, 1920. Serial No. 406,177. 4 Claims. (Cl. 125—38.)



1. In a tool of the character described, a metallic casing of elongated shape and provided with a plurality of exterior flat faces to provide flat bearing seats for the tool, and a stick of abrading material permanently enclosed in said casing and projecting from one end thereof, said casing being of a character adapting it to be ground away to expose the abrading material as it wears, the plurality of flat faces of the casing enabling the same to be turned and supported in different positions when in use to thereby permit the exposed end of the abrading material to wear equally on a plurality of sides and render the same self-sharpening.

1,457,453. DRAWING ROLL. PATRICK A. MURPHY, Lynn, Mass., assignor to Textile Rubber Co., Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed May 25, 1922. Serial No. 563,514. 3 Claims. (Cl. 19—143.)



1. A drawing roll having, in combination, a rigid core and a plurality of superimposed layers of rubber compound located upon said core, the degree of hardness of said layers decreasing from the inner layer outward.

1,457,454. BUILDING BLOCK. FRED PATEE, Casper, Wyo. Filed June 21, 1920. Serial No. 390,330. 2 Claims. (Cl. 72—92.)

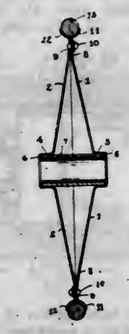
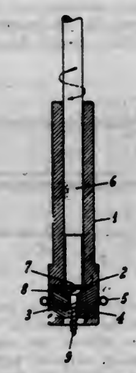
1,457,455. LOCK NUT. WALTER CLAY PETERS, Graffham, Petworth, England. Filed Feb. 1, 1922. Serial No. 533,216. 3 Claims. (Cl. 151—15.)



1. In a twin lock nut, a nut having an undercut socket, a second nut, a conically divergent spigot on said second nut fitting said socket, and a ball located in the meeting face of one said nut and entered in a segmental groove in the meeting face of the other said nut.

1,457,456. DISK WHEEL. AUGUST J. PETRIE, West Allis, Wis., assignor to Milwaukee Stamping Co., West Allis, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Mar. 20, 1922. Serial No. 545,301. 4 Claims. (Cl. 301—63.)



2. A device of the class described comprising a pair of substantially identical dished sheet metal disk members provided with integral annular hub portions having inturned flanges adapted to engage a bearing member, said disk members being also provided with alternately projecting bosses adjacent their outer circumference adapted to co-act to position said members in alinement; a bearing member mounted within said hub portions; and means associated with said alining bosses for securing said disk members together, whereby said flanges may be caused to engage said bearing member to retain it in position.

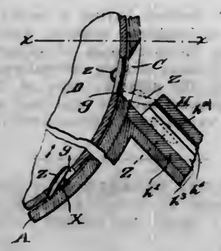
1,457,457. DEVICE FOR INSERTING SCREWS. EMIL PEYER, Wangen, Switzerland, assignor to the Firm Walder & Co., Brutisellen, Zurich, Switzerland. Filed Mar. 2, 1921. Serial No. 449,076. 1 Claim. (Cl. 145—50.)

In combination with a rotary screw-driving shaft, a sleeve having a longitudinal bore to receive said shaft and also having a transverse slot, near the outer end, intersecting said bore, jaws slidably mounted in said slot and having a screw-receiving bore in their opposing ends, formed partly in each of them, said bore having at the end next the opposing end of said shaft a conical counterbore to receive the head of a screw and presenting cam surfaces to coact with the head of the screw and move said jaws outwardly as the screw is driven by the shaft, and a spring pressing said jaws toward each other.



1,457,458. BOOK HOLDER. ISIDORE J. PLAMONDON, Dubuque, Iowa. Filed June 10, 1922. Serial No. 567,240. 4 Claims. (Cl. 45—80.)

3. A book holder, comprising a base, a main book holder hingedly mounted thereon adjacent one edge thereof, means carried by the rear face of the main book support and cooperating with the base, for holding the main book support in different inclined positions, side leaves hingedly mounted upon the front face of the main book support, for the purpose of supporting the back portions of the book when in open position, triangular members or braces having hinge pins extending in parallel directions with the length of the side leaves and mounted in bearings thereof, whereby said triangular members or braces may be swung laterally to the leaves to assume different positions on the main book support, to hold the leaves in various inclined positions.

1,457,459. FEED MECHANISM FOR SMALL METAL ARTICLES. VOJTĚCH PUC, Prague-Vinohrady, Bohemia. Filed Feb. 6, 1920. Serial No. 356,782. 10 Claims. (Cl. 79—17.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)

1. A machine for feeding small metal articles, comprising a drum or casing having a delivery opening in its periphery, an inner drum having transversely arranged openings in its periphery to receive the articles, means for revolving the inner drum to carry the articles upwards to the delivery opening of the casing, and guide channels through which the articles pass from said delivery opening.

1,457,460. VEHICLE SIGNAL. HARRY C. RAYMOND, Salt Lake City, Utah. Filed Sept. 26, 1921. Serial No. 503,325. 2 Claims. (Cl. 116—51.)

1. A signal device of the character described comprising a tubular support, a casing carried by one end thereof, a shaft extending across the casing, a hollow shaft rotatable upon said shaft carrying a disk, a signal blade carried by the disk and normally disposed within the casing, a spring of convolute form having one end secured to and partially wrapped about said disk, a relatively stiff flexible member connected with the free end of said spring and trained through said tubular support, an involute strip secured within the casing and partially encircling the disk in spaced relation thereto, a second strip extending adjacent the periphery of the disk and cooperating with the first named strip to define a channel guide for said spring, and means for applying a push or pull to said flexible member.

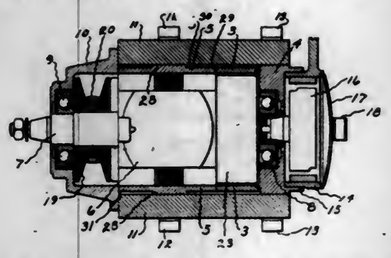
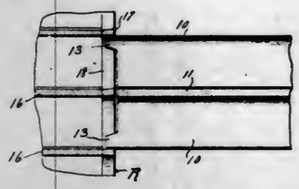
1,457,461. METALLIC PACKING. JOSEPH HOWARD RENSHAW, Canton, Ohio. Filed Oct. 3, 1921. Serial No. 505,176. 7 Claims. (Cl. 74—109.)



3. A metallic packing having a series of laterally adjacent kerfs in staggered relation, with rows of inflexible bonds at alternate ends of adjacent kerfs and resilient bars reversely flexible circumferentially of the packing, whereby the adjacent sides of the bonds are maintained in parallel relation and may abut throughout their whole extent by a circumferential compression of the packing.

1,457,462. CIRCUIT BREAKER FOR IGNITION SYSTEMS. ANDREW L. RIKER, Fairfield, Conn. Filed Apr. 8, 1921. Serial No. 459,809. 6 Claims. (Cl. 200—25.)



1. A circuit-breaker for an ignition-system, comprising a vertical shaft having a plurality of circumferentially-disposed reduced faces separated by cam-portions and mounted to have vertical play, spiral-gearing for imparting thereto a lift as well as rotation, said shaft presenting an unreduced or full cylindrical surface just above said reduced surfaces, and a spring carrying the movable contact-member and engaged by said unreduced cylindrical portion while resting in its lowered position but engaged by said cam portions while rotating in the lifted position.

1,457,463. MAGNETO. WOLFGANG E. SCHWARZMANN, Longmeadow, Mass., assignors to American Bosch Magneto Corporation, Springfield, Mass., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 11, 1921. Serial No. 436,626. 14 Claims. (Cl. 171—209.)

1. In a magneto, the combination of a permanent magnet having side arms and a cross-bar therebetween, pole shoes for said magnet and a non-magnetic casing having portions interposed between said pole shoes and said cross-bar, raised portions of said pole shoes and the ends of said cross-bar projecting outwardly into contact with said magnet arms, and means for maintaining said magnet arms in contact with said raised portions and the ends of said cross-bar.

1,457,464. POOL-BALL CARRIER. RUFUS M. SHERROD, Dyersburg, Tenn., assignor of forty-nine one-hundredths to Bynum H. Sullenger, Dyersburg, Tenn. Filed Mar. 27, 1922. Serial No. 547,040. 3 Claims. (Cl. 46—6.)

1. A pool ball carrier for use in transferring pool balls from wall racks having supporting shelves and an end wall with which the shelves are engaged and which is provided with openings aligned with said shelves and through which balls carried by the shelves may be removed, comprising a plurality of substantially parallel cylinders each having one end closed and the opposite end open, said cylinders combining to form a portable unit and being adapted for engagement against the end wall of the rack with the open ends thereof in alignment with adjacent openings of the end wall of the rack and in substantial alignment with the shelves upon which the balls are arranged to thereby permit removal of the balls carried by the shelves through the openings of the end wall into said cylinders for transportation in said cylinders.

1,457,465. SHADE FIXTURE. ISAAC S. SHERWIN, Chattanooga, Tenn. Filed Aug. 19, 1922. Serial No. 582,982. 3 Claims. (Cl. 156—27.)

1. As a new article of manufacture, a reversible side bracket for a window frame or the like comprising a member substantially U-shaped in cross section, a side wall of the bracket being provided with an outstanding flange provided with means to attach the same in applied position, a plate, a pin pivotally connecting the plate with the second side wall of the bracket, said pin bridging the space between the side walls of the bracket to provide a shaft, said plate being provided with an outstanding foot to engage an end portion of a guide rod, a roller mounted upon the portion of the pin between the side walls of the bracket, the intermediate wall of the bracket being provided with an opening.

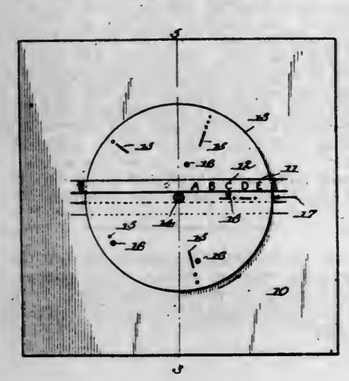
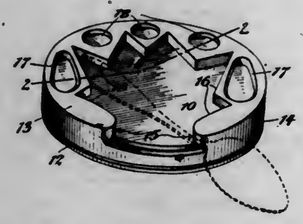
1,457,466. PROCESS OF PURIFYING GELATIN AND GLUE. CLAUDE R. SMITH, Washington, D. C. Filed June 19, 1920. Serial No. 390,253. 1 Claim. (Cl. 87—7.) Filed under the act of Mar. 3, 1883, 22 Stat. L., 625.)



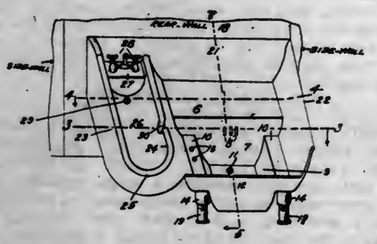
A process of purifying gelatin and glue free from mineral matter, acids and alkalies which comprises extensive dialysis with acidified salt solutions, then consecutive applications of neutral salt solutions of gradually decreased strengths, and finally pure water.

1,457,467. DEVICE FOR OPERATING UPON THE CARDS OF CARDING ENGINES. JOSEPH J. SMITH, Cambridge, Mass. Filed May 6, 1919. Serial No. 295,185. 9 Claims. (Cl. 19—109.)



2. A portable device of the class described for operating upon a card cylinder of a carding engine having, in combination, a roll to act on the card, brackets for attachment to the carding engine, bearings for the ends of the roll adapted to be slid on the brackets in a direction to move the roll directly toward the axis of the card cylinder into operative position, and means cooperating with the bearings and brackets for locking the roll in operative position.

1,457,468. EDUCATIONAL DEVICE. THEODORE M. SMITH, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 12, 1922. Serial No. 581,505. 4 Claims. (Cl. 35—9.)



1. A new article of manufacture comprising a base, strips stamped out from said base, and disks mounted for rotation on said base, said disks being interposed between said base and said strip.

1,457,469. ENGRAVER'S TRANSFERRING DEVICE. EDWARD B. STEELE, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Queen City Material Co., Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 17, 1922. Serial No. 553,978. 8 Claims. (Cl. 41—1.)

1. An engraver's transferring device, comprising a transfer pad, and a holder for said pad having a flange overlapping the upper side of said pad and provided with a gage.

1,457,470. COMBINED STATIONARY WASHSTAND AND BATH CHAIR. GEORGE F. STEINKAMP, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Aug. 26, 1921. Serial No. 495,634. 3 Claims. (Cl. 4—27.)

1. In combination, in a device of the character described, a bath-chair section and a laterally-disposed elongated integral washstand-section, the said bath-chair section comprising a horizontal transverse body-portion or bathing-seat proper, a foot-basin arranged forward of said bathing-seat proper and having a fore guard-wall, foot-rests at the opposite side-ends of the foot-basin, elevated back and side walls for the said bathing-seat proper and foot-basin, respectively, and said laterally-disposed elongated washstand-section extending integrally from one end of said bathing-seat proper and its fore foot-basin, means for independently supplying water to the washstand and foot-basin and likewise draining it therefrom, means for supporting the combined duplex bath-chair and washstand, and overflow-means from the washstand into the foot-basin and thence into the drain-pipe, substantially as shown and described.

1,457,471. AUTOMOBILE GASOLINE GAUGE. WILLIAM DAVID STIVERS, Detroit, Mich., assignor of one-half to George P. Kimmel, Washington, D. C. Filed July 12, 1918. Serial No. 244,616. 7 Claims. (Cl. 73—82.)

2. A gasoline or fluid gauge, comprising a closure for a tank opening or the like, having a transparent cover, a dial within the closure, a stem depending from the dial and rigidly supported in a vertical position, said stem having its lower end formed with a horizontal apertured projection, another stem crossing the first named stem and having a crank portion at its lower end pivotally engaged with said horizontal portion and having a crank portion at its upper end rotatable axially in the diel, a pointer on the upper end of said last named crank portion, and a float having a vertical aperture receiving said stems, said float upon vertical movement causing the rotation of the second named stem whereby the opposite ends thereof will be caused to approach or separate from the first mentioned stem as and for the purposes specified.

1,457,472. DRAFT EQUALIZER. VENCEL J. TICHOTA and AUGUST TICHOTA, Dodge, Nebr. Filed June 11, 1921. Serial No. 476,796. 1 Claim. (Cl. 278—8.)

A draft equalizer comprising a tongue including upper and lower members, a lever therebetween having limited relative movement, a short draft lever pivotally connected to the front end of the tongue, a long draft lever pivotally connected to an intermediate portion of the tongue, the two levers being extended in opposite directions, an equalizing lever pivotally mounted within the long draft lever and extending transversely through the tongue, a link connection between said equalizing lever and the short draft lever, a link connection between the equalizing lever and the first named lever.

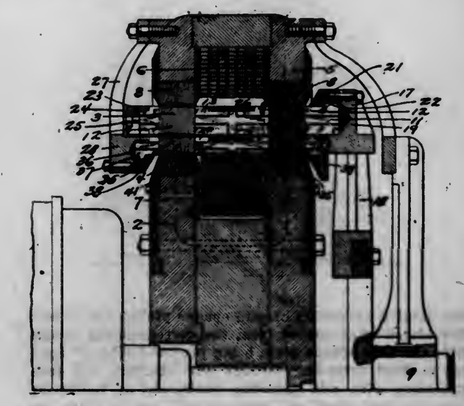
1,457,473. COMBINATION TAIL LIGHT AND DIRECTION INDICATOR. ALFRED E. TINKER, Stockton, Calif. Filed Mar. 16, 1921. Serial No. 452,881. 2 Claims. (Cl. 177—337.)

2. In a signal of the class described, a light box made to be mounted upon an automobile, a light in said box, an opening in the front of the box through which the light is adapted to be projected for signaling purposes, a cover hinged within the light box adapted to normally overlie said opening, a plate mounted upon the top of the light box and exteriorly thereof and connected to said cover at right angles thereto, said plate adapted to be actuated through the movement of said cover and normally lying flat upon the top of the light box when the cover is overlying the opening in the front of the light box, and a signal on the face of said plate adapted to be displayed when the plate is moved to upstanding position upon the top of the light box when the cover is moved away from the opening in the light box, the means for actuating said cover and said plate comprising a solenoid mounted within the light box and an operating connection between said solenoid and said cover.



1,457,474. BRAIDING MACHINE. CARL TOBER, Berlin, Germany. Filed Jan. 31, 1921. Serial No. 441,423. 2 Claims. (Cl. 96—6.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)

1. In a braiding machine, the combination with the inner and outer bobbins revolving in opposite directions and bobbin frames therefor, of slides carrying the inner bobbins, rollers carried by the said slides, a track for the said slides, driving rollers for moving said rollers and thereby said slides along the said track, means for operating the said driving rollers, guide-rollers carried by said slides, and a supporting track for said guide-rollers.

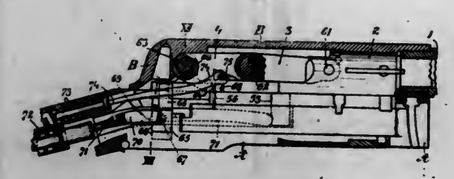
1,457,475. ELECTROMAGNETIC APPARATUS. RUDOLPH W. VAN NORDEN, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Jan. 28, 1920. Serial No. 354,566. 12 Claims. (Cl. 172—239.)

1. In an electro-magnetic machine, a drum comprising a plurality of contiguous bars of non-magnetic dielectric material, and magnetic segments disposed between portions of the bars.

1,457,476. COMPUTING MACHINE. HARRY H. VICKERS, Corona, N. Y., assignor to Underwood Computing Machine Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 5, 1921. Serial No. 449,641. 21 Claims. (Cl. 235—60.)



1. A combined tabulator stop and motor-trip actuator, comprising a fixed portion to actuate a motor trip and a member shiftable to and from effective position and spaced at a plurality of denominational distances from said fixed portion, so that when said member is in effective position it will actuate the motor-trip actuator before it can be actuated by the fixed portion.

13. In a combined typewriting and computing machine, in combination, computing mechanism including two registers in which computations are to be effected according to a decimal system and a non-decimal system, respectively, tabulating mechanism whereby tabulating may be effected for both registers with provision for punctuation spacing, said tabulating mechanism comprising tabulator keys, certain of which may be used in connection with both registers, and a tabulator stop on the carriage for use with both registers, a motor trip to determine when numbers are to be run into the registers, and motor-trip-actuating means on said stop, the action of which may be varied in accordance with the register in use.

1,457,477. AUTOMATIC FIREARM. FRITZ WALTHER and GEORG WALTHER, Zella-Mehlis, Germany. Filed Aug. 29, 1921. Serial No. 496,758. 7 Claims. (Cl. 42—4.)

1. A recoiling barrel gun comprising in combination a recoiling barrel, a receiver, a breech block, a breech slide and a toggle joint between the slide and block, a lateral cam on the rear member of said toggle joint, a spring controlled arm pivotally mounted on the wall of said receiver for stopping said lateral cam at the end of the recoil of the breech slide so that at the forward movement of the breech slide the said toggle joint is bent and the breech block is opened, a barrel return spring for returning said breech slide means controlled by said spring to push the said spring controlled arm back to release the said cam, and a recoil spring for stretching said toggle joint to close the breech block.

1,457,478. LEMON AND LIME SQUEEZER. JOHN D. WILLIAMS and JACK ROBERT BOLTON, Sulphur Springs, and FELIX LOUIS STRUVE, Greenville, Tex. Filed Dec. 30, 1920. Serial No. 434,098. 4 Claims. (Cl. 100—41.)

1. In a device of the character described, coacting presser bars consisting of sections, hinged connections for independently connecting said sections to constitute pairs, a hinge connection for pivotally connecting said pairs of sections together, said presser bar sections having cooperating recesses and protuberances, a cutting blade for each pair of presser bar sections having a plurality of perforations therein to permit of the discharge of the expressed juice, and guiding means for said presser bar sections including a stud and recess, and guide strips and slots.

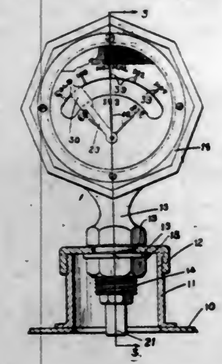
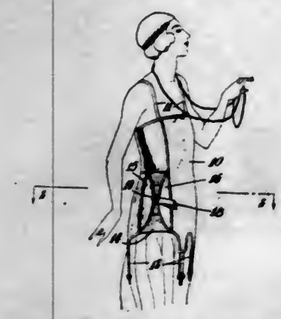
1,457,479. METHOD OF INCREASING THE YIELD OF OIL WELLS. EDSON R. WOLCOTT, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Jan. 12, 1920. Serial No. 350,935. 8 Claims. (Cl. 166—21.)

8. The method of operating oil wells consisting of closing the top of a central well, pumping air into said well, producing combustion therein, and pumping the surrounding wells.



1,457,480. COOLING DEVICE FOR CURVED STEREOTYPE PRINTING PLATES. HENRY A. WISE WOOD, New York, N. Y., assignor to Wood Newspaper Machinery Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Virginia. Original application filed Sept. 16, 1913, Serial No. 790,072. Divided and this application filed Dec. 15, 1917, Serial No. 207,337. Renewed Nov. 16, 1922. 7 Claims. (Cl. 29—21.)

1. The combination of a cooling device arranged to receive plates and having tracks for supporting the plates, and means adjacent to said tracks for holding the plates in fixed position while being cooled.



1,457,481. MOTOR METER. HAROLD A. ADAMS, Bakersfield, Calif. Filed Oct. 6, 1921. Serial No. 505,741. 7 Claims. (Cl. 73—52.)

7. In a motor meter, a tubular base member provided on its under surface with teeth adapted to engage the cap of a filling nipple, means cooperating with said toothed surface to secure said base member to said cap, a ring integral with said base member and serving as the main frame of said motor meter, opaque plates secured to said ring at opposite sides thereof to form therebetween a chamber for a Bourdon tube and operating parts connected therewith, both of said plates being provided with arcuate slots opposite one another, glass plates corresponding in size and shape to said opaque plates and being located externally of said opaque plates, one of said glass plates being spaced from the corresponding opaque plate, and said opaque plate being provided with an aperture, a shaft extending through said aperture and communicating with said operating parts, and an indicating pointer on said shaft and between said opaque plate and said glass plate, said pointer being covered by a luminous paint and provided with an expanded end extending completely across said slots.

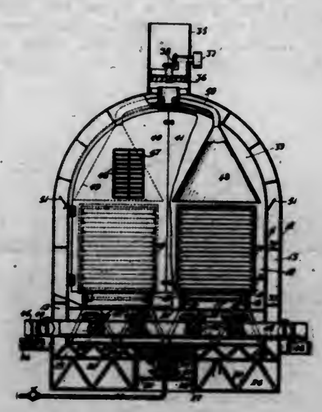
1,457,482. CORSET CONSTRUCTION. JACOB L. ALBERTS, New York, N. Y. Filed May 18, 1922. Serial No. 561,845. 5 Claims. (Cl. 2—73.)



3. A corset comprising a body, elastic inserts in the sides thereof, elastic elements of greater tensional resistance than the said inserts having one edge secured to the said body and spaced laterally from the sides of said inserts, inelastic flaps secured to the said elastic elements, and means for drawing said inelastic flaps together.

1,457,483. DESICCATOR. EDWARD D. ARIAN, San Francisco, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, of one-third to Charles P. Thomas, San Francisco, Calif., and one-third to Frank J. Rich, San Francisco, Calif.; Frank J. Rich administrator of said Charles P. Thomas, deceased. Filed Sept. 29, 1919. Serial No. 327,069. 9 Claims. (Cl. 34—39.)

1. A desiccator having a drying compartment within which material to be dehydrated may be placed, means for producing a circulation of heated air around said compartment without passing therethrough, means for conveying fresh air into the drying compartment and distributing it uniformly thereover, and means for completing the circulation of said fresh air through the drying compartment, said means including a false foraminous floor, a plurality of intersecting fresh air pipes beneath said floor with controlling registers, conical discharge domes above the drying compartments, conducting pipes therefrom, and a connected suction fan.

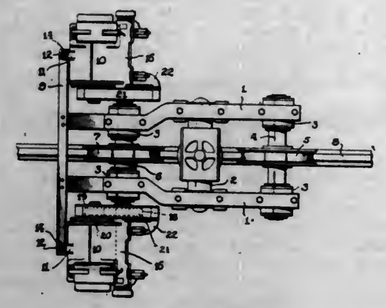
1,457,484. METHOD OF PURIFYING ACID LIQUOR. FREDERICK C. ATKINSON, Indianapolis, Ind. Filed May 27, 1919. Serial No. 300,129. 4 Claims. (Cl. 260—122.)

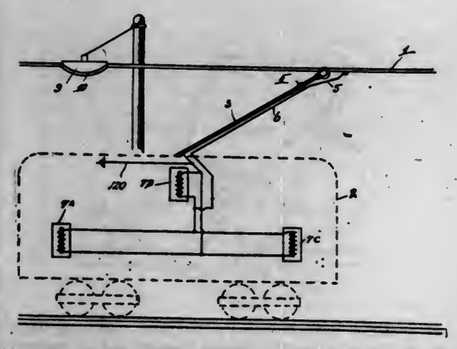


4. The process of removing impurities from acetic acid liquor obtained by the destructive distillation of cellular vegetable matter which consists in subjecting said liquor to contact with animal matter embodying parts of an animal carcass in their natural state having an affinity for said impurities.

1,457,485. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR ILLUMINATION. WEBB W. AYRES, Rochester, N. Y., assignor of three-eighths to Richard Walter White and two-eighths to Ambrose A. Merry, both of Rochester, N. Y. Filed Dec. 8, 1919. Serial No. 343,359. 7 Claims. (Cl. 240—2.)

1. In an illuminating system for a copying camera, the combination of a copy board, a series of lights grouped around said copy board and mounted concentrically thereto, reflectors for said lights, said reflectors reflecting the light rays from said lights across said board at an angle to the line of projection of the lens of the camera, said lights and their reflectors being located adjacent to the board and between the board and the lens of the camera.

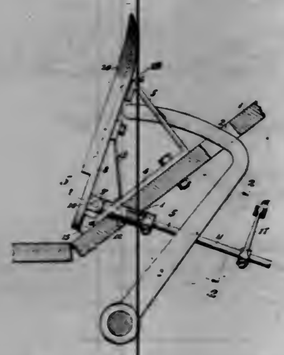
1,457,486. MOTOR SUSPENSION. OLIVER E. BARTHEL, Detroit, Mich. Filed Dec. 4, 1920. Serial No. 428,215. 12 Claims. (Cl. 105—133.)



1. The combination of a monorail truck having wheels, a wheel axle extending from the sides of said truck frame, an end frame on said truck frame, and operating means supported by said end frame and wheel axle and adapted to drive said axle.

1,457,487. GRINDING MILL. JOSEPH S. BARTLEY, Denver, Colo. Filed Apr. 5, 1919, Serial No. 287,706. Renewed Aug. 19, 1922. Serial No. 583,037. 9 Claims. (Cl. 83—9.)

1. A mill of the character described having a shell provided with longitudinal channels on its inner surface, and a lining composed of flanged sections which meet within the channels.



1,457,488. ZONE-FARE SYSTEM. CHARLES R. BARNES, Rochester, N. Y. Filed Aug. 27, 1919. Serial No. 320,204. 7 Claims. (Cl. 235—31.)

1. In a zone fare system, the combination of a plurality of registers mounted in a car, said registers indicating successive zones, means for causing said registers to change their indication as the car moves from one zone to another, one of said registers being adapted to print a ticket for a passenger with the number of the zone in which he boarded the car, the other register being adapted to print the ticket with the number of the zone in which he left the car.

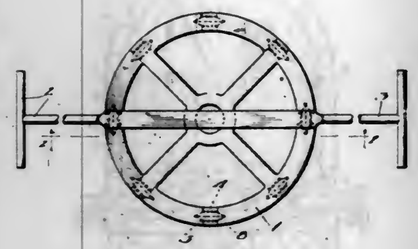
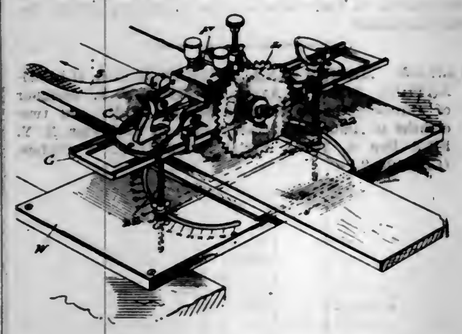
1,457,489. COMBINED FOOT BRAKE AND ACCELERATOR CONTROL MECHANISM FOR AUTOMOBILES. THEODORE V. BARTON, New York, N. Y. Filed May 3, 1922. Serial No. 558,180. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—81.)



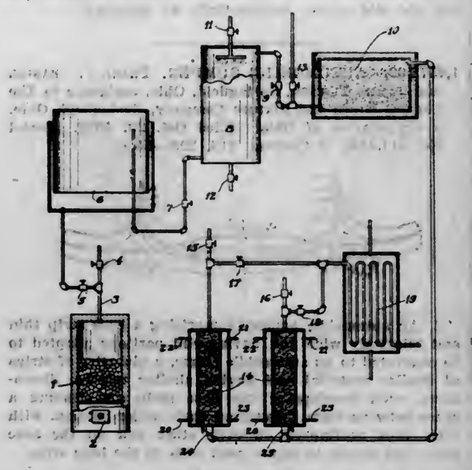
1. In an automobile, the combination with braking and accelerator mechanism, of a foot pedal movable in two distinct planes for operating the brake mechanism and accelerator mechanism respectively, means whereby the pedal cooperates with the brake mechanism when it moves in one plane, means whereby the pedal cooperates with the accelerator mechanism when it moves in the other plane, and means for locking the pedal against movement in either plane when it is moved in the other plane, substantially as set forth.

1,457,490. FEEDER FOR MILLS. JOHN W. BARWELL, JEROME WARD, NICOLAY NELSON, JOSEPH HINCHER, WALTER E. BOOTH, and WILBUR L. BLOWS, Waukegan, Ill., assignors to Blatchford Calf Meal Company, Waukegan, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Original application filed Apr. 17, 1919, Serial No. 290,273. Divided and this application filed Jan. 18, 1922. Serial No. 530,030. 2 Claims. (Cl. 83—44.)



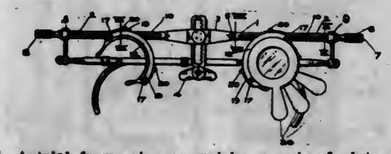
1. A hopper having therein a rotatable feed roller with longitudinally extending pockets therein and a resilient plate rigidly secured at its upper end to an inner face of said hopper and having a body portion with spring fingers at its lower end and means for adjusting the said plate so as to regulate the distance of said fingers from said feed roller.

1,457,491. TOOL FOR CUTTING GLASS WHILE IN A PLASTIC STATE. DANIEL S. BEEBE, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to The Vitrolite Company, Parkersburg, W. Va., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Jan. 8, 1921. Serial No. 435,791. 6 Claims. (Cl. 49—15.)



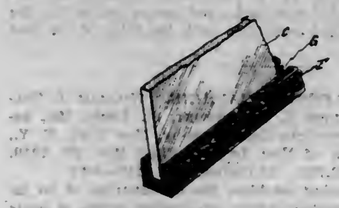
3. A cutting tool for glass comprising a frame in the form of a ring having radial stiffening arms extending across the same, and a series of small cutting wheels mounted in a circle on the under side of the ring so as to rotate about axes forming radii of said circle.

1,457,492. UNIVERSAL WOODWORKING TOOL. JAMES HENRY BLOODGOOD, Tampa, Fla., assignor to J. M. Baker and H. L. Dolive, both of Tampa, Fla. Filed June 2, 1921. Serial No. 474,351. 4 Claims. (Cl. 143—6.)



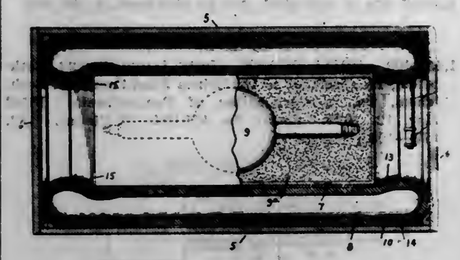
1. A woodworking device comprising a work table, a guiding platform adapted to be supported in spaced relation above said table, supporting rods pivotally connected to the platform adjacent its opposite ends, said rods in movable relation with the table being vertically adjustable therethrough and laterally adjustable in arcs, whereby the platform can be adjusted vertically in a vertical plane, transversely in a horizontal plane, or tipped transversely to any angle between vertical and horizontal, and whereby a free passage for work on the work-table between such adjusting means is provided, and a tool carriage body mounted for reciprocating movement on said platform.

1,457,493. PROCESS OF MAKING PHOSGENE. DONALD B. BRADNER, Edgewood, Md. Filed Jan. 11, 1922. Serial No. 528,551. 5 Claims. (Cl. 260—166.)



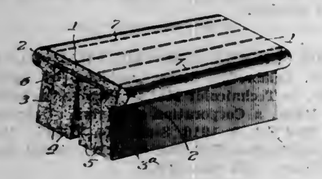
1. In a process of making phosgene, treating chlorine with a mixture of CO highly diluted by inert gas and then subjecting the gaseous product to the action of an adsorbent for removing the phosgene from the other gases.

1,457,494. TRIAL FRAME. LUCIAN W. BUGBEE, Southbridge, Mass., assignor to American Optical Company, Southbridge, Mass., a Voluntary Association of Massachusetts. Filed Dec. 18, 1917. Serial No. 207,709. 13 Claims. (Cl. 88—20.)



1. A trial frame ring comprising a pair of plate members of substantially circular form having central apertures formed therethrough and having the edge defining the aperture and the peripheral edge each bevelled, and means for securing a pair of plates together with their bevelled sides toward each other whereby an inner lens receiving groove and an outer frame receiving groove is provided in the completed trial lens cell.

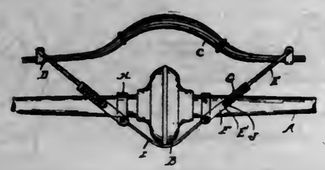
1,457,495. RUNWAY FOR GLASS. HORACE H. BUGGIE, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to The Dura Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 19, 1920. Serial No. 390,244. 3 Claims. (Cl. 266—44.5.)



1. A window runway comprising a strip of fibrous yieldable material, having a longitudinal channel therein for receiving the edge of a window glass, said channel being formed in the strip.

1,457,496. PACKING RECEPTACLE. HENRY E. BUTLER, Schenectady, N. Y. Filed Dec. 27, 1920. Serial No. 433,085. 6 Claims. (Cl. 206—62.)

1. A packing receptacle for fragile articles comprising a double walled envelope open at one end to receive a fragile article, the inner wall of said envelope being formed of rubber and adapted to extend beyond the end of the article whereby when the envelope is inflated it will bulge over the end of the article to hold it against movement.



1,457,497. ERASER. FRED E. CARDY, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 5, 1921. Serial No. 489,983. 6 Claims. (Cl. 15—223.)

1. An eraser having its body formed of a plurality of connected parts, each of which is laminated, said parts being arranged side by side and in contact with one another, and stitching passing transversely through each of said parts without passing through any other part.

6. An eraser comprising a back formed of a piece of material which is bent along its edges to form the outer sides of the eraser body and strips arranged between said side strips, said intermediate strips being divided into two groups and the strips of each group being separately stitched to the adjacent side strip, other stitching passing through the eraser back and engaging the aforesaid stitching, and a stiffening member interposed between the back and said intermediate strips and held in place by said last mentioned stitching.

1,457,498. STABILIZER FOR MOTOR-VEHICLE SPRING SUSPENSIONS. WILLIAM R. COCHRAN, Detroit, Mich., assignor of four-fifths to Daniel P. Cassidy, John G. Cross, Thomas W. Parker, and S. Waldeman Sorensen, all of Detroit, Mich. Filed May 10, 1922. Serial No. 559,705. 4 Claims. (Cl. 267—28.)

1. The combination with an axle and a spring arranged parallel thereto, of a stabilizer comprising clips respectively secured to the spring and the axle, an obliquely inclined rod extending between said clips and pivotally engaging the same, and a spring sleeved upon said rod having its opposite ends respectively bearing against one of said clips, and an abutment on the rod.

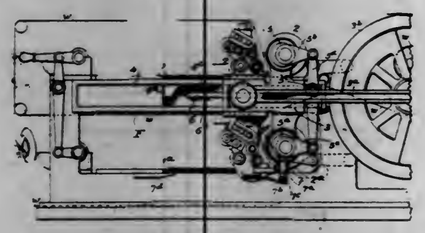
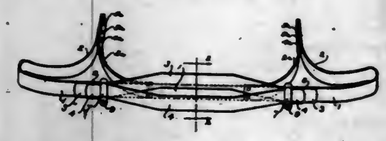
1,457,499. DRILL SHANK. JOHN JAMES COFFEY, Bethlehem, Pa., assignor to Bethlehem Steel Company, Bethlehem, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 12, 1921. Serial No. 451,694. 9 Claims. (Cl. 279—103.)



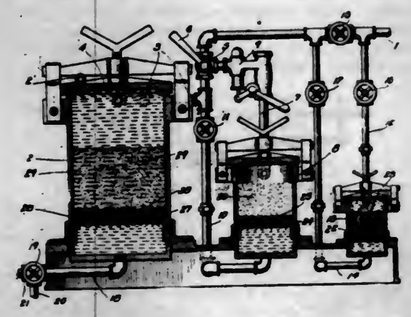
1. A shank for drills comprising a tapered portion integral with the drill adapted to fit in the conical end of the collect or driving member and having in its end a transverse groove of greater width below its top than at the top, and a detachable similarly tapered portion or member having a transverse tang or tongue on its larger end adapted to enter said groove from its end and to closely fit the same and prevent relative rotary or longitudinal movement of the portions and a tang on the smaller end adapted to engage the driving member to prevent turning.

1,457,500. CINEMATOGRAPHIC FILM. DANIEL F. COMSTOCK, Cambridge, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation, Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Maine. Original application filed Feb. 9, 1916, Serial No. 77,237. Divided and this application filed Oct. 6, 1920. Serial No. 415,074. 44 Claims. (Cl. 88—19.5.)



1. A cinematographic film having a plurality of series of images, the images of the respective series being complemental to each other, the images of certain series having certain corresponding sides directed in the same direction and other corresponding sides directed in different directions.

1,457,501. IMPRESSION THROW OFF AND ON DEVICE FOR TRAVELING-CYLINDER PRESSES. PAUL F. COX, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 27, 1921. Serial No. 495,872. 21 Claims. (Cl. 101—283.)

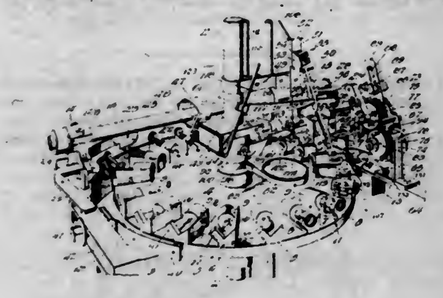


1. In a printing press, a bed, a cylinder, reciprocating crossheads carrying the cylinder, guideways for said cross heads in the main frame of the press, means for raising and lowering the cylinder carried by the crossheads, and cams in the guideway for alternately actuating the said means, substantially as described.

1,457,502. AUTOMOBILE BUMPER. PEARL P. CRABILL and JAMES TURNER, Springfield, Ohio, assignors to The Central Brass and Fixture Company, Springfield, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Oct. 29, 1921. Serial No. 511,413. 4 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

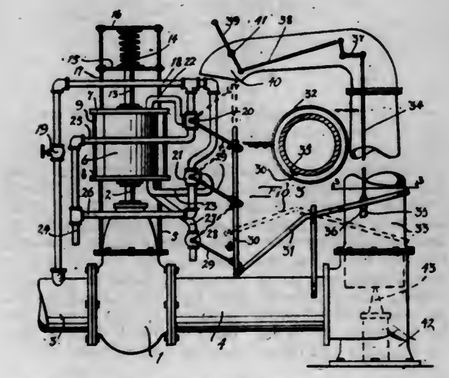
2. An automobile bumper comprising a base strip thin and relatively wide and having end portions adapted to be connected to an automobile frame, a plurality of strips of similar material and having similar relative dimensions, each overlapping the base strip and leaving a space between them throughout their major portion, with their ends overlapped on each other and on the base strip, and means to secure such ends to the base strip.

1,457,503. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR THE PURIFICATION OF WATER. WALTER M. CROSS, Kansas City, Mo., assignor to Myrtle B. Cape, Wilmette, Ill. Filed May 26, 1920. Serial No. 384,301. 7 Claims. (Cl. 210—24.)



1. An apparatus for treating water comprising a receptacle having an inlet and an outlet, a glauconite bed in said receptacle, a second receptacle having an inlet and an outlet, a calcium hypochlorite bed in said receptacle through which liquid flows from the inlet to the outlet, means for connecting the outlet of the second receptacle with the inlet of the first receptacle, a third receptacle, a saline bed in the third receptacle, a water inlet for the third receptacle, and means connecting the outlet of the third receptacle with the inlet of the first receptacle.

1,457,504. SOLDERING MACHINE. WILLIAM J. CULLEN and WALTER L. RUTKOWSKI, St. Louis, Mo., assignors to American Can Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Mar. 20, 1919. Serial No. 283,785. 25 Claims. (Cl. 113—59.)



1. In a soldering machine, the combination of an intermittently movable carrier, an endless series of seats and retaining members arranged along said carrier for holding pairs of separate articles in contact with each other to be soldered together, said seats being arranged to permit both of said articles to gravitate one above the other and to arrest the same when in alined position, and means for feeding solder intermittently to the joint between the articles of said pairs after they are positioned on said seats and as they are presented by the movement of said carrier.

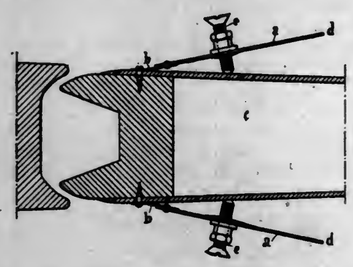
1,457,505. WATER-CONTROLLING DEVICE. THOMAS CURRAN, Streator, Ill. Filed Sept. 22, 1921. Serial No. 502,484. 1 Claim. (Cl. 137—139.)

The combination with a gate valve having a valve stem, a water main connected with the valve, and a spring for exerting a downward pressure upon said valve stem to yieldably close said vale, of a cylinder disposed adjacent to said valve, a piston within said cylinder, a rod connecting said piston with said valve stem, a valve having three ports, one port connected with said water main, another communicating with the interior of said piston at its upper end, and the third connected with a discharge pipe, a second valve having three ports, the first port being connected with said water main, the second port communicating with said cylinder at its lower end, and the third port communicating with said discharge pipe, a third valve having one port communicating with the lower end of said cylinder, and the others with a discharge pipe, and means for actuating said valves simultaneously, whereby water may enter from said main into the upper portion of said cylinders to cause said piston to move downwardly, and water within said cylinder may be discharged through the two remaining valves associated with the lower end of the cylinder to cause said gate valve to close.



1,457,506. STOVE. LEWIS C. DANNREUTHER, Oklahoma, Okla. Filed Dec. 21, 1921. Serial No. 523,999. 2 Claims. (Cl. 126—39.)

1. A combined heating and cooking stove, embodying a cabinet provided with a baffle plate dividing the same into upper and lower compartments, a depending flange at the front of said baffle plate, burners in the upper part of the upper compartment, and a burner in the lower compartment situated at a distance from the front thereof, whereby the air is drawn into the lower compartment up and around the burner therein and out beneath said depending flange and into the lower portion of the upper compartment.

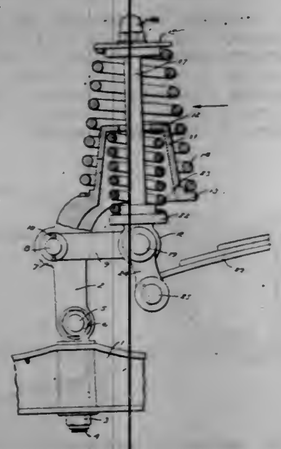
1,457,507. METHOD PERMITTING TO REGULATE AND ADJUST THE DYNAMIC CHARACTERISTICS OF SURFACES MOVING THROUGH A FLUID. GUSTAVE DELAGE, Paris, France, assignor to Societe Anonyme des Etablissements Nieuport, Issy-les-Moulineaux, Seine, France. Filed Oct. 6, 1920. Serial No. 415,134. 1 Claim. (Cl. 244—29.)

In a flying machine, the arrangement at any suitable point, on the surfaces subjected to aerodynamic reactions, of metallic strips inclined with respect to said surfaces, flexible plates on the edges of the metallic strips, on the one hand, and on the wing surfaces on the other hand; nuts attached on said metallic strips, screws passing through said nuts and bearing on the wing surface to permit of modifying the inclination of the metallic strips.

1,457,508. FOUNTAIN SOLDERING TOOL. ALEXANDER DELLMAN, Mount Clements, Mich. Filed May 16, 1921. Serial No. 470,146. 15 Claims. (Cl. 219—27.)



11. In a fountain soldering tool, a sheathing tube, a solder-containing chamber in the form of a barrel provided at each end with collars, an electric resistance element wound about the soldering tube but having its windings of less diameter than the said collars, a tip communicating with the solder-containing chamber and provided with a discharge orifice, and means for controlling the flow of the solder through the discharge orifice.

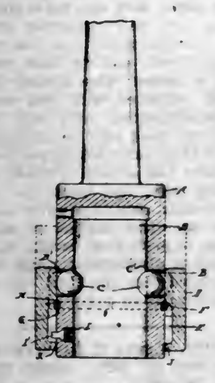
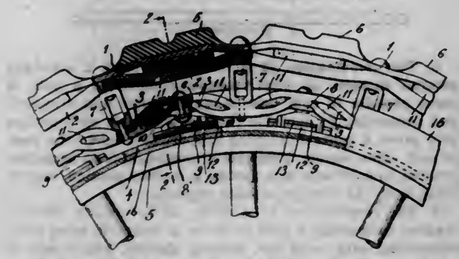
1,457,509. SHOCK-ABSORBING APPARATUS FOR VEHICLES. OLIVER P. EDWARDS, Leipsic, Ohio. Filed Mar. 1, 1922. Serial No. 540,303. 4 Claims. (Cl. 267—29.)



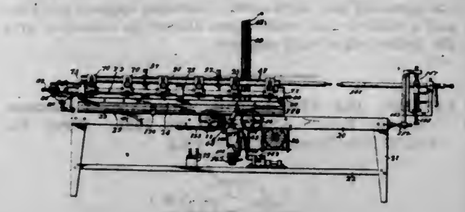
1. In combination, a stanchion mounted on an axle, a supporting plate thereon, an elongated hollow frusto-conical projection on said plate having a cap thereon with an aperture in the center thereof, a conical resilient element mounted on said plate and having its lower portion surrounding said conical member, a suspension member within said conical resilient element passing through said aperture, a plate on the top of said suspension member, and means for retaining it thereon, said plate being adapted to prevent the shifting of the top of the resilient element with reference to the suspension member, a second plate on the other end of said suspension member, a second resilient element interposed between the bottom of the cap member of the conical member and said plate on the bottom of the suspension member, said second resilient element being housed for the greater portion of its length within the conical member and thus within the lower portion of the first resilient member, and means for connecting a leaf spring pivotally to the bottom of said suspension member.

1,457,510. AUTOMATIC FIRE SHUTTER FOR MOVING-PICTURE MACHINES. WILLIAM ELLWOOD, Hempstead, N. Y., assignor to Nicholas Power Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 26, 1921. Serial No. 464,591. 3 Claims. (Cl. 88—17.)



3. In a projector for motion pictures comprising a film driving mechanism, a shaft provided on the body of the projector, a shutter hinged to said shaft and normally held in a raised position, means cooperating with the film for releasing the holding means for said shutter whenever the motion of said film becomes arrested without simultaneous stopping of the driving mechanism, thereby allowing the shutter to drop into closed position with the apparatus otherwise undisturbed, said shutter and its actuating mechanism being mounted directly upon the projector and as an essential part thereof.

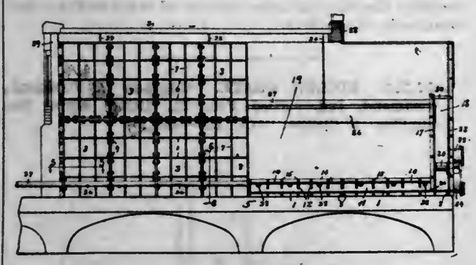
1,457,511. TOOL HOLDER. EDWIN R. EVANS, Detroit, Mich., assignor of one-half to B. F. Everitt, Detroit, Mich. Filed Apr. 20, 1921. Serial No. 462,988. 7 Claims. (Cl. 279—75.)



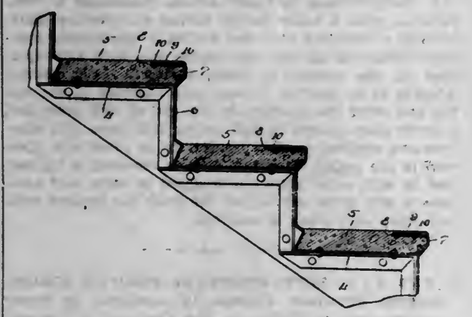
1. A tool holder having a socket opening in an end thereof and formed with an opening through the wall of said socket, a locking member engaging in said opening, a sleeve embracing said holder, having a portion of its interior face substantially conforming to the exterior face of the holder, and registrable with said opening in one limiting position of said sleeve, to project said locking member into said socket, and having another portion of its interior face formed with an annular channel registrable with said opening in the other limiting position of said sleeve to permit retraction of said locking member, and a split ring within said channel of the sleeve, limiting sliding movement thereof, said ring engaging in an annular groove of the holder, having one side gradually inclined to the exterior face of the holder to permit forcing of said ring out of said holder upon subjection of said ring to a sudden impact by the sleeve.

1,457,512. RESILIENT TIRE. ETHELBERT FAVARY, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 16, 1920. Serial No. 424,407. 9 Claims. (Cl. 152—1.)

6. In combination with a wheel, a resilient tire embodying a plurality of circumferential bands, a plurality of rigid supports interposed in spaced relation to each other between the several bands and between the innermost band and the wheel and maintaining the bands under tension in a longitudinal direction, and thin sheets of rubber situated between the innermost supports and the wheel to lend slight added resiliency to the whole.



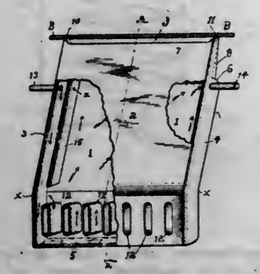
1,457,513. ELECTRIC WELDING MACHINE. JOSEPH W. FAY, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Fred Pabst Company, a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Apr. 10, 1920. Serial No. 374,817. 43 Claims. (Cl. 219—8.)



1. In a welding machine a frame, an electrode support slidably mounted on said frame, a work support slidably mounted on said frame, driving means, friction operable means operatively connecting said electrode support with said driving means, and friction operable means operatively connecting said work support with said driving means.

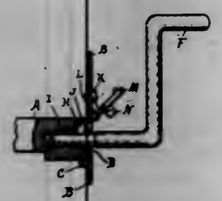
1,457,514. FILTRATION CHAMBER. JOHN W. FLOWER, Detroit, Mich., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Michigan Valve Foundry and Engineering Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Nov. 12, 1921. Serial No. 514,771. 8 Claims. (Cl. 210—130.)

7. In a filtration unit, the combination of a rectangular chamber having its bottom and sides formed of panels, a false bottom in said chamber consisting of perforated plates, an air main consisting of sections constituting portions of the panels of one of the sides of the chamber, and distributing pipes extending transversely to said air main beneath said perforated plates.



1,457,515. STAIR CONSTRUCTION. PAUL FRISCH, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 25, 1921. Serial No. 480,307. 4 Claims. (Cl. 72—96.)

1. In a stairs construction, the combination of a moulding member for the front edge of the step, having a rearwardly extending flange of substantially the same width as the safety tread, a safety tread secured to said flange and a filling of concrete or the like forming the main portion of the step and having its upper surface substantially flush with the safety tread.



1,457,516. BOILER MAGAZINE FRONT. CHARLES C. FULGHUM, Richmond, Ind. Filed Feb. 21, 1921. Serial No. 446,882. 3 Claims. (Cl. 122—212.)

1. A boiler magazine front comprising a flat container, an inlet near the top and at one side of the device, an outlet opposite to said inlet, means for causing the circulation to pass downward from the inlet and then upward to the outlet, a flange extending the full length of and upward from the upper edge of the container, means for preventing the upper edge of the flange from contacting an element located thereabove, and flues extending through the lower portion of the container, substantially as set forth.

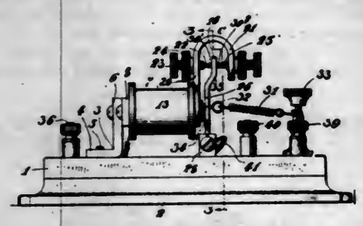
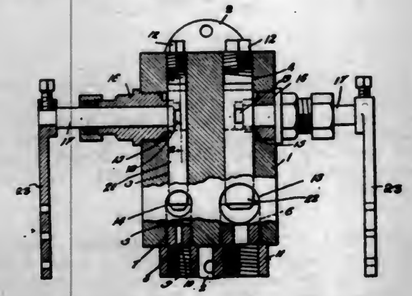
1,457,517. BOILER GRATE. CHARLES C. FULGHUM, Richmond, Ind. Filed Feb. 21, 1921. Serial No. 446,883. 2 Claims. (Cl. 126—169.)



1. Improvements in boiler grates, comprising in combination with a boiler casing having an aperture therethrough a rotatable grate bar having a non-circular aperture formed in its end and registering with said aperture in the casing; a crank having a stem portion adapted to be inserted through said aperture in the casing and enter the aperture in the end of said grate bar, a cover plate hinged to said casing and above said aperture and adapted to close by gravity to cover said aperture in the casing when said stem is removed, a lug carried by said cover plate and adapted to enter said aperture in said grate bar to lock the grate bar against rotation when said crank is removed.

1,457,518. SUPPLEMENTARY VEHICLE SPRING. SAMUEL FURMIDGE, Chicago, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to William E. Dee Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Nov. 13, 1920. Serial No. 423,838. Renewed Jan. 6, 1923. 9 Claims. (Cl. 267—29.)

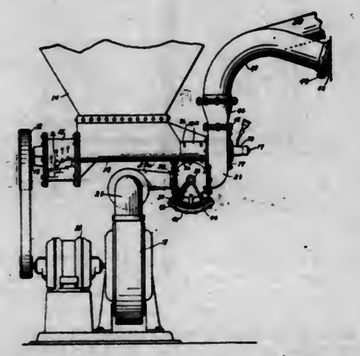
1. The combination with a main spring and a member adapted to be cushioned thereby, of a coil spring arranged between said main spring and said member and connected thereto at its ends, a U-shaped steadying device embracing said coil spring, the free end of one arm of said steadying device being pivotally connected to said member at the point of attachment between the latter and the coil spring, the free end of the other arm of said steadying device being pivotally connected to the main spring at the point of attachment between the latter and the coil spring, said U-shaped device being made in two parts pivotally connected together.



1,457,519. ELECTROMAGNETIC APPARATUS. GEORGE FUSSNER, Menominee, Mich., assignor to Signal Electric Mfg. Co., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed July 7, 1920. Serial No. 394,487. 16 Claims. (Cl. 200—87.)

3. The combination in a relay of a base, a standard secured thereon, an electromagnet comprising a pair of cores parallel to said base mounted upon said standard and projecting to one side thereof, solenoids surrounding said cores, a contact-carrying support secured to the ends of said cores remote from said standard, and an armature pivoted to said base and having a contact portion cooperating with the contact on said support.

6. The combination in a relay, of a base, an electromagnet comprising a pair of cores, a magnetic cross piece connecting said cores and secured thereto, and a pair of solenoids surrounding said cores with one end adjacent said cross-piece, a sheet metal standard supporting said electromagnet upon said base, said standard comprising a vertical portion secured to said cross-piece, and a horizontal portion extending from said vertical portion in a direction opposite to that of said cores and secured to said base, said cores projecting beyond the ends of said solenoids remote from said standard, a sheet metal contact-carrying support provided with openings embracing the projecting ends of the cores with a friction fit, said support extending upwardly from said cores and having its free end extending downwardly, an armature pivoted to said base adjacent said projecting core ends and having an integral tongue at its upper end extending between the upwardly and downwardly extending support portions, and a contact upon said tongue aligned to cooperate with the contact upon said support.



1,457,520. OIL REGULATOR. ALEXANDER T. GARDEN, Augusta, Kans. Filed Aug. 29, 1921. Serial No. 496,711. 3 Claims. (Cl. 277—2.)

2. A regulator of the class described including a body having parallel bores, there being ports opening into the respective bores, combined plugs and valve seats closing the bores at one end and having openings therethrough, plugs closing the other ends of the bores, plungers within the respective bores and constituting valves, oppositely extending shafts, means for rotating them, and cooperating means upon the shafts and the respective plungers for transmitting motion from the shafts to the plungers.

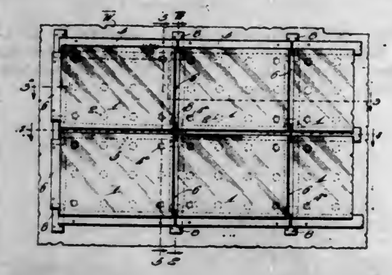
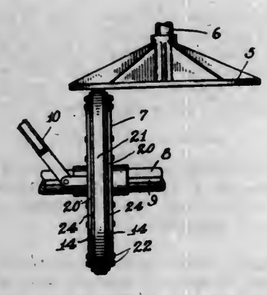
1,457,521. POWDERED-COAL APPARATUS. AUBREY J. GRINDLE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Grindle Fuel Equipment Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 29, 1919. Serial No. 314,136. 1 Claim. (Cl. 302—42.)

In a powdered coal apparatus, in combination, a fuel hopper, a feed screw at the bottom of said hopper, a shaft carrying the screw and extending beyond the same at its delivery end, a stationary ribbed plate surrounding the feed screw at its said delivery end, a second ribbed plate carried by and revolving with said shaft and adjustably spaced from said first named plate, a conduit enclosing said plates, means for producing a blast of air in said conduit about and between the plates and in a direction parallel with the plane of the plates, and means for adjusting the volume of air in said blast.



1,457,522. POWDERED-COAL APPARATUS. AUBREY J. GRINDLE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Grindle Fuel Equipment Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 29, 1919. Serial No. 314,137. 8 Claims. (Cl. 110—104.)

1. In a powdered fuel feeder, in combination, a burner, a circular conduit adapted to have a blast of air and fuel passed therethrough, an expanding connection applied to the delivery end of the conduit for reducing the velocity of said blast and a flattened connection between said expanding connection and said burner.



1,457,523. WALL FACING. DAVID HAMILTON, Greensburg, Pa. Filed Jan. 16, 1922. Serial No. 529,752. 4 Claims. (Cl. 72—19.)

1. A facing for walls or the like formed from a plurality of comparatively large tiles or blocks arranged in vertical and horizontal rows with their adjacent edges permanently spaced from each other to provide alined vertical and horizontal spaces, and a plurality of relatively smaller vertically and horizontally disposed tiles placed against the inner faces of the large tiles and extending across the spaces to render the small tiles visible through said spaces and to impart an artistic appearance to the facing.

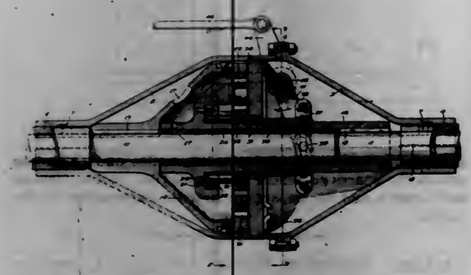
1,457,524. FRICTION WHEEL. WILLIAM L. ISBILLS, Elizabeth, N. J. Filed Feb. 25, 1922. Serial No. 539,147. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—26.)

5. A friction wheel of the class described provided with a removable unitary friction ring, means adjustably mounted on said wheel for reinforcing and supporting said ring and for extending the use of the friction facing thereof, and means movable transversely of said wheel and cooperating with the inner face of said ring for rigidly holding the same in predetermined position on said wheel.



1,457,525. FRICTION WHEEL. WILLIAM L. ISBILLS, Elizabeth, N. J. Filed July 1, 1922. Serial No. 572,288. 16 Claims. (Cl. 74—26.)

1. A friction wheel of the class described provided with a friction ring, means adjustably mounted on said wheel for reinforcing and supporting said ring and for extending the use of the friction facing thereof, and adjustable means adapted to operate upon the inner face of said friction ring for firmly holding and supporting said ring on said wheel.

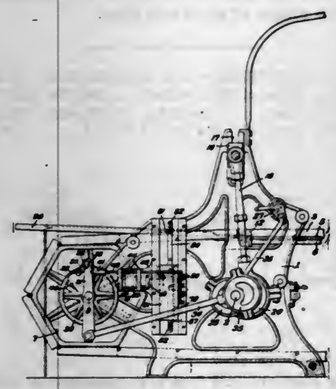
1,457,526. SPEED-CHANGE GEAR. ERNEST W. JACKSON, Sausalito, Calif. Filed July 28, 1920, Serial No. 399,546. Renewed Mar. 3, 1922. Serial No. 540,938. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—34.)

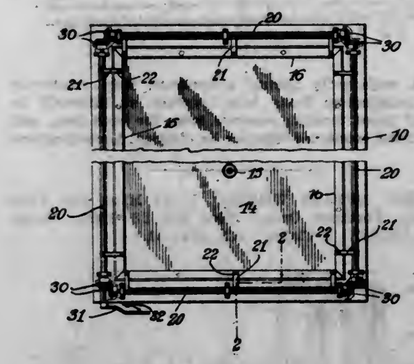
1. In a transmission mechanism a pair of alined shafts, an internal gear fixed on one of the shafts, a sleeve fixed on the other shaft, a pinion carried by the sleeve and in mesh with the internal gear, a second gear in mesh with the pinion and a slidable member for stopping the second gear or for locking it to the sleeve carrying the pinion.

1,457,527. CUTTING SHEARS. WILHELM JOHNSEN, New Brighton, N. Y., assignor to John Petterson, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Sept. 28, 1921. Serial No. 503,781. 1 Claim. (Cl. 164—46.)



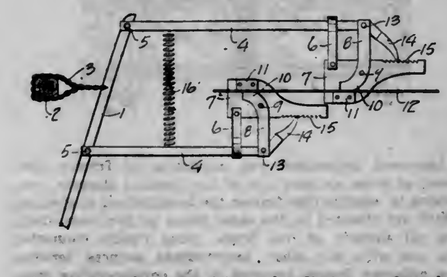
A pair of shears comprising a relatively stationary base member, a cutting blade removably secured thereto, said member being provided with an upwardly facing material guiding surface offset to one side of the cutting edge of said blade, a handle and a backing member integral with the said base member and provided with a downwardly facing material guiding surface offset to the opposite side of the said cutting edge, a movable cutting blade pivoted on said backing member in a recess therein, said backing member and movable cutting member and movable cutting blade being flush, a handle for operating said movable blade, a double link connection between said handle and said backing member, means for pivoting the movable cutting blade to said last named handle and a pin and slot connection between said backing member and said movable blade for guiding the latter.

1,457,528. GOLF-CLUB SHAFT. HARRY IVORY JORDAN, Auburn, Me. Filed Nov. 25, 1921. Serial No. 517,547. 1 Claim. (Cl. 46—4.)



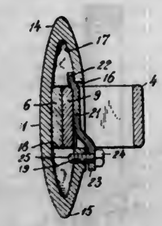
A shaft for golf clubs substantially the entire body of which is made up of a plurality of relatively thin layers of wood veneer cemented and compressed together with the grain of the wood in all the layers extending longitudinally of the shaft.

1,457,529. WIREBOUND-BOX MACHINE. HENRY J. KOCH, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Wirebounds Patents Company, Kittery, Me., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Nov. 11, 1918. Serial No. 262,028. 28 Claims. (Cl. 1—8.3.)



11. A machine for use in making wirebound boxes comprising, in combination, means including fastener-setting mechanism for applying binding wire to box parts, means including a ratchet feed device to cause relative progression between said mechanism and the work, and automatic staple-positioning means regulating the coaction of the ratchet members by breaking their engagement at selected times; said machine being adapted to operate without interruption on materials for a plurality of boxes.

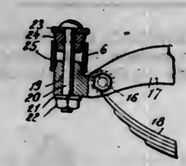
1,457,530. BLUE-PRINT FRAME. VICTOR P. LARSEN, New York, N. Y., assignor to New York Blue Print Paper Co. Inc., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 21, 1922. Serial No. 530,778. 1 Claim. (Cl. 95—76.)



In a blue print frame, the combination with a main frame having side and end members for supporting a glass plate and a superposed rubber blanket for the purposes set forth, of a rock shaft journaled upon each frame member, a clamping member associated with each frame member, each clamping member comprising an upper clamping strip secured to move with the adjacent rock shaft, a second clamping strip hinged to said upper clamping strip and a third lower clamping strip carried by said second strip and adapted to move parallel thereto, all of said clamping strips having their adjoining end beveled, means for operating all said clamping members to bring the said third clamping strips into contact with the rubber blanket and cause said strips to meet to form mitered corners, and springs interposed between said second clamping strips and said third lower clamping strips for separately and individually forcing the latter into airtight contact with the said rubber blanket as and for the purpose set forth.

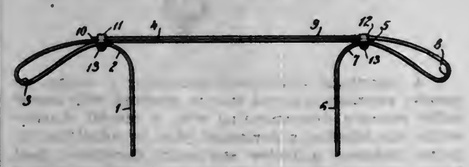
1,457,531. WIRE STRETCHER. EMERY F. LITTLE, Hudson, S. Dak. Filed Jan. 28, 1922. Serial No. 532,354. 1 Claim. (Cl. 254—81.)

A wire stretcher comprising a handle bar; a draw bar pivoted near each end of the handle bar; grip blocks having loops freely engaging the draw bars and having also ratchets on their outer edges and dogs on their side faces; grip levers pivoted to the sides of the grip blocks and having their ends pivoted to the ends of the draw bars, said levers having jaws coacting against the dogs on the grip blocks for gripping the wire; and pawls pivoted to the ends of the draw bars and adapted to engage the ratchets on the grip blocks.



1,457,532. VEHICLE BUFFER DEVICE. GEORGE ALBERT LYON, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Nov. 17, 1920. Serial No. 424,685. 6 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

2. The hollow cast metal vertically extending contact and clamping device adapted for use with spring strip automobile buffers and comprising a relatively flat front collision face and vertically extending reduced width contact ends, said contact device being formed with a lateral opening adapted to receive the buffer strips and formed with an adjacent clamping recess in the rear of said device and cooperating clamping means comprising a curved spring steel clamping tongue having an end adapted to lock within the contact device and a clamping bolt passing through a hole in the other end of said clamping tongue to force the same down into clamping engagement with a buffer strip.



1,457,533. AUTOMOBILE BUFFER ATTACHER. GEORGE ALBERT LYON, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Sept. 30, 1921. Serial No. 504,396. 18 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

7. The automobile buffer formed of resilient spring strip and comprising a resilient buffer front portion, end loops and integral attaching members the end of each of said attaching members being bifurcated and bent-outwardly to form a nearly closed gripping attaching loop, and U-bolt fastening devices to contract said attaching loops so that they are adapted to yieldingly grip vertical frame end supports secured to the ends of the vehicle frame members adjacent the spring bolts.

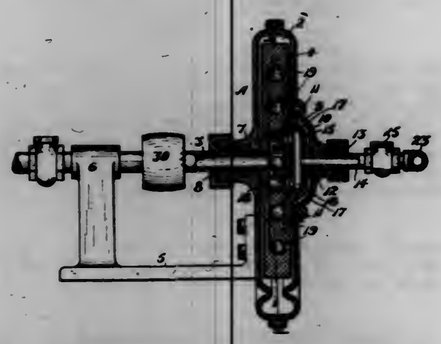
1,457,534. RESILIENT FRONT BUFFER. GEORGE ALBERT LYON, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Oct. 25, 1921. Serial No. 510,293. 11 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

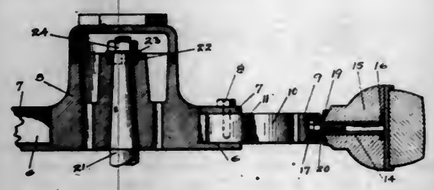


4. The automobile buffer comprising two spring steel strip members each having a substantially closed end loop and a rearwardly extending attaching member, one of said members having a front impact receiving portion extending inward from said loop to overlap and reinforce a transversely extending spring strip member of the buffer front and clamping devices to hold together said overlapping portions and the adjacent portions of said end loops.

1,457,535. NOZZLE. MERLE B. MCCUNE, Woodlawn, Pa. Filed July 2, 1921. Serial No. 482,155. 2 Claims. (Cl. 225—129.)

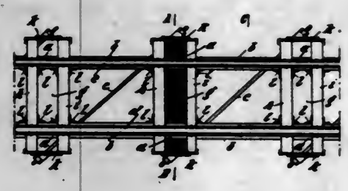
1. The combination with a nozzle of a collar adjustably mounted thereon, arms carried by said nozzle and being pivoted with respect thereto, angular extensions formed on the free ends of said arms said extensions extending in opposite directions and being provided with longitudinal slots, studs fixed to said nozzle and projecting through said slots whereby upon longitudinal adjustment of said collar said arms will be rocked upon their pivots to extend or fold said angular extensions with respect to the adjacent end of said nozzle substantially as described.

1,457,536. CENTRIFUGAL COMPRESSOR. DAVID A. MACLEAN, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Nov. 9, 1921. Serial No. 513,968. 3 Claims. (Cl. 230—14.)



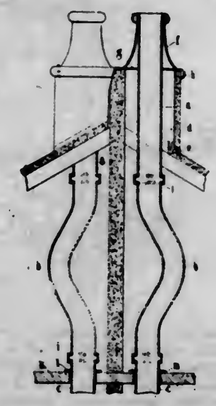
3. A centrifugal compressor comprising a casing, an impeller rotatably mounted therein provided with curved radial passages communicating with a central chamber within the impeller, a horizontal pipe for admitting air to the chamber, a hollow stationary distributor head having openings therein adjacent the periphery thereof and one wall of the chamber having openings therein to intermittently register with the openings in the distributor head, a horizontal pipe for admitting fluid to the distributor head, the adjacent walls of the chamber and distributor head changing the direction of travel of the fluid and air to direct air across the path of travel of the fluid, the said casing having an opening therein provided with a closure forming a journal bearing for one of the said pipes.

1,457,537. RAILWAY TIE. JAMES MACMARTIN, Albany, N. Y. Filed Aug. 8, 1921. Serial No. 490,511. 15 Claims. (Cl. 238—89.)



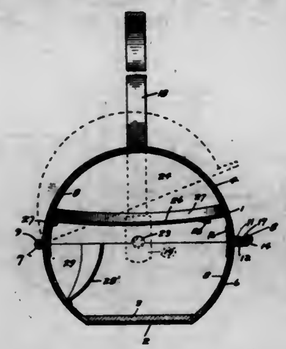
1. A railway-tie having a concrete body reinforced with longitudinal irons held together at intervals by twisted hoops forming separate loops for each iron, said loops being connected together by diagonal hoop-members.

1,457,538. SPRING WHEEL. LOUIS MARK and PETE BIALY, Portland, Oreg. Filed Oct. 28, 1922. Serial No. 597,687. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—51.)



In a wheel: a hub having pockets therein; a felloe; an annular ring reinforcing said felloe within said felloe; outwardly curved spring spokes, each mounted within one of the pockets of said hub, each spoke having an inwardly curved end resting upon the outwardly curved portion of the adjacent spoke; a thimble mounted within said felloe respective to each of said spokes; a raised seat upon said annular ring for each of said spokes; and a bolt for each of said spokes, said bolt passing through the spoke and its raised seat upon said annular ring and being threaded into one of said thimbles.

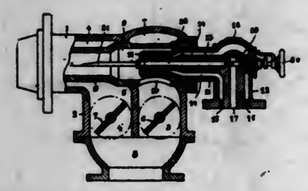
1,457,539. PERMANENT WAY. MAX MATTHAEI, Cassel-Wilhelmshohe, Germany. Filed Apr. 12, 1922. Serial No. 551,993. 1 Claim. (Cl. 238—24.)



Improved permanent way consisting of frames composed of cross sleepers and of longitudinal sleepers comprising in combination frames the longitudinal sleepers of which are situated in the same plane as the cross sleepers, all sleepers of one frame being rigidly connected the one with the other, longitudinal sleepers between two adjacent frames inserted in the corresponding cross sleepers of said frames and situated in the same plane as these cross sleepers for determining the distance between the two frames so that of every two adjacent cross sleepers a twin cross sleeper is formed, a plate of sheet iron fixed to the bottom surfaces of the cross sleepers of each twin cross sleeper and masses of broken stone and gravel filled into the open cases formed by each twin sleeper and its bottom plate in order to produce heavy supporting points for the rails.

1,457,540. CHIMNEY FOR BUILDINGS OR OTHER STRUCTURES. JOHN FREDERICK MATTHEWS, Dover, England. Filed Jan. 4, 1922. Serial No. 527,029. 5 Claims. (Cl. 72—90.)

1. A building or other structure of the kind referred to in which each metal chimney is supported by suspending it from its upper end, substantially as described.



1,457,541. VANITY CASE. ALBERT C. MAYNARD, Berkeley, Calif. Filed Aug. 8, 1921. Serial No. 490,536. 5 Claims. (Cl. 220—20.)

5. A vanity case of spherical shape having a flat bottom and stabilizing means secured to the bottom and comprising a body portion and a cover portion, a hinge connecting the two portions, automatic clamping means for offering limited resistance to the opening of the case, a reflecting exterior surface, oppositely arranged hubs projecting from the case, flexible means pivotally secured to the hubs for supporting the case, an internal lid fitting snugly into the cover portion, a spring actuating the same tending to press it into the cover, and a notch in the lid by means of which it may be handled, a curved partition separating the body portion into two compartments.

1,457,542. GASIFYING BURNER FOR LIQUID FUEL. EMIL MENGES, Wiesbaden, Germany. Filed Aug. 3, 1921. Serial No. 489,615. 2 Claims. (Cl. 158—74.)

1. A gasifying burner for liquid fuel, comprising an outer casing, two chambers in the said outer casing, an air inlet pipe communicating with the said two chambers, regulating valves for controlling the communication between the said air inlet pipe and the said two chambers, a mixing chamber arranged inside the outer casing for the liquid fuel and atmospheric air, an orifice provided in tht wall of the mixing chamber communicating with one of the chambers that communicates with the air inlet pipe, a conduit for admitting fuel to the mixing chamber, an annular heating jacket surrounding the said fuel admission conduit, a screw spindle for regulating the feed of fuel to the conduit, means provided on the said spindle for operating it from the outside, a sprayer fixed on the inner end of the fuel admission conduit, the said sprayer comprising two tubular flattened nozzles having tapering ends for increasing the outlet speed of the fuel, surfaces extending from the nozzles and vertical partitions on the said surfaces for dividing up the fuel.

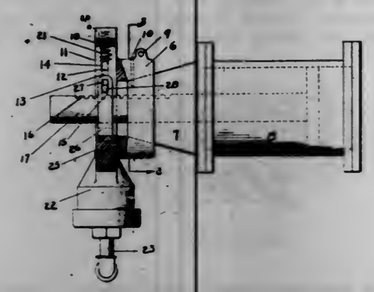
1,457,543. NITRATING AROMATIC HYDROCARBON. STUART P. MILLER and JOHN R. HESS, Philadelphia, Pa., assignors to The Barrett Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Mar. 8, 1920. Serial No. 364,145. 9 Claims. (Cl. 260—192.)

1. The herein described process of nitrating aromatic hydrocarbons solid at normal temperatures which comprises introducing said hydrocarbons in a molten state into a cool liquid and nitrating said hydrocarbon before removing it from said liquid.

1,457,544. SAFETY VALVE. ALFRED B. MYERS, Gates, Oreg. Filed Apr. 13, 1921. Serial No. 460,949. 4 Claims. (Cl. 137—53.)



1. In a safety valve: a spring actuated valve; a screw to adjust the tension in the actuating spring of said valve; and means between said actuating spring and said screw to adjust the tension of said spring independently of said screw.

1,457,545. BRAKE RETAINER. ALFRED B. MYERS, Gates, Oreg. Filed Nov. 29, 1921. Serial No. 518,595. 6 Claims. (Cl. 303—89.)

1. An air brake cylinder for railroad cars in combination with gravity operated ratchetlike mechanism for retaining the brakes in set position independently of the air pressure in said cylinder, and pneumatically operated releasing mechanism for said ratchetlike mechanism.

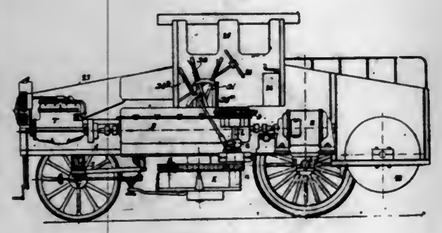
4. A brake retaining mechanism adapted to be mounted upon an air brake cylinder and to coact with teeth upon their air brake piston rod to retain the latter in set position, comprising a cylinder; a piston rod; vertical guides upon said cylinder; a dog; trunnions upon said dog operating within said guides; a yoke upon said latter piston rod adapted to embrace said first mentioned piston rod and to engage certain of said trunnions; a cap connecting the ends of said guides; and a spring intermediate said cap and said dog.

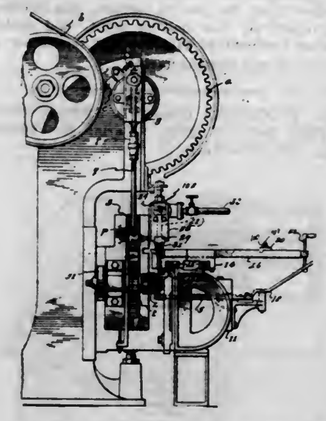
1,457,546. PUMP. TAKEO NAMURA, Walnut Grove, Calif. Filed June 29, 1921. Serial No. 481,243. 5 Claims. (Cl. 103—225.)



1. A pump comprising a cylinder; a piston reciprocal therein; a fluid compartment within said piston and having outlet openings passing through the side walls of the piston; piston rings circumscribing the piston and covering said openings; a tubular piston rod connected with the piston and communicating with the fluid compartment therein; and means within said piston rod for giving fluid in said compartment a desired pressure.

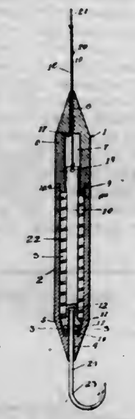
1,457,547. ATTACHMENT TO SEWING MACHINES. RAPHAËL NETTER, New York, N. Y.; Adelaide Follet Netter executrix of said Raphaël Netter, deceased. Filed May 17, 1921. Serial No. 470,336. 2 Claims. (Cl. 112—122.)

1. The combination with a sewing machine and a hem folding guide attached thereto, of a reciprocating knife located in advance of the needle and in a cut-away portion in the side of said guide back of the mouth of the same, and means driven by a moving part of the sewing machine for reciprocating said knife so that it will cut off from a fabric introduced into the guide a narrow straight edge strip.



1,457,548. MIXED-DRIVING WINDLASS VEHICLE FOR TILLING PURPOSES. AMÉDÉE PETIT, Paris, France, assignor to Societe Generale Agricole, Paris, France. Filed June 23, 1919. Serial No. 306,270. 6 Claims. (Cl. 180—14.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)

1. The combination in a mixed driven tilling windlass vehicle having propelling wheels and a winding drum, of a heat engine and an electric motor mounted on said vehicle, a transmission mechanism arranged between said motor and engine and adapted to be connected independently to said motor or engine, and means connecting said mechanism to the motion-transmitting parts for propelling the vehicle in forward and rearward directions at different speeds, or for rotating said drum.



1,457,549. CURLING MACHINE. JOSEPH O. RICHARD, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Hayes Manufacturing Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Mar. 20, 1922. Serial No. 545,014. 12 Claims. (Cl. 153—49.)

1. In a curling machine, the combination of two pairs of vertically-operating dies for performing the initial curling operation on a knuckle blank, a die for finishing the curling operation on a preceding knuckle blank, the vertically-operating dies being arranged so that with the movement of the work through the dies one set of the vertical dies become idlers when the work is moved through in one direction and active when the work is moved through in the opposite direction, and vice versa.

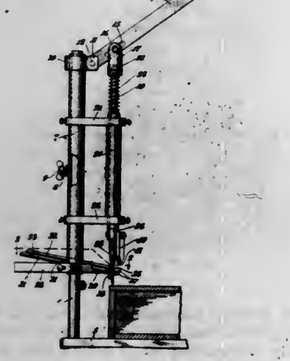
1,457,550. DETACHABLE FISHHOOK. GRANT A. RUNKEL, Lancaster, Pa. Filed Oct. 16, 1919. Serial No. 331,158. 3 Claims. (Cl. 43—28.)

1. In a device of the class described, a body; a hook-gripping means carried by the body; a fish hook held releasably by the hook-gripping means; and lines connected to the body and to the hook-gripping means, the line which is connected to the hook-gripping means being effective to release the hook-gripping means from the hook, when a fish has swallowed the body and the hook.



1,457,551. SAMPLE CONTAINER. FRANK CECIL SCHLITZER, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to The Beaver Company, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Oct. 30, 1920. Serial No. 420,589. 8 Claims. (Cl. 229—87.)

1. A wrapper for a body having rectangular faces, comprising a strip of material of a width corresponding to that of a face of the body and being creased intermediate its ends along a diagonal line arranged to place the portions of said strip at right angles to each other when said strip is folded along said crease; said portions being of sufficient length to pass around the body in directions at right angles and to provide ends to be tucked beneath the fold provided on one face of the body by the folding of the strip along said diagonal line.

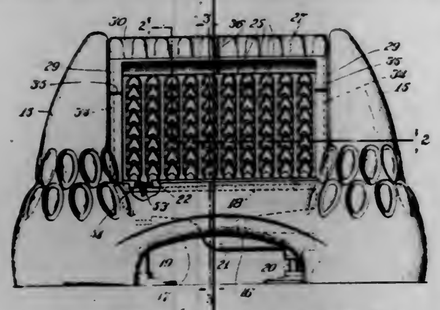
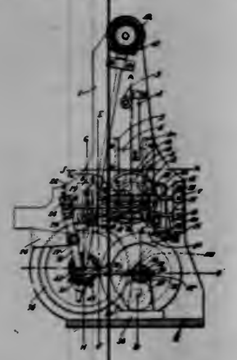
1,457,552. NAIL-DRIVING DEVICE. CHARLES SCHMIDT, Clifton, N. J. Filed Sept. 26, 1922. Serial No. 590,655. 3 Claims. (Cl. 1—10.)



1. A nail driving device comprising a base adapted to support work parts, a column on said base, a sleeve adjustable on said column, a second sleeve supported at a spaced distance from the first sleeve, a driver rod slidable in the last named sleeve, means for actuating said rod, means for normally holding said rod in a raised position, an inclined trackway for feeding nails to said driver rod, spring actuating jaws for intercepting the nails in position to be driven, and means for opening said jaws co-incident with the downward movement of said driver rod.

1,457,553. GAS HEATER. GUSTAVE F. SCHMIDT, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 27, 1921. Serial No. 524,941. 12 Claims. (Cl. 126—92.)



1. A gas heater of the character described, comprising a body unit provided with upstanding ends or columnar sides and an integral intermediate hollow base portion, the base portion being formed with a longitudinal burner-tip receiving opening, and a back-wall unit adapted to be disposed on said intermediate base portion of the body unit, the columnar sides of the body unit and said back-wall unit being provided with interlocking surfaces for removably securing the back-wall unit in place, in combination with radiant elements arranged along the front face of said back-wall unit and above said burner-tip receiving opening.

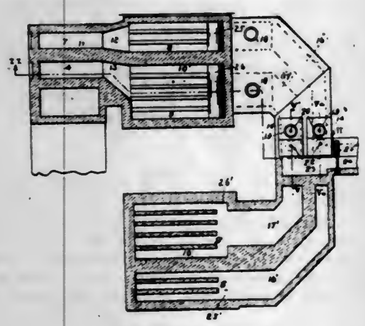
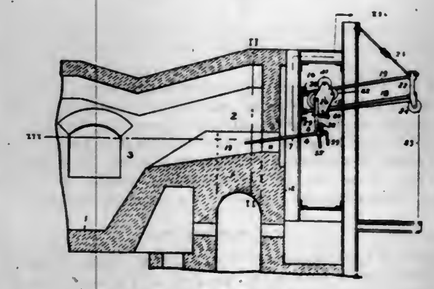
1,457,554. MOVING-PICTURE MACHINE. FRIEDRICH SEUFERT, Munich, Germany, and HERMANN SEUFERT, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Jan. 6, 1922. Serial No. 527,521. 4 Claims. (Cl. 88—18.)



1. In a film feeding mechanism for a moving picture machine, the combination with a film drum spindle, of an eccentrically reciprocated set of rods, a slide having a socket and operated from said rods, a freely movable member having a pin engaging the socket of said slide, and means between said member and said spindle to couple the same when said pin is moved in a certain direction.

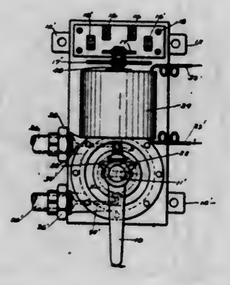
1,457,555. BEARING. JAMES H. SMITH, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 14, 1920. Serial No. 381,258. 4 Claims. (Cl. 64—10.)



1. In combination, a bearing support of material having a relatively high melting point, a skeleton retainer fastened to said support and bearing metal completely covering said retainer, and having said retainer embedded therein, whereby said bearing metal completely shields said retainer from the bearing surface, said bearing metal having a relatively low melting point, said skeleton retainer being fastened to said support separately and independently of said bearing metal.

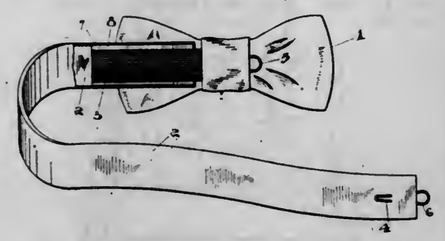
1,457,556. FURNACE. HORACE E. SMYTHE, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Feb. 28, 1921. Serial No. 448,684. 3 Claims. (Cl. 263—15.)

1. A furnace structure having a melting chamber, a preliminary combustion chamber at each end thereof, and means supplying fuel gas to each combustion chamber, in combination with two pairs of air regenerators, means connecting one member of each pair to the respective combustion chambers, means connecting the other member of each pair to the respective ends of the furnace chamber to complete combustion and protect the roof of the latter chamber, a stack flue, separate passages leading outwardly from each regenerator, a valve chamber, one for each passage, the chamber being outside the furnace structure, a poppet valve to admit fresh air to each chamber, and a poppet valve to admit waste gases from each chamber to the stack flue, whereby fresh air may be admitted in regulated quantities to each regenerator of either pair of regenerators while the stack flue may be connected to carry out waste gases from the remaining pair of regenerators.



1,457,557. FURNACE. HORACE E. SMYTHE, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Feb. 28, 1921. Serial No. 448,685. 7 Claims. (Cl. 263—15.)

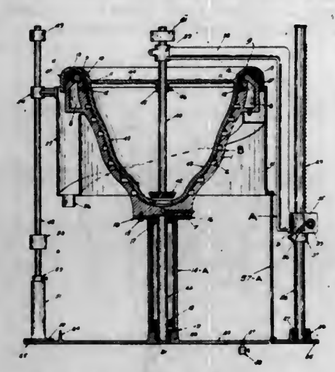
1. In a reversing furnace, a melting hearth, a combustion chamber at each end of the chamber, an oil burner at each end of the furnace, a traveling support for each burner for projecting it into its adjacent combustion chamber and retracting it therefrom, an operator's stand.



means at the stand having operative connection with each support, whereby the operator may so project and retract each burner at will, and means for supplying fluid fuel to either burner at will.

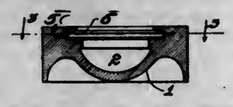
1,457,558. COMBINATION AIR-VALVE AND ELECTRIC SWITCH. HENRY R. STEVENS and ROBERT L. ROCKWELL, Seattle, Wash., assignors, by mesne assignments, to Ernest G. Howe, trustee, Seattle, Wash. Filed June 12, 1918. Serial No. 239,676. 6 Claims. (Cl. 246—187.)

1. A train stop mechanism for a railway car in combination with the stop lever of an automatic semaphore signal system disposed at selected points along the track, a valve-switch adapted to be secured to said car comprising a lever operable by said stop lever, a member and an air valve operable by said switch lever whereby the operation of said member will close an electric circuit and effect the turning off of current from the motors that drive said car and whereby the operation of said air valve will actuate the emergency valve of said car's air brake equipment whereupon said air brakes will be applied to the wheels to stop said train.



1,457,559. TIE. HARVEY E. STONGE, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, assignor to The S. K. Neckwear Limited, Toronto, Canada. Filed Mar. 4, 1922. Serial No. 541,202. 4 Claims. (Cl. 2—32.)

1. A made-up tie having a neck band, said neck band being provided with an elastic portion, a non-elastic portion fixedly connected thereto and a stiffened sheath overlapping the junction of the two portions and connected to one of them.



1,457,560. CENTRIFUGAL AMALGAMATOR. HUBERT C. TABER, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of one-half to Arthur M. Jones, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 9, 1922. Serial No. 559,607. 2 Claims. (Cl. 83—67.)

1. A centrifugal amalgamator, comprising a cone-shaped body, having a plurality of amalgam pockets, said pockets practically vertical in position; said cone-shaped body having an outlet at bottom, a large amalgam trap or pocket at top, inlets to amalgam trap, and inlets covered with a screen, said cone body having an outwardly and continuously extending inner surface, an inner cone in said cone body and means for revolving said inner cone, means for revolving cone body substantially as described.

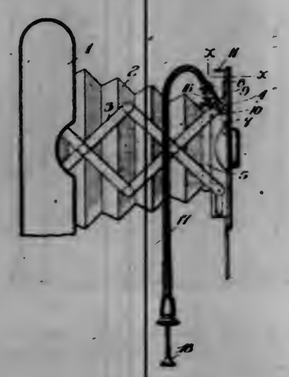
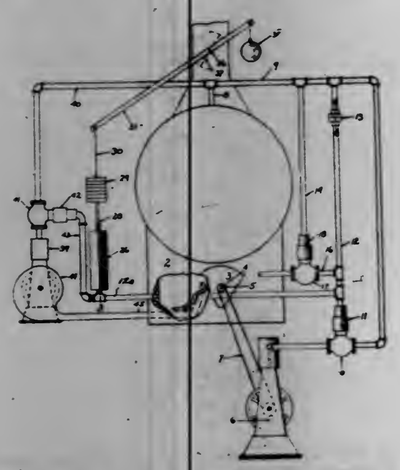
1,457,561. COUPLING CONNECTION AND NONCORROSIVE COATING THEREFOR. BAYARD E. TAYLOR, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 5, 1919. Serial No. 342,705. 5 Claims. (Cl. 285—63.)



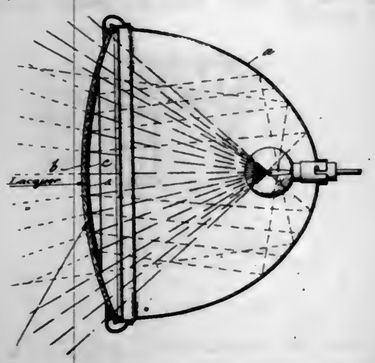
1. A coupling section having a gasket receiving groove, and a corrosion resisting metallic coating applied directly to the walls of said groove.

1,457,562. FRUIT ELEVATOR. WION P. THOMAS, Carlton, N. Y. Filed Dec. 21, 1921. Serial No. 523,939. 13 Claims. (Cl. 198—154.)



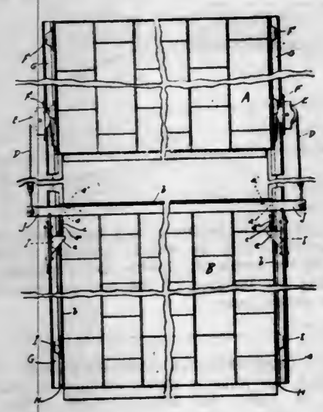
1. A fruit elevator comprising two conveyor chains, and a plurality of slats secured near their outer ends to the chains, each slat having a grooved portion extending forwardly from the chains, and also having a blank portion extending rearwardly from the chains.

1,457,563. PHOTOGRAPHIC-SHUTTER-OPERATING DEVICE. ERNEST E. UNDERWOOD, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 28, 1918. Serial No. 259,913. 4 Claims. (Cl. 95—53.)



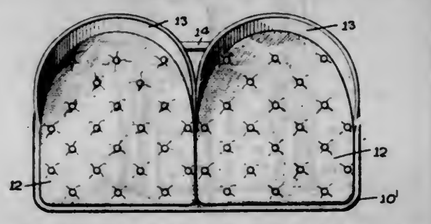
1. A shutter releasing device for use with a folding camera of the type comprising a body, a movable front cover, a bellows connected to the body and to the cover within the area of the latter, and a photographic shutter on the cover having an actuating member in rear of the latter, said shutter releasing device embodying a flexible member adapted to be connected at one end to the inner side of the cover within the area thereof and to cooperate with said shutter actuating member, said flexible member being also adapted to be contained between the camera front and cover when the camera is folded.

1,457,564. STOKER-CONTROLLING MECHANISM. VINCENT V. VEENSCHOTEN, Erie, Pa., assignor to Northern Equipment Company, Erie, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed July 18, 1918. Serial No. 245,453. 6 Claims. (Cl. 110—103.)



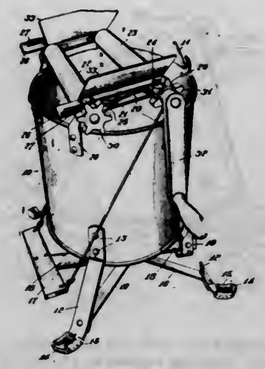
1. In a stoker controlling mechanism, the combination of a stoker; a steam boiler subjected to the fire from the stoker; a stoker motor; a controlling device for the motor; a fluid actuated controlling motor for said controlling device connected with the boiler; and means for intensifying changes in pressure in the controlling motor over changes of boiler pressure.

1,457,565. HEADLIGHT LENS. CHARLES F. WARRICK, Detroit, Mich. Filed Oct. 1, 1921. Serial No. 504,734. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—48.4.)



1. A headlight, having in combination, a reflector, a source of light in front of the reflector, and a lens in front of the source of light, comprising a glass, having a central portion coated on the inside with a metal deposit so thin as to have both reflective and transparent properties, and a clear transparent unobstructed rim portion surrounding said coated portion, the arrangement of the coated and transparent portions being such that reflected rays from the metal coating find their way out of the transparent portion of the lens after having been reflected by the said reflector.

1,457,566. ELEVATOR DOOR. BENJAMIN WEXLER, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to The Peelle Company, Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 13, 1920. Serial No. 430,386. 8 Claims. (Cl. 189—46.)

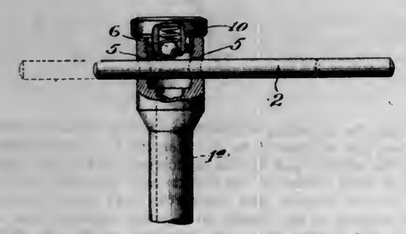


1. An elevator door embodying therein a vertically slidable section having a metal frame, and means closing the space within said frame, said section being adapted to descend in an elevator shaft, suspension means therefor, an abutment carried by the frame of said section and projecting inwardly of the shaft and at substantially right angles to the plane of said section, and a stop supported from the elevator shaft and projecting parallel with the plane of the door and in the path of movement of said abutment in a position to be engaged thereby when the top of the door is substantially flush with the sill of the opening with which it co-operates, whereby loads upon the door will be transmitted directly from the frame of the door to said stop and therethrough to the elevator shaft.

1,457,567. KNEELING STOOL. BENJAMIN DENNY and MATTHEW KAUFMAN, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 2, 1921. Serial No. 489,271. 4 Claims. (Cl. 155—167.)

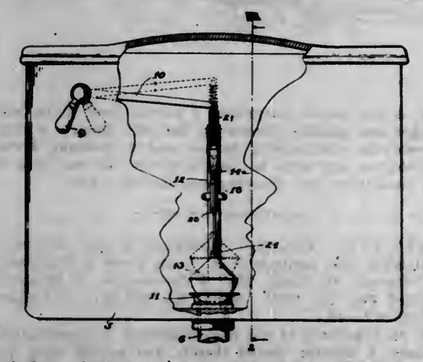
1. In a kneeling stool the combination with a movably supported platform of a guard extending upwardly and arranged forwardly thereof, the said guard being in the form of a double arc and having portions extending toward the rear of the platform intermediate the sides thereof to engage the inner sides of the knees of the user whereby the platform may be shifted by pressure of the knees.

1,457,568. MOP WRINGER. JAMES D. GARVEY, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 5, 1920. Serial No. 363,410. 1 Claim. (Cl. 15—262.)



A device of the character described, comprising a pail provided with bracket members secured to the sides thereof and disposed horizontally above the top, the horizontally disposed portion of each bracket being provided with a longitudinal slot, a pair of rollers, the trunnions whereof are rotatably mounted in the slots of said brackets, means whereby one roller is held against horizontal movement while the other roller is adapted to move lengthwise of said slots, means whereby said rollers are normally held in spaced relation, sprocket wheels secured to the trunnions of said rollers, to the outside of the brocket member, said sprockets being adapted to intermesh when said rollers are brought into juxtaposition, a foot-pedal operatively connected with the trunnions of the movably mounted roller, whereby the latter may be moved against the action of said second means and brought into juxtaposition with the other roller and the sprocket wheels of the two rollers brought into meshing relation, and a hand-crank secured to the trunnion of one of said rollers whereby both rollers may be positively rotated.

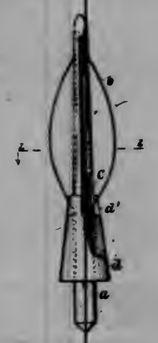
1,457,569. TRANSMISSION V-BELT. HAROLD M. GUSDORF, Indianapolis, Ind. Filed May 25, 1921. Serial No. 472,336. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—62.)



1. A belt for grooved pulleys, V-shape in cross section, formed of a plurality of sections of greater firmness at one end than at the other, said belt having a pulley-contacting surface of less compactness tahn the opposite belt surface, said sections being united by lapped joints formed by beveling the firmer ends of the sections to an edge on the less firm side and by correspondingly beveling the less firm ends on their firmer sides.

1,457,570. TOOL HANDLE AND THE LIKE. EDGAR C. GUTHARD, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 25, 1920. Serial No. 419,562. 3 Claims. (Cl. 145—62.)

1. In a tool, the combination of a tubular shank member, said shank member being provided adjacent its end with transverse apertures affording a handle seat, a separate handle insertable either into the bore of the shank or into said seat, and a closure member demountably secured to the end of the shank and adapted to maintain the handle in either the bore thereof or in said seat, said closure including a spring-pressed detent arranged for engagement with the handle when the latter is in the seat.



1,457,571. FLUSH-TANK-VALVE MECHANISM. CLARENCE H. HAPGOOD, Toledo, Ohio, assignor of one-half to Foster V. Walts, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Dec. 15, 1920. Serial No. 430,955. 3 Claims. (Cl. 4—5.)

1. In a flush tank valve mechanism, a ball valve, a stem therefor having a bent upper portion, an operating lever, a slotted link fitting over the stem of the valve and receiving the bent upper stem portion in its slot, and a shock absorbing member connected to the link and lever, one of said connections being adjustable to vary the distance between the link and lever.

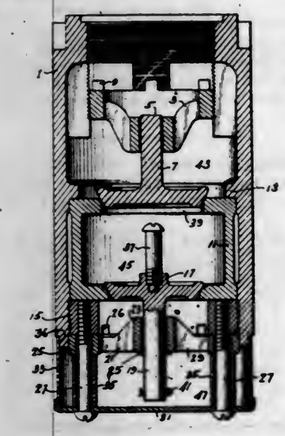
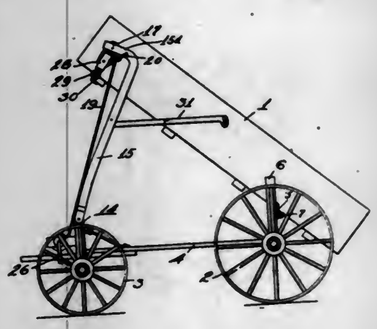
1,457,572. SPINDLE. JAMES H. HARNETT, Nutley, N. J. Filed Nov. 14, 1922. Serial No. 600,850. 1 Claim. (Cl. 242—130.)

A spindle including a spindle proper, a collar arranged thereon and adapted to form a stop for a cop tube slipped onto the spindle and having equidistant radial and longitudinal slots formed in the end thereof adjoining the free end of the spindle, and outwardly bent spring devices each secured to the spindle at a point removed from the collar and having free ends arranged within the collar and confined against radial movement and being engaged in the slots.



1,457,573. BELT BUCKLE. JOHN HEBERLING, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Hickok Mfg. Company, Inc., Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 1, 1922. Serial No. 540,301. 6 Claims. (Cl. 24—191.)

1. A belt buckle comprising a curved front plate, side flanges and guiding flanges on the side flanges, a slide movable on said guiding flanges, and a clamping device movable on said slide to cooperate with the rear face of the front plate for clamping one end of a belt.



1,457,574. VALVE. SHERWOOD HINDS, Richmond Heights, Mo., assignor to St. Louis Pump & Equipment Company, St. Louis, Mo., a Corporation of Missouri. Filed Feb. 25, 1922. Serial No. 539,301. 8 Claims. (Cl. 277—42.)

4. In apparatus of the class described, in combination, a body, a member seated therein and having seats for valves, valve guides in the upper and lower portions of the body, valves guided thereby and cooperating with the seats, means for holding said member in position in the body, a base held in position with respect to said body, a screen or strainer mounted on the body and held in position thereon by the base, and a lost-motion connection between the lower valve and the upper valve.

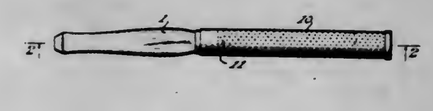
1,457,575. DUMPING ATTACHMENT FOR FARM WAGONS. ANTON F. JANSEN, Douglas, Ill. Filed July 10, 1922. Serial No. 573,895. 5 Claims. (Cl. 298—19.)

1. The combination with a wagon body, of a front bolster therefor, hoisting standards pivoted to said bolster on opposite sides of the body, foldable braces connecting said standards with said wagon body, upper tackle-blocks carried by said standards, lower tackle-blocks depending therefrom and connectible with said body, cables operatively connecting said tackle-blocks, and a winding drum supported by said bolster for winding the cables thereon for raising the lower tackle-block.



1,457,576. CLOTHESLINE CLAMP. PETER JENONIS, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 5, 1922. Serial No. 549,714. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—133.)

1. A bracket having apertures for inserting means for securing it to a wall, struck up humps forming recesses on the rear face thereof, a corrugated hump centrally disposed on the front of said bracket below the first mentioned humps, a broad-tailed lever pivoted in said recesses, and a concave corrugated surface on the lower face of said tail, said concave surface having a greater radius than the hump to form a diverging opening on each side of the center-line of said lever.

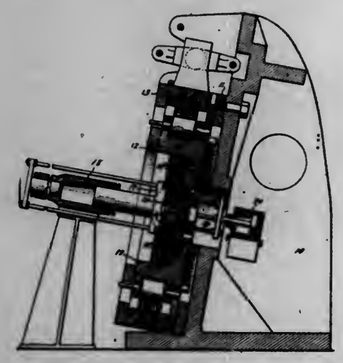
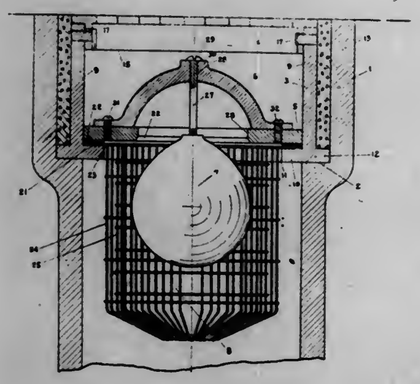
1,457,577. CIGAR OR CIGARETTE HOLDER. GEORGE B. JOERGER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 22, 1922. Serial No. 545,868. 1 Claim. (Cl. 131—10.)



A holder of the class described comprising a bit, a guide member attached thereto, said guide member having cylindrical ends and being partly cut away between said cylindrical ends, and a foraminous cylinder slidable on said guide.

1,457,578. PRINTING FRAME. BERNARD J. KOCH, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Jan. 18, 1921. Serial No. 438,076. 4 Claims. (Cl. 101—97.)

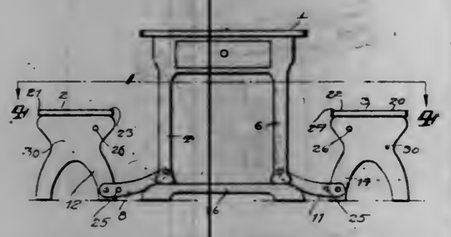


1. In a printing frame a printing cover, an operating handle therefor, stamping means rotatable as a whole on said operating handle, and a resilient member arranged to engage said stamping means to prevent rotation thereof.

1,457,579. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR SHAPING AND TRIMMING BRAKE DRUMS. HARRY WM. KRANZ, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Hydraulic Steel Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 7, 1921. Serial No. 435,655. 5 Claims. (Cl. 153—2.)

1. The herein described method of finishing brake drums which consists in arranging said drum upon a suitable support, subjecting the face and flange of said drum to external pressure, and simultaneously trimming the edges of said flange.

1,457,580. SEWER-TRAP VALVE. STANLEY KURTZ, Lorain, Ohio. Filed Jan. 12, 1922. Serial No. 528,599. 7 Claims. (Cl. 182—14.)

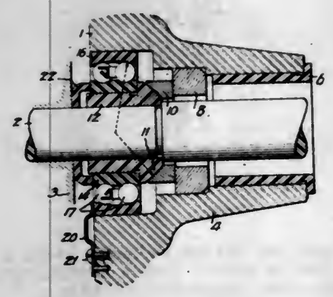


1. In a back-flow check valve for sewers and the like, the combination with a tubular basin member, said tubular member having outwardly and inwardly extending flanges on its lower end, an annular ring loosely fitting within the said tubular member, clamping projections extending from the side walls inwardly from the said tubular member, said annular ring being adapted to be clamped between the said inwardly extending flange and said projection, a bridge member spanning and mounted upon the said ring, a ball float, a rod secured to one end thereof and extending therefrom, a valve seat on the lower inner edge of said ring, a journal at the middle point extending vertically in said bridge, said rod being vertically slidable in said journal whereby said ball float may rise to engage the said seat to close the valve.

1,457,581. ART OF DYEING. BARTHOLOMEW C. LEONARDI, New Rochelle, N. Y., assignor to George D. Wright Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Feb. 23, 1922. Serial No. 538,819. 8 Claims. (Cl. 8—6.)

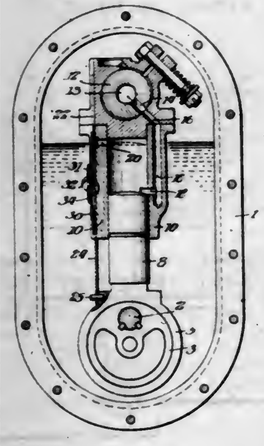
5. A composition for dyeing comprising a finely divided mixture of a color, tartaric acid, sodium sulphate, aluminum sulphate, sodium bicarbonate, and lactose.

1,457,582. COMBINATION FURNITURE. VALENTINE LEWANDOSKI, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 7, 1921. Serial No. 513,464. 13 Claims. (Cl. 155—80.)



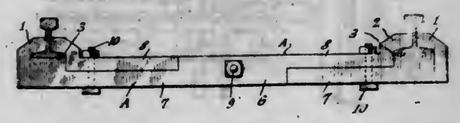
1. In combination, a table, a seating member, a connecting link between the table and said seating member, said link permitting swinging of the seating member into position beneath the table, and stop means carried by the seating member and engageable with said connecting link for limiting the swing of said seating member.

1,457,583. SAMPLE-TAKING DEVICE. WILLIAM J. LOORS and CHARLES C. COX, Houston, Tex. Filed Jan. 10, 1921, Serial No. 436,347. Renewed Nov. 18, 1922. 1 Claim. (Cl. 255—67.)



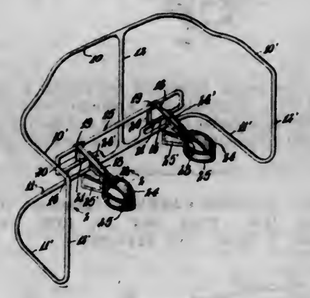
A sample taking device including a tubular stem having an outlet port, a core barrel attached to the lower end thereof and provided with a port, a plate closing the upper end thereof, a drill shoe attached to the lower end thereof, and an auger anchored to said plate and depending within said barrel.

1,457,584. SEALED BEARING. CHARLES L. MCCUEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Resolute Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 2, 1921. Serial No. 465,989. 5 Claims. (Cl. 64—36.)



5. In a floating, sealed, anti-friction bearing, the combination of a wall of the receptacle to be sealed, a shaft passing through the wall and having a spherical portion imperviously related to the shaft, a ball bearing having an inner and an outer ball race with balls interposed between them, a ring having a spherical portion making surface contact with the first mentioned spherical portion, a second ring inserted in the wall and making fluid-tight connection therewith, the two rings having flat wearing surfaces arranged transversely to the shaft whereby the first mentioned ring may slide transversely of the bearing, one of the ball races having a spherical surface concentric with the first mentioned spherical portion.

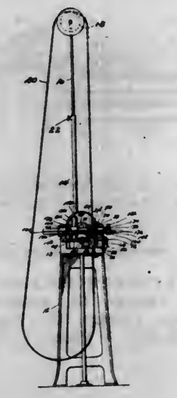
1,457,585. VALVE. CHARLES L. MCCUEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Resolute Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 10, 1921. Serial No. 476,376. 5 Claims. (Cl. 230—34.)



1. A compressor having a cylinder provided with inlet and outlet ports one of said ports having a flat valve seat, a valve adapted to move in a direction normal to the surface of the valve seat for opening and closing the port, and a plunger working in said cylinder, the said valve being also slidable upon its seat, and connected to the plunger whereby a constant rubbing action is produced.

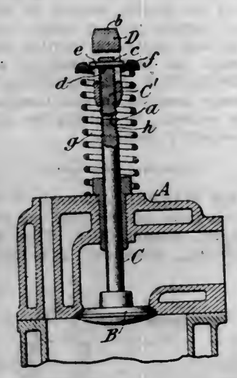
1,457,586. RAIL BRACE. DAN B. MCLAIN and ELBERT M. TATUM, Little Rock, Ark., assignors of one-third to Jesse A. Milam, Little Rock, Ark. Filed Dec. 30, 1921. Serial No. 525,970. 1 Claim. (Cl. 238—38.)

A brace bar for rails of a trackway comprising two members, one end portion of each of the members being provided with means to engage the outer base flange of a rail, the opposite end portion of the member being provided with means to engage the inner base flange of a rail, one end portion of each of said members being cut out from below and entirely thereacross, the opposite end portion being cut out from above and entirely thereacross, the intermediate portion of each member between said cut-out portions being of a width less than the width of the members, said members when assembled being in reverse relation, and means for holding the members in assembled relation.



1,457,587. LAMP BRACKET. MYRON MAIBRUNN, New York, N. Y. Filed May 18, 1922. Serial No. 561,883. 6 Claims. (Cl. 240—52.)

1. A lamp bracket comprising a frame presenting a horizontal guide element, and a pair of lamp supporting arms adjustable along said guide element, said frame having fixed extensions at the sides separate from said guide element adapted to form a shield for the lamps supported by said arms.



1,457,588. AUTOMATIC BAND-SAW FILING AND SETTING MACHINE. JOSEPH M. MAJEWSKI, Jr., Kansas City, Mo. Filed May 2, 1919. Serial No. 294,259. 14 Claims. (Cl. 76—35.)

1. A machine of the character described comprising saw-holding means arranged to hold the saw with its teeth in a vertical line, and filing means comprising a filing tool and tool-carriage, means for reciprocating said carriage for imparting a filing motion to said tool, means for moving said carriage transversely with reference to said filing motion for inserting and withdrawing said tool from engagement with said teeth, and means for confining the transverse movement of said carriage to a single plane located at an angle corresponding to the slope of said teeth.

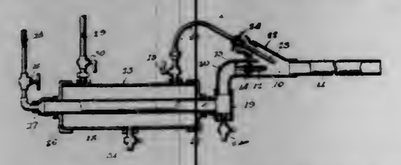
1,457,589. VALVE-ROD-ADJUSTING DEVICE. CHARLES A. MILLER, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 19, 1919. Serial No. 291,228. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—90.)



1. The combination with an internal combustion engine, of a valve and valve stem, an operating device for the valve, a contact member having an interiorly threaded portion and an elongated transverse opening, the valve stem also having a transverse opening, a locking pin which passes through the opening in the contact member and fits closely in the opening in the valve stem, thereby preventing the contact member from turning after it is adjusted, a spring governing the valve, and means adapted to hold the spring out of normal position during adjustment of the contact member.

1,457,590. OIL BURNER. JULIUS C. MISNER, Terre Haute, Ind. Filed Sept. 3, 1920. Serial No. 408,027. 3 Claims. (Cl. 158—76.)

1. In an oil burner the combination of a tubular mixing chamber, an air passage arranged at an angle with said chamber and communicating therewith, a fuel pipe extending through said passage and substantially into said chamber and spaced from the walls thereof, and a nozzle at one end of said chamber for directing a blast of fluid through said chamber across the ends of said passage and pipe.

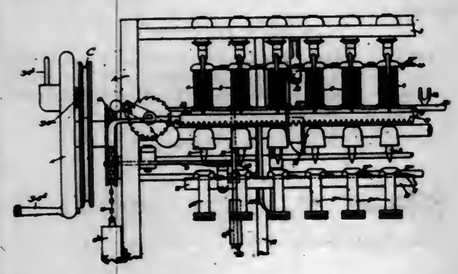
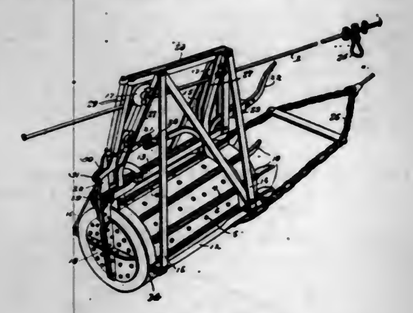
1,457,591. OCCUPANT-PROPELLED SLED. AUGUSTO E. MUELLER, Chicago, Ill., assignor of one-half to John H. Jarvin, Chicago, Ill. Filed Jan. 30, 1922. Serial No. 532,529. 4 Claims. (Cl. 208—158.)

1. The combination with a vehicle, comprising a frame structure including longitudinally disposed side members provided with guiding slots, of propelling members, each comprising an elongated horizontal portion extending longitudinally of the vehicle beneath its respective side member and an upright portion rigidly secured to the forward end of said horizontal portion and extending upwardly through the guiding slot of said member, whereby the forward ends of said propelling members are guided, and means mounted on said frame structure beneath said side members for guiding the horizontal portions of said propelling members.



1,457,592. LOCK WASHER. EDWARD W. MURRAY, Detroit, Mich., assignor of forty-five one-hundredths to James E. Bryant, Detroit, Mich. Filed May 1, 1920. Serial No. 378,095. 4 Claims. (Cl. 151—35.)

1. In a lock washer, a member formed of sheet metal, lugs provided on one side thereof and a series of prongs bent outwardly on the opposite side and then twisted at an angle to the plane thereof.



1,457,593. DOFFING MECHANISM FOR SPINNING AND LIKE MACHINES. THOMAS GEORGE MYLCHREEST, Thorner, near Leeds, England. Filed Oct. 24, 1917. Serial No. 198,233. 6 Claims. (Cl. 118—17.)

1. In doffing mechanism for spinning, doubling and like machines, a shaft, a member for operating said shaft, means operated from said shaft to displace full bobbins and bring empty bobbins into position, means operated by said shaft to simultaneously move the flyers from the path of means for clearing yarns from the spindles, means operated by said shaft to displace yarns wound around the spindles, and means operated by said shaft for raising the empty bobbins into positions about the spindles.

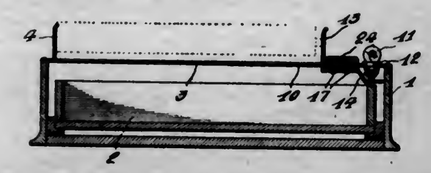
1,457,594. EXCAVATING DEVICE. PHILIP NEARY, Seattle, Wash. Filed May 17, 1922. Serial No. 561,568. 6 Claims. (Cl. 37—117.)

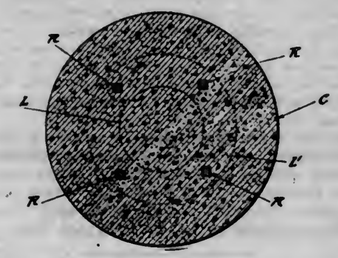
1. An excavating receptacle comprising a shell of cylindrical form, longitudinally arranged reinforcing strips secured on the exterior of the shell and having out turned flanges and reinforcing bars secured between said flanges.

1,457,595. RUNNER CARRIER. NORDAHL O. NELSON, Westby, Wis. Filed May 10, 1922. Serial No. 559,863. 1 Claim. (Cl. 224—29.)



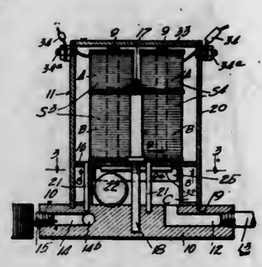
In a device of the class described, the combination of a primary jaw provided with upper and lower integrally connected portions, set screws on said lower portion, said upper portion provided with seats and with a shoulder near its center, an auxiliary jaw hingedly connected to said primary jaw at one end, said auxiliary jaw provided on its other end with a yieldable, pivotally mounted clasp, said clasp provided with teeth or corrugations, said auxiliary jaw provided with seats and with a central shoulder registering with the seats and shoulder on the primary jaw, and a yoke pivotally mounted on the outer end of said primary jaw adapted to straddle the outer end of the auxiliary jaw and engage said teeth or corrugations of the clasp, substantially as shown and described.

1,457,596. TUBING SPEAR. ORDA D NUTTER, Parkersburg, W. Va., assignor to Acme Fishing Tool Company, Parkersburg, W. Va., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Aug. 12, 1921. Serial No. 491,856. 5 Claims. (Cl. 294—96.)



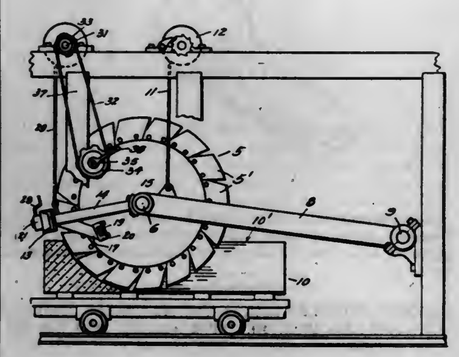
1. In combination in a fishing tool, a substantially pointed body adapted to enter the tubing to be fished for, a flange on said body, segmental wedges on said body adapted to grip the tube when pulled upwardly, and an element between said flange and the pointed end of said body for limiting the extent of entry of the body into the tube, said element being adjustable to permit loosening of the tube from the spear after it has been withdrawn from the well.

1,457,597. BATTERY AND BULB TESTER. OTTO OHMART, Cairo, Ill. Filed Sept. 15, 1921. Serial No. 500,780. 5 Claims. (Cl. 175—183.)



1. A battery and bulb tester comprising a metal base plate, a contact carried thereby, a contact secured beneath and insulated from the base plate and having one end portion extending up through an opening in the base plate, the base plate having a bulb holding socket in operative relation to the portion of the second contact below the base plate, and a contact above and insulated from the base plate and having operative connection with the second contact.

1,457,598. PROTECTING REENFORCEMENT IN CONCRETE AND THE LIKE. RAYMOND G. OSBORNE, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Dec. 27, 1921. Serial No. 525,149. 3 Claims. (Cl. 91—70.)

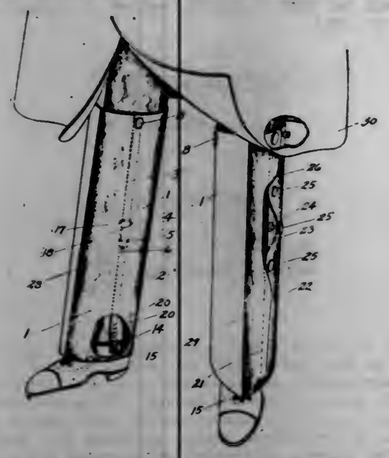


1. A reinforced concrete structure wherein the interiorly exposed surfaces of the reinforcing elements are treated with a protective substance and the interstitial spaces around the reinforcing elements are filled with such substance.

1,457,599. VALVE. EDGAR J. PACE, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to El Roy L. Payne, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Aug. 30, 1920. Serial No. 406,988. 5 Claims. (Cl. 137—139.)

4. In a valve, a base, a port leading to the upper face of the base and a valve seat around the port, a port closure member adapted to rest on the seat, electro-magnetic means to lift said member, and electro-magnetic means to move the member laterally away from the port, said electro-magnetic means embodying two laterally spaced magnets, each magnet having a small and a large winding, and means to energize either winding of each of the magnets.

1,457,600. SAW GUIDE. DANIEL W. PARKER, Everett, Wash., assignor to The Parker Rotary Stone Saw Company, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of Nevada. Filed May 11, 1921. Serial No. 468,540. 5 Claims. (Cl. 143—165.)



1. The combination with a saw, the arbor therefor, a swingable frame carrying said arbor, and means connected to said frame for regulating the elevation of the saw, of a pair of guides for said saw, a support for the guides, said support being connected to the frame for movements concentrically about the arbor axis, and means for adjusting the position of said support for regulating the positions of the guides with respect to the work.

1,457,601. LEGGING. PAUL M. PRUET, Kansas City, Kans. Filed Nov. 17, 1922. Serial No. 601,505. 4 Claims. (Cl. 35—15.)

1. A collapsible legging comprising a brace consisting of two members, one of which is slidable on the other, means for holding the brace members distanced, a shoe-engaging clasp at the lower end of one of the members, and a legging fabric connected to the brace.

4. A legging comprising a brace consisting of two members, one of which is movable with respect to the other, a sheet permanently attached to one member and removably attached to the other member, and means for fastening the edges of the sheet together.

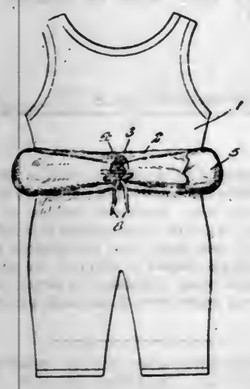
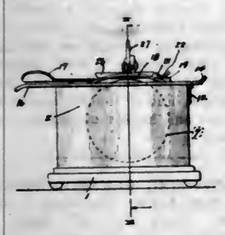
1,457,602. HARNESS-LOOP REENFORCEMENT. PAUL RADLE, Arkansaw, Wis. Filed Nov. 17, 1920. Serial No. 424,575. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—183.)



A harness strap reenforcement, made from a single T-shaped piece of sheet metal and embodying a ring engaging hook and two oppositely disposed strap engaging loops.

1,457,603. NIPPLE-THREADING MACHINE. THOMAS RANKIN, Lake Bluff, Ill. Filed Aug. 12, 1921. Serial No. 491,693. 11 Claims. (Cl. 10—91.)



1. In a threading machine, the combination of a plurality of threading heads, means for bodily moving said heads longitudinally into engagement with a pipe to be threaded and laterally out of line with a threaded pipe, and means for automatically feeding and clamping a section of pipe.

1,457,604. BATHING SUIT. JOHN H. RATHMAN, Wichita, Kans. Filed Oct. 19, 1922. Serial No. 595,631. 1 Claim. (Cl. 9—17.)

In combination with a bathing suit, a plurality of flap members secured at their upper edge portion to the said suit and adapted for supporting an air tube or the like around the waist of the wearer, for preventing drowning while in bathing, and detachable connections between the opposite ends of the said flap members and the suit for purposes described.

1,457,605. ENVELOPE MOISTENER. ALFRED J. SCHAUB, Sr., Oakland, Calif. Filed Oct. 28, 1921. Serial No. 511,164. 5 Claims. (Cl. 91—51.)

1. An envelope moistening device comprising a rotatably mounted moistening drum, a self-adjusting contact maintaining member co-operating therewith, means for opening the envelope flap and means for removing surplus moisture associated therewith so as to allow of the insertion of the folded envelope and the opening, moistening and draining of the flap in one continuous operation.

3. In an envelope moistening device, a rotatably mounted moistening drum and a surplus moisture draining means associated therewith, said means comprising a plate member declining toward the drum having a spring member co-operating with its top edge for pressing the moistened envelope against the said edge.

1,457,606. HANDLE FOR CUTLERY ARTICLES. JOSEPH ANTHONY SCHLEHR, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 28, 1922. Serial No. 547,589. 2 Claims. (Cl. 30—9.)

1. An article of cutlery comprising a body, a longitudinal key secured to one side of said body, having retaining tongues at its opposite ends, and a handle section formed in its inner face with a keyway to accommodate said key, the retaining tongues being designed to be bent against the ends of the handle section to retain the latter in place.

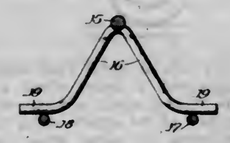
1,457,607. WEIGHTING AND DYEING SILKS. CARL VON DER SCHMALS, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Aug. 10, 1922. Serial No. 581,027. 6 Claims. (Cl. 8—5.)

1. The herein described process of weighting silk fabrics consisting in subjecting the dyed fabrics to the action of a solution of a non-poisonous vegetable syrup containing tannic acid.

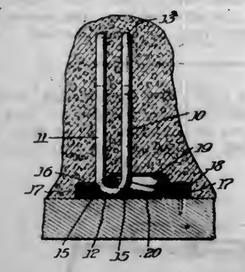
1,457,608. COMBINATION FRAME. ELMER L. SCHUMACHER, Southbridge, Mass., assignor to American Optical Company, Southbridge, Mass., a Voluntary Association of Massachusetts. Filed Feb. 11, 1922. Serial No. 535,672. 7 Claims. (Cl. 88—47.)



1. The combination with a metal rim, of a composition covering therefor formed from distorted rod stock whereby the tendency of the stock in relieving the distortion will be to more firmly grip the metal rim.

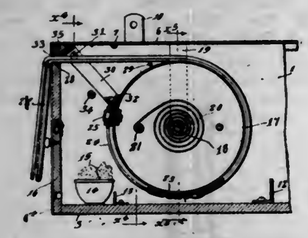
1,457,609. COMPOSITION FOR REMOVING RUST FROM FABRICS. ALLAN C. SHAVER, Montreal, Quebec, Canada. Filed Apr. 29, 1921. Serial No. 465,495. 6 Claims. (Cl. 8—8.)

1. A composition for removing rust stains from fabric containing oxalic acid and oil Gaultheria.



1,457,610. CONCRETE SPACER. WILLIAM E. WHITE, Chicago, Ill. Filed Jan. 29, 1921. Serial No. 440,931. 2 Claims. (Cl. 72—122.)

1. A spacer comprising in combination, a single longitudinal wire and a plurality of V-shaped legs or chairs welded thereto at the apex of the V, and a longitudinal wire welded to the extremity of each of the legs of the V.



1,457,611. HANGER INSERT. WILLIAM E. WHITE, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 27, 1921. Serial No. 464,878. 2 Claims. (Cl. 72—105.)

1. In an insert, the combination of a wire bent upon itself to provide a loop having adjacent parallel portions, the free ends of which are laterally offset to provide anchors, a ring suspended at the bend in said loop, and a housing, said housing being of a depth less than the diameter of said ring and providing a recess within which the ring may be accommodated in a substantially horizontal position and when released to swing into a vertical position with a portion of the ring opening below the bottom surface of the housing.

1,457,612. RAZOR-STROP CONTAINER. SOLOMON A. WINKLEPLECK, now by judicial change of name Solomon Asberry Winkle, Santa Ana, Calif. Filed Feb. 28, 1921. Serial No. 448,317. 9 Claims. (Cl. 51—202.)

1. A device of the class described comprising a razor strop, a housing having an opening in one of its walls through which the strop is drawn outwardly for use, a spring operated member tending to draw the strop into the housing and having an abutment, and means pivoted in the housing and operated by said abutment during the return of said member to arrest the inward movement of the strop.

1,457,613. VALVE. PAUL C. WITHROW and WILLIAM W. LEMEN, Denver, Colo. Filed July 10, 1920. Serial No. 395,206. 8 Claims. (Cl. 251—18.)

1. A valve of the character described, comprising a housing provided with inlet and outlet ports and a pair of valve-seats, a pair of valve members located within the housing, each adapted to seat on a different one of said valve-seats and seating in the direction of the flow through said housing, one of said valve members being normally held in unseated position and means whereby both valve members may be simultaneously controlled.

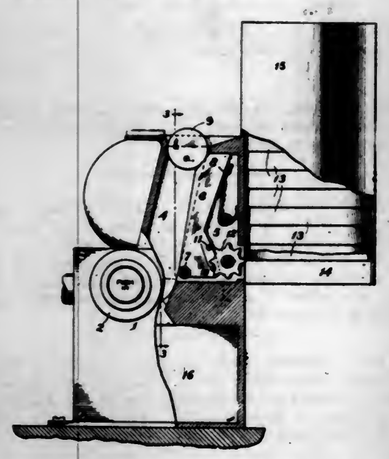
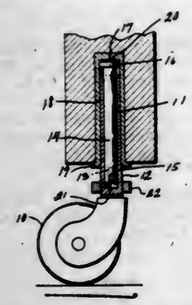
1,457,614. SIRUP CAN. SOL BROWN, New Orleans, La., assignor to Dunbar Molasses & Syrup Co., New Orleans, La., a Corporation of Louisiana. Filed June 23, 1922. Serial No. 570,296. 2 Claims. (Cl. 221—23.)

1. A can comprising a top having a scored portion defining a removable disc, a collar permanently attached to the top and surrounding the disc, said collar having a spout extension projected over the edge of the can, and a friction plug removably located within the collar.



1,457,615. SHAVING BRUSH. WARD S. BUNKER, Waukesha, Wis. Filed Apr. 11, 1918. Serial No. 227,962. 1 Claim. (Cl. 15—138.)

A fountain brush including a soap receptacle provided at one end with brush bristles, a feed tube for soap extending from the receptacle into said bristles and having its outer end open, a guide arranged at the opposite end of said receptacle, a plunger slidably mounted in said guide and having its inner end of frusto-conical shape, a handle for operating said plunger, and means for limiting the movement of the plunger in said tube to permit the end surface of said plunger to remain flush with the outer end of the tube, whereby the soap may seat the space between the tube and plunger.



1,457,616. COIN-CONTROLLED APPARATUS FOR DISPENSING CUPS. DANIEL J. BUTTERFIELD, Los Angeles, Calif. Original application filed Nov. 2, 1920, Serial No. 421,393. Divided and this application filed Feb. 4, 1922. Serial No. 534,063. 2 Claims. (Cl. 194—2.)

1. In a machine of the class described, the combination of a casing provided with a coin chute, a compartment to one side of said chute, a lever provided with an enlarged portion pivotally mounted in said compartment and adapted to partly extend into said coin chute, a pair of pins on the enlarged portion of said lever, a receptacle or cup compartment contiguous to said first-mentioned compartment, cups in said last-mentioned compartment, a cog interposed between the cups and the lever, and a cup engaging a tooth of the cog whereby when a coin is placed in the coin chute the lever will be operated to move the cog through the action of one of the pins on a tooth thereof for permitting a single cup to drop out of the cup compartment.

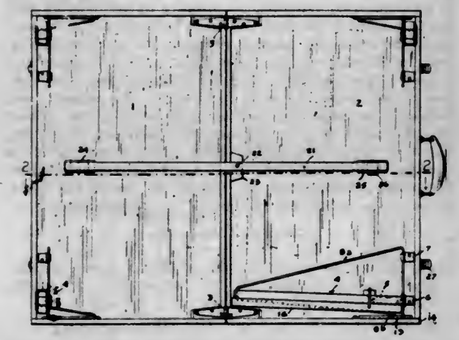
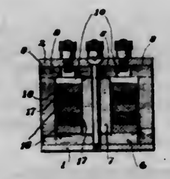
1,457,617. ADJUSTABLE CASTER. JOHN CARLSON, La Tuque, Quebec, Canada. Filed Jan. 14, 1922. Serial No. 529,235. 5 Claims. (Cl. 16—19.)



1. In a caster, a tubular caster wheel supporting shank open at its upper end, a caster wheel, a spindle disposed within the tubular shank and extending above the same, the lower end of the spindle being bifurcated and operatively supporting the caster wheel and the caster wheel and spindle oscillating together, means whereby the spindle may be elevated or lowered relative to the shank and held in its adjusted position, and a socket within which the shank and spindle are disposed, the spindle and socket at their upper ends being formed with complementary bearing portions.

1,457,618. FOLDING TABLE. SHIRLEY M. COGGINS, San Francisco, Calif. Filed June 25, 1921. Serial No. 480,312. 3 Claims. (Cl. 45—116.)



1. In combination with an article to be supported, legs hinged to and adapted to fold with relation to said article, spring rods secured intermediate of their ends to the outer portion of the legs and extending inwardly and angularly on opposite sides of the legs to and connected with said article, one end of each rod being fixed to said article and a guide member in which the other end of said rod is slidable into and out of position to lock the leg against unintentional folding.

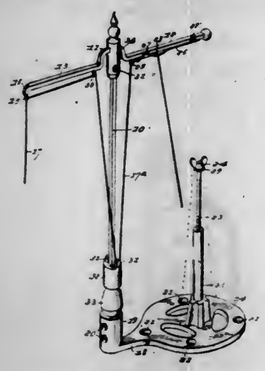
1,457,619. AUDIOFREQUENCY COUPLING TRANSFORMER. SAMUEL COHEN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed May 12, 1921. Serial No. 468,993. 2 Claims. (Cl. 175—356.)

1. A device of the class described comprising a substantially cylindrical hollow core composed of a plurality of laminations, a laminated base member rigid with and closing one end of said core, a central laminated member rigid with said base member and providing an annular recess between said core and said central member, said recess being adapted to receive electrical coils, a laminated upper member rigid with the other end of said core, and passages in said upper member into said recess.



1,457,620. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. BERNARD J. DOWD and ANTHONY UTZ, Hartford, Conn., assignors to Royal Typewriter Company Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 3, 1922. Serial No. 572,395. 8 Claims. (Cl. 197—33.)

8. An anchorage for type bar operating springs consisting of a member extending transversely of the machine the points of attachment thereto for the springs being arranged, from the center toward each end of said member, at a progressively increasing distance with respect to a vertical plane passing transversely of the machine through the rear frame thereof.

1,457,621. TWINE HOLDING AND DISPENSING DEVICE. WILLIAM ELEY, Suffolk, Va. Filed Mar. 29, 1921. Serial No. 456,703. 5 Claims. (Cl. 242—143.)

1. A dispensing device for wrapping cord or twine, having a base attachable to a suitable supporting object and provided with means for holding a ball of twine, an upright rising from the base near one edge, a crosshead having a socket fitted on the upper end of the upright and oppositely directed dispensing and receiving arms respectively provided with a terminal delivery guide and a frictional tension device, the socket having an interlocking engagement with the upright for definitely positioning the arms with relation to the base, and a take-up weight slidingly mounted on the upright and having a running engagement with a bight of the twine between the delivery guide and the tension device.

1,457,622. CREAM WHIPPER. CHRIST ELIOPULOS, Marion, Ind. Filed Sept. 7, 1921. Serial No. 499,004. 1 Claim. (Cl. 259—110.)

An improved cream whipper comprising in combination a base, a standard fixed in position on the base, a driving shaft rotatively mounted upon the standard, guides fixed to the base and extended at right angles to the driving shaft, a cream whipper body slidingly mounted in the said guides and capable of movement lengthwise of the guides, and also capable of being detached from the base when moved beyond the ends of the guides, a cream whipper device within the receptacle and formed with a shaft, said receptacle being formed at one side with a bearing to receive one end of the shaft of the whipper device and the other end of the shaft of the whipper device being formed with a key way, a detachable shaft section having its bearings in one side of the receptacle and being extended through the receptacle and being provided with a key to enter the key way of the whipper, and also being formed with a shoulder to limit its movement inwardly, the outer end of said detachable shaft and the adjacent end of the driving shaft being formed with coacting projections and slots so arranged that when the two are in alinement they will rotate in unison, and also so arranged that when said projections and slots are substantially horizontal, the receptacle may be removed by simply sliding it in its guides, substantially as and for the purposes stated.

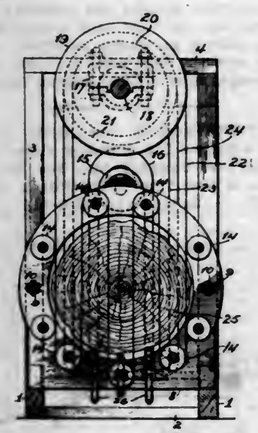
1,457,623. WIND INSTRUMENT. ALSON F. FAIRCHILD, Elkhorn, Wis. Filed Oct. 24, 1921. Serial No. 510,182. 6 Claims. (Cl. 84—392.)

4. In a wind instrument having a plurality of pistons in duplicate, each provided with a pair of curved conduits with aligned openings equally spaced inlets and outlets wholly in one side thereof, a plurality of duplicate cylinders with aligned holes in register with an equal number of said piston openings, a mouth-piece connecting with a hole of one cylinder, a bell-pipe connecting with the opposite corresponding hole of the cylinder farthest therefrom, and looped pipes of various lengths connecting corresponding holes in each cylinder, and opposite holes in pairs of cylinders.

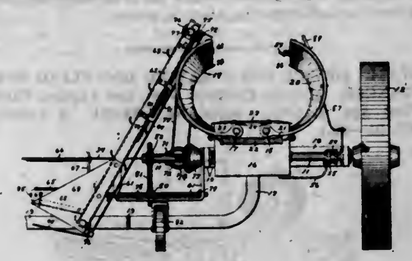
1,457,624. ICE-CREAM-CUTTING MACHINE. WILLIS HAYES FOX, Denver, Colo., assignor of one-half to The C. G. Carlson Ice Cream Company, Denver, Colo., a Corporation of Colorado. Filed Feb. 3, 1922. Serial No. 533,835. 6 Claims. (Cl. 107—21.)

4. A cutting machine comprising in combination a table an opening in the top thereof, a support secured to the table below the upper surface thereof, the upper end of said support being flush with the upper surface of the table, and provided with slots for the reception of cutters, a housing surrounding the support and adapted to reciprocate thereon, means for holding said housing in its uppermost position, an opening in one side of said housing whereby the material to be cut may be introduced thereinto when the housing occupies its uppermost position; a plurality of cutters carried by said housing and located above the upper edge of said opening, said cutters being adapted to enter the slots in the support, and means for reciprocating said housing, whereby the cutters may be made to pass through the material to be cut, and into said slots, the housing and cutters being so arranged that when they are in their lowermost position the upper parts thereof are below the top of the table, whereby the surfacing the latter is unobstructed.



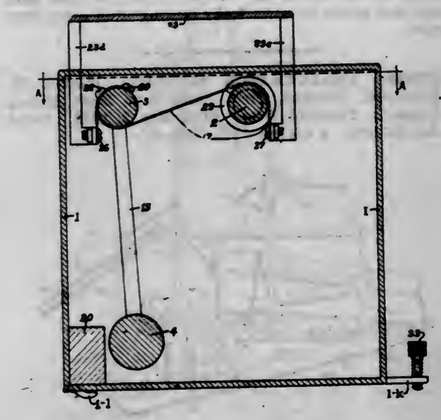
1,457,625. FABRIC BINDING STRIP. AARON FREYDBERG, Mount Vernon, N. Y. Filed Feb. 12, 1923. Serial No. 618,590. 3 Claims. (Cl. 91—68.)

1. As a new article of manufacture, binding material comprising a length of relatively narrow bias-cut fabric, said length consisting of a plurality of relatively narrow bias-cut pieces joined together on diagonal lines, the opposite longitudinal edges of the fabric being treated with adhesive to retard fraying tendency of the threads along such edges.



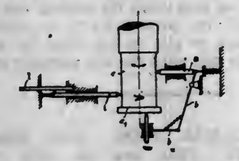
3. As a new article of manufacture, a roll of binding material comprising a core and a length of relatively narrow bias-cut binding fabric wound thereon, said length consisting of a plurality of relatively narrow bias-cut pieces joined together on diagonal lines, and the opposite faces of the roll being treated with adhesive to retard the fraying tendency of the threads along the longitudinal edges of the fabric.

1,457,626. WOODWORKING MACHINERY. LOUIS FRITZ, Memphis, Tenn. Filed Aug. 15, 1922. Serial No. 581,965. 3 Claims. (Cl. 143—22.)



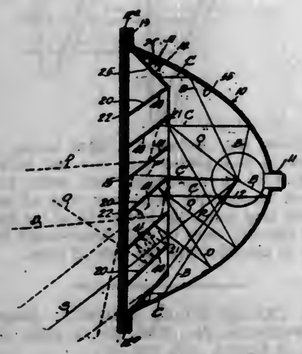
1. In saw mill apparatus, the combination with framework, of a plurality of band saw units, each unit comprising a frame, pulleys carried by said frame and a band saw passing over said pulleys to present a plurality of parallel active portions, the parallel active portions of the saw of one unit being staggered relatively to the parallel active portions of the saw of an adjacent unit.

1,457,627. GRAIN-SHOCKING ATTACHMENT FOR HARVESTERS. DANIEL W. GILE, Madison, S. Dak. Filed Feb. 3, 1921. Serial No. 442,337. 9 Claims. (Cl. 56—423.)



3. A shocking attachment for harvesters, comprising a frame, an axle journaled for rotation therein, a supporting wheel on and fixed to said axle, a receptacle formed of two members hinged together and adapted to receive bundles of grain, said receptacle being pivoted between its ends on said axle, means for holding said receptacle in horizontal position, yielding means for holding said receptacle in open position, clutch-controlled gearing between said axle and receptacle for closing the latter, and means for dumping said receptacle.

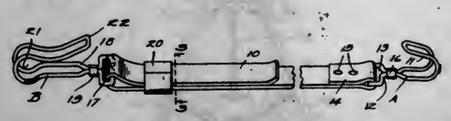
1,457,628. EQUALIZED-PLATFORM AUTOMATIC SCALE. WALTER K. HARRIS, Lockhart, Tex. Filed Feb. 6, 1922. Serial No. 534,617. 2 Claims. (Cl. 265—61.)



1. In a pendulum scale, the combination of a pendulum having a shaft, a partially revoluble bar paralleling the pendulum shaft and lying in an approximately horizontal plane therewith, a platform placed above the pendulum shaft and partially revoluble parallel bar with supports which extend below the axes of said pendulum shaft and parallel bar, suspension tapes between the lower portions of the platform supports and what constitutes the outer portions of the pendulum shaft and parallel bar when said pendulum shaft and parallel bar are considered with relation to one another, and a connection between the pendulum shaft and parallel bar which forces said pendulum shaft and parallel bar to revolve in conjunction in opposite directions when a downward pressure is exerted upon any portion of the platform.

1,457,629. APPARATUS FOR BALANCING MACHINERY. FRANZ LAWACZECK, Halle-on-the-Saale, and HANS HEYMANN, Darmstadt, Germany. Filed Dec. 22, 1917. Serial No. 208,515. 4 Claims. (Cl. 70—51.)

1. Apparatus for balancing rotary parts of machinery and for determining the plane of unbalancing, comprising in combination means for holding the part to be balanced, said means being adapted to oscillate mainly in a plane during the process of balancing, driving means for causing the body to be balanced to rotate at a speed above the speed of resonance of the oscillating system and for subsequently allowing said system to run by inertia and means for automatically recording the extent of vibrations occurring with the slowing down, particularly at the speed of resonance.



1,457,630. HEADLIGHT. LEWIS A. W. JOHNSON, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Aug. 12, 1920. Serial No. 403,060. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—48.4.)

1. The combination with a source of illumination, and a main reflector, of a series of vertically spaced auxiliary reflectors extending transversely of the main reflector, all of said auxiliary reflectors being inclined both vertically and horizontally, the vertical angularity increasing progressively from the top to the bottom of the series, so that the lowest reflector is more nearly vertical than any of the others

---

In a device of the class described adapted for holding a cow's tail against switching movement including a flexible strap member having a loop formed on one end thereof, a clip designed to engage the tendon of one of the hind legs of the cow, said clip having a loop arranged to receive the loop of the strap member for securing them together, said clip being formed of spring material, a second clip having a loop formed thereon and having a spring hook portion for engaging the cow's tail, said strap being extended through the loop of said second clip and a friction band on said strap for holding the end of said strap in position, the parts being so arranged that the friction band may be slid on the strap for varying the distance between said clips for the purposes stated.

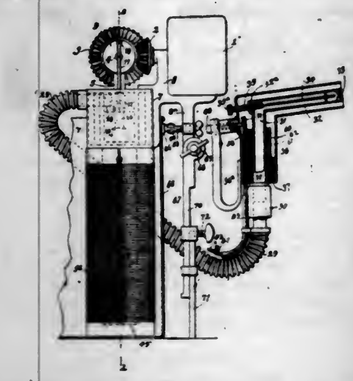
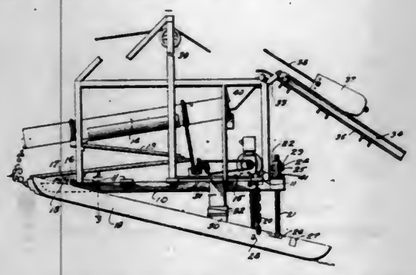
1,457,632. RAILWAY FROG. JOHN KERSHENSTEIN, Johnstown, Pa. Filed Aug. 23, 1922. Serial No. 583,828. 7 Claims. (Cl. 246—464.)



2. A railway frog including a block having intersecting flangeways and provided at one end between said flangeways with an upstanding frog point and at its opposite end between the flangeways with an upstanding double-ended frog point, the latter end of the block being formed at opposite sides of said double-ended frog point with slots to accommodate the ends of rails.

1,457,633. CEILING-BOARD SUPPORT. JOZEF KUBOVCIK, Edwardsville, Pa. Filed Nov. 2, 1922. Serial No. 598,631. 7 Claims. (Cl. 304—6.)

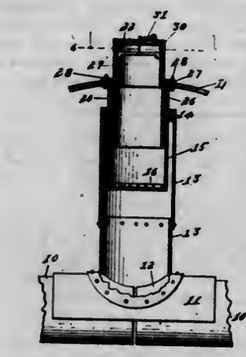


2. A ceiling board support comprising an upper board supporting-frame, and a lifting device upon which it is mounted, together with a base frame carrying said lifting device, said base frame comprising a head block, upwardly converging legs hinged to said head block, a leg bracing and stiffening block spaced below said head block and engaging said legs, and means for detachably securing said bracing and stiffening block in place.

1,457,634. DEVICE FOR SPRAYING HOT FLUID SUBSTANCES. MANUEL HUITRON NERI, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 4, 1921. Serial No. 458,391. 8 Claims. (Cl. 91—44.)

1. An apparatus for enameling surfaces with hot tar, comprising an electric motor, a pump, means for transmitting power to said pump and means for electrically heating it, and means for conducting hot tar from said pump, and means for electrically heating said conducting means.

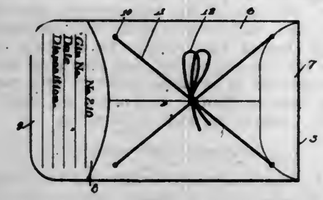
1,457,635. AMALGAMATOR SUPPORT. HARVEY W. RICHARDS, Portland, Oreg., assignor to Score Mining Company, Portland, Oreg. Filed May 2, 1922. Serial No. 557,916. 4 Claims. (Cl. 280—6.)



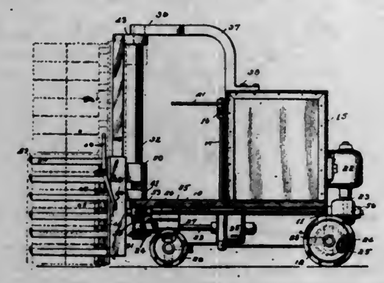
1. A support for an amalgamator comprising a staging, skids movably connected with the staging, means for elevating and lowering one end of the staging with relation to the skids, means for supporting the weight of the staging independently of the elevating means, and means for drawing the staging and skids toward each other to bind the said supporting means.

1,457,636. FARROWING-RAIL BRACKET. DARIUS E. SHRAUGER, Atlantic, Iowa. Filed Feb. 6, 1923. Serial No. 617,225. 3 Claims. (Cl. 119—16.)

3. An improved farrowing rail device comprising in combination two brackets each formed of a piece of structural angle bar hinged together at one end, and two supporting bars each formed of a single piece of strap metal and each hinged at one end to one of the bracket members and hinged together at their adjacent ends, each of the said bracket members being formed with a lug so positioned as to limit the movement of the supporting bars so that they cannot reach a position in alinement with each other, a farrowing rail secured to one member of each bracket designed to normally project inwardly from a side wall above a floor, said supporting bars each being provided with openings designed to receive a pin, said openings being so arranged that when the farrowing rail is moved to a substantially vertical position said openings will be in alinement, and a pin inserted therein to hold the farrowing rail in position parallel with the adjacent side wall, for the purposes stated.



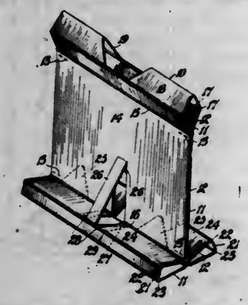
1,457,637. DEVICE FOR CONDUCTING SURFACE WATER TO DRAIN TILES. WILLIAM O. SIEVERS, Newell, Iowa. Filed Sept. 11, 1922. Serial No. 587,641. 8 Claims. (Cl. 182—7.)



1. A device for conducting surface water to drain tiles comprising a pipe section having its lower end designed to rest upon and communicate with the interior of a tile, and being open at its upper end, a second pipe section slidingly mounted within the first, open at both ends and having an outwardly extended flange at its upper end designed to rest upon the ground surface, and a perforated pipe section slidingly mounted within the last named pipe section open at its bottom and closed at its top and capable of being moved from position where its perforated upper portion extends above the ground surface to position where it is contained within the upper pipe section having a flange and forming a closure for the top of the device, for the purposes stated.

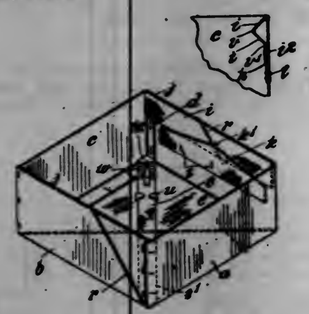
1,457,638. COTTON FILE. DAVID P. SKELTON, Chattanooga, Tenn. Filed July 29, 1920. Serial No. 399,790. 1 Claim. (Cl. 129—15.)

In a filing system, a plurality of superposed containers, said containers having openings disposed adjacent to the corners thereof, the openings of the containers adapted to register, a flexible connecting member extending through the openings and being crossed upon itself over the upper and lower containers, each of said containers having a tongue, said tongues overlying each other and being flexible to permit them to be moved to display the adjacent lower tongue.



1,457,639. TRUCK FOR HANDLING HOLLOW BLOCKS AND TILE. MERTON T. STRAIGHT, Adel, Iowa. Filed Sept. 27, 1919. Serial No. 326,957. 8 Claims. (Cl. 214—6.)

1. A device for handling hollow tile comprising a frame, having a series of horizontal prongs spaced apart so that each may enter the opening of a correspondingly spaced tile of a series of adjacent and symmetrically arranged tile, means for elevating and lowering said frame, means for swinging said frame in a horizontal plane when in any of its vertical positions of movement, and means for moving said prongs longitudinally into and out of the tile when said prongs are in any of their positions of movement.



1,457,640. COLLAPSIBLE STAND. WILLIAM POWNALL STUBBS, Leek, England. Filed Aug. 31, 1921. Serial No. 497,289. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—149.)

A collapsible stand formed from a single sheet of material having a line of fold dividing the sheet into a body portion and a supporting base, said sheet being adapted to be folded to extend the base laterally outward with respect to said body portion, said body portion and said base being provided with slits extending across said line of fold to provide a buttress having a free end, the slits in the base portion being diverged relatively and the free end of the buttress being correspondingly formed and adapted for insertion into the space in the base formed by said diverging slits when the base portion is extended laterally with respect to the body portion thereby to provide an interlock between the base portion and said buttress.

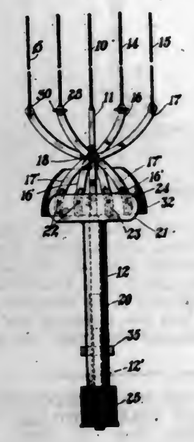
1,457,641. COLLAPSIBLE CARTON. WILLIAM POWNALL STUBBS, Leek, England. Filed Aug. 31, 1921. Serial No. 497,290. 1 Claim. (Cl. 229—41.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)



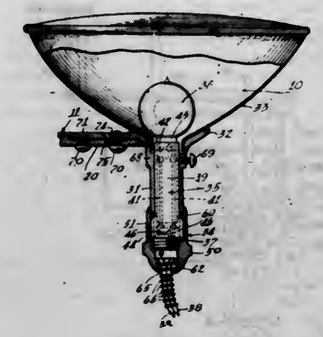
A carton having collapsible sides, three extensions on each of two oppositely disposed sides of said carton adapted to be turned inward to form a projecting rib of triangular cross section, said extensions being relatively connected, and a strip of material secured to each of said two sides effective to retain the adjacent edges of said extensions in inturned position.

1,457,642. GARAGE-DOOR OPENER. ALBERT A. UNRUH, Portland, Oreg., assignor of one-half to E. J. Vennewitz, Portland, Oreg. Filed Nov. 3, 1921. Serial No. 512,576. 6 Claims. (Cl. 292—164.)

1. The combination with a door and a lock therefor, of an operating member disposed at the outer side of said door, and connecting means between said operating member and said lock comprising two operating connections movable relatively without releasing the lock, and means whereby said connections may be operatively connected to permit said operating member to release the lock.

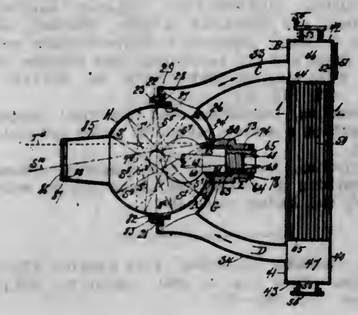
1,457,643. CUTTING IMPLEMENT. ANDREW URBANIK, Central Falls, R. I. Filed Nov. 2, 1922. Serial No. 598,483. 6 Claims. (Cl. 146—12.)

1. A cutting implement comprising a number of pivoted blades arranged side by side, rigid extensions from said blades formed with cam elements, and reciprocable members adapted to engage said cam elements to swing said blades in unison on their pivot points.



1,457,644. TOWEL RACK. JOHN H. WHITE and CHARLES A. WERNER, Berkeley, Calif. Filed July 19, 1920. Serial No. 397,459. 1 Claim. (Cl. 45—32.)

A towel rack including an octagonal plate having holes inserted therethrough whereby the plate may be attached to a wall, inwardly extending slots from two opposite sides of the plate, the part between the slots being turned up to form clips, a flat U-shaped support attached to the plate by means of the clip being bent over the intermediate member of the support, a holding arm pivoted to said support between the arms thereof, and clamps on said holding arm for holding the towels.



1,457,645. SPOTLAMP. RALPH E. WILLIAMS, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 7, 1920. Serial No. 372,043. 3 Claims. (Cl. 240—41.)

1. In a lamp of the character described, a cylindrical casing, an electrical connector arranged in the casing, a socket formed at the rear end of the electrical connector and extended beyond the rear end of the casing, the socket extension comprising a cylindrical wall the same size as the casing, a cap, a plug carried in the cap and adapted to extend into and co-operate with the socket, and a cylindrical sleeve extending from the cap to slidably fit over and cover the socket and the rear end of the casing.

1,457,646. WATER-COOLED LAMP. LYMAN A. WILSON, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 26, 1920. Serial No. 368,866. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—41.)

1. In a water cooled lamp the combination of a source of light, a cup shaped reflector for the source of light, a practically spherical shaped cover for the reflector and spaced therefrom to form a jacket therewith, a supplemental cup shaped reflector detachably connected to the first reflector and oppositely positioned thereto, a light sleeve extending from the second reflector, a glass for the outer end of the light sleeve, a water tank, a channel connecting the upper portion of said jacket and the upper portion of the tank and a channel connecting the lower portion of said jacket and the lower portion of the tank.

1,457,647. TRACTOR. ARCH U. AVERA, Florence, Ala. Original application filed June 18, 1921, Serial No. 478,610. Divided and this application filed July 13, 1922. Serial No. 574,725. 11 Claims. (Cl. 97—27.)

1. The combination with a power driven vehicle, of reversible driving means for driving the same in opposite directions, two sets of plows carried by said vehicle arranged to operate in opposite directions of travel of the vehicle, respectively, a second reversible driving means operable independently of said first driving means to raise one set of plows out of operative position, and lower the other set into operative position, and control means operable to simultaneously effect a reversal of both said driving means at each end of a predetermined limit of travel of the vehicle.

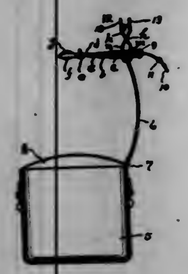
1,457,648. CASING AND TUBING HOOK. WALTER C. BAILEY, Long Beach, Calif., assignor to Regan Forge & Engineering Company, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Feb. 20, 1922. Serial No. 537,704. 4 Claims. (Cl. 24—233.)

1. The combination with a hook of a U-shaped closure member pivotally mounted at its free ends upon the shank of the hook and adapted to swing across the bight, and yielding arms pivotally mounted upon the hook and pivotally connected to said member to hold said member in either open or closed position.

1,457,649. CURTAIN FOR AUTOMOBILES. EMILE E. BOUCHARD, Burlington, Vt. Filed Apr. 4, 1921. Serial No. 458,196. 1 Claim. (Cl. 296—140.)



A device of the character described comprising a curtain having a transparent sheet and bindings for the end and side portions of the sheet, the side bindings being formed of material folded longitudinally to provide longitudinally extending open ended pockets positioned beyond the sides of the transparent sheet and having extensions secured to opposite faces of the sheet, coiled springs extending longitudinally in the pockets, and a track structure having side rods each of an even diameter throughout its length and bent to provide a portion for extending transversely of a vehicle top in a substantially horizontal plane beneath the top and a portion for extending vertically from the horizontally disposed portion and passing through the pockets and springs to slidably mount the curtain with the springs tightly coiled about the rod to frictionally grip the same at any point and hold the curtain in an adjusted position.

1,457,650. ILLUMINATING DEVICE FOR BURIAL CASKETS. DERRELL E. BROWN, Mondamin, Iowa. Filed Jan. 28, 1922. Serial No. 532,513. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—73.)

In an illuminating device for a removable mounting upon a support, the combination with a tubular lamp-holder, of a pair of upright, angular lever-members pivotally connected between their ends and providing a pair of opposed wings upwardly of their pivotal connection, and providing a pair of gripping-members below their pivotal connection, each gripping-member consisting of a pair of prongs adapted to lie astride in engagement with the tubular lamp-holder, and means automatically pressing the gripping-members toward each other for engaging the support.

1,457,651. LOCKING DEVICE FOR THE TAKE-UP MECHANISM OF LOOMS. SAMUEL CAME, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Crompton & Knowles Loom Works, Worcester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed June 15, 1920. Serial No. 389,123. 2 Claims. (Cl. 139—304.)

1. The combination with the reverse lever of a loom take-up mechanism and the driving connection therefor including a clutch, of a locking device comprising a bearing, a bell crank pivoted on said bearing and having a forked arm cooperating with said reverse lever, and a connection from the other arm of the bell crank to a manually operated device also controlling said clutch through which the take-up mechanism is driven.

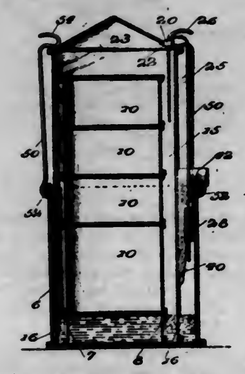
1,457,652. DISINFECTING, INSECTICIDAL, AND FUNGICIDAL COMPOSITION. HANNS CARSTENS, Leverkusen, and CHRISTIAN HANSEN, Wiesdorf, near Cologne, Germany, assignors to Farbenfabriken vorm. Friedr. Bayer and Co., Leverkusen, near Cologne, Germany. Filed Aug. 8, 1921. Serial No. 490,713. 4 Claims. (Cl. 167—6.)

1. Disinfecting, insecticidal and fungicidal compositions comprising a mixture containing sulfur and barium monosulfid.

4. Disinfecting, insecticidal and fungicidal compositions comprising a mixture containing sulfur, sodium monosulfid, and barium monosulfid.



1,457,653. WHEEL BEARING. LUIS CERRATO, Florida, Argentina. Filed Aug. 4, 1921. Serial No. 489,742. 2 Claims. (Cl. 301—3.)

1. In combination, an axle; a tubular casing therefor; a tubular bushing secured in the end of the casing and projecting therebeyond but free of contact with the axle; a wheel having its hub disposed in line with the axle end to receive the same, said hub having a circumferential flange on its inner end provided on its inner face with an annular, concentric rib; an annular washer immediately fitting around and supported by said rib; an annular support of angle section having an annular projection which immediately fits around said washer; a brake drum having its inner edge fitting immediately around and supported by said projection and having its central portion interposed between the support and the hub flange; fastening bolts passing directly through the wheel, hub flange, central brake drum portion and support; an inner race member encircling and supported on the projecting end of the bushing; an outer race member arranged interiorly of and contacting with said support and separated from the hub flange by said washer, said support having a continuous in-turned portion which extends across and closes the space between the adjacent edges of the two race members so as to form a lubricant case which prevents access of foreign matter to said space while permitting access of lubricant thereto; and a series of anti-friction bearings disposed in said space.

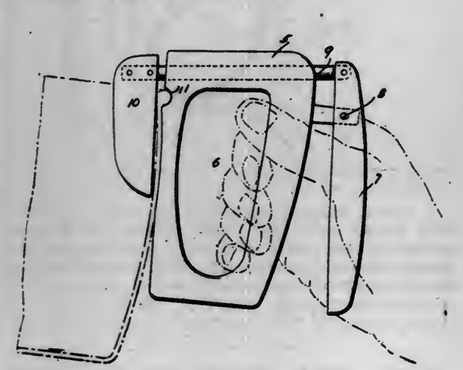
1,457,654. COOKING UTENSIL. HENRY J. DANIEL, Sutherlin, Va. Filed Jan. 27, 1922. Serial No. 532,137. 5 Claims. (Cl. 53—2.)

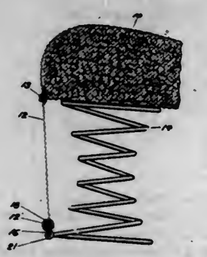
1. A cooking utensil comprising a main receptacle, a hood extending into the main receptacle and adapted for the reception of steam, said hood being provided with a steam outlet, a valve for normally closing said steam outlet, and a float arranged within said main receptacle and constituting a means to elevate said valve, said float being located beneath the top of the main receptacle whereby to relieve the steam pressure prior to the overflow of water in the main receptacle.

1,457,655. WATER CARRIER. HENRY J. DANIEL, Sutherlin, Va. Filed Jan. 10, 1923. Serial No. 611,797. 8 Claims. (Cl. 104—112.)



1. A carrier of the character specified comprising a body, wheels carried thereby, a U-shaped yoke having a bight portion rotatably connected to the body and extending transversely thereof, the terminal portions of the yoke being provided with weight supporting means, the weight carried by the terminal portions of said yoke being adapted to hold the wheels in position when the truck reaches the limit of its movement in one direction.

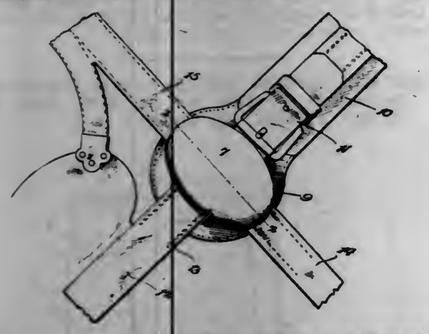
1,457,656. PROCESS OF DESULPHURIZING PETROLEUM AND PETROLEUM DISTILLATES. ALBERT ERNEST DUNSTAN and FERDINAND BERNARD THOLE, Sanbury-on-Thames, England. Filed Sept. 5, 1922. Serial No. 586,346. 3 Claims. (Cl. 196—29.)



2. A liquid phase process for desulphurizing petroleum and petroleum distillates, consisting of treating the petroleum or petroleum distillate in the liquid phase with a relatively large quantity of a freshly ignited, adsorbtive, dehydrated inorganic gel while said gel is still in a heated state from said ignition.

1,457,657. LIFTING DEVICE. FRANK FAHSBENDER, Paterson, N. J. Filed Nov. 14, 1921. Serial No. 514,984. 4 Claims. (Cl. 294—31.)

1. A lifting device comprising the combination of a pair of relatively movable gripping members and a pair of relatively movable handle members, all four such members being substantially parallel, and an operative connection between one member of one pair and one member of the other pair whereby a movement of one handle member relative to the other effects a movement of one gripping member relative to the other.



1,457,658. SEAT SPRING. CHARLES F. GREEN, Defiance, Ohio, assignor to Industrial Research Corporation, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 18, 1918. Serial No. 262,988. 5 Claims. (Cl. 155—180.)

1. In a device of the class described, including in combination a cushion and a depending skirt therefor, of a spring unit and frame enclosed within said skirt; means for connecting the lower edge of said skirt to said spring unit frame and supporting the same therefrom, comprising a member surrounding the lower edge of said skirt and having integral depending outwardly turned hooks adapted to be bent around and pressed into clamping engagement with a portion of said spring unit frame, whereby the spring unit frame is supported in substantially the same vertical plane with the lower edge of the skirt.

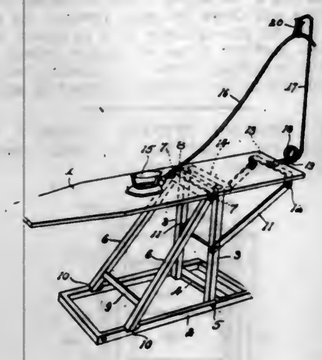
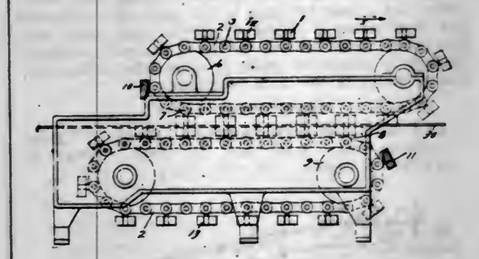
1,457,659. HARNESS ROSETTE. JULIUS C. HARPHAM, Lincoln, Nebr. Filed Sept. 9, 1922. Serial No. 587,156. 1 Claim. (Cl. 54—76.)

A harness rosette comprising a base loop of elongated form having cross bars formed integral therewith adjacent its ends, posts rising from said base loop and integral therewith, a top ring carried by said posts and integral therewith, and a sheet metal cap plate fitted over the top ring and having its edge rolled over and under the edge of said top ring.



1,457,660. STOVE. FRANK P. HOLLOWAY, Knoxville, Tenn., assignor to Fair Foundry Co., Knoxville, Tenn., a Corporation of Tennessee. Filed Sept. 2, 1922. Serial No. 585,930. 12 Claims. (Cl. 126—58.)

1. In a stove, the combination of a combined grate and fire-bowl support constituted of a plurality of separable sections assembled end to end and having interengaging means at their adjoining ends, a grate detachably and removably mounted on and supported by said support, and a fire-bowl detachably and removably mounted on and supported by said support.



1,457,661. IRONING BOARD. FRANK BANIA, Detroit, Mich. Filed Jan. 30, 1922. Serial No. 532,623. 2 Claims. (Cl. 68—14.)

1. A structure of the character described wherein an ironing board is supported by a foldable frame, said frame comprising a base frame, vertical legs pivotally attached at their lower ends to the base frame to swing downwardly into said frame, a transverse cleat on the lower side of the ironing board intermediate its ends, a transverse pivot member secured to the side of the ironing board in spaced relation to the cleat, said space being adapted to receive and detachably hold the upper ends of the vertical legs, diagonal legs pivotally attached at their upper ends to the pivot member to swing into parallelism with the lower side of the board and adapted to detachably engage the base frame at their lower ends when the foldable frame is in extended position, and links pivotally attached at one end to the underside of the ironing board adjacent the ends thereof and at their opposite ends to the vertical legs intermediate the ends of said legs to pivotally connect the ironing board to the vertical legs to fold therewith.

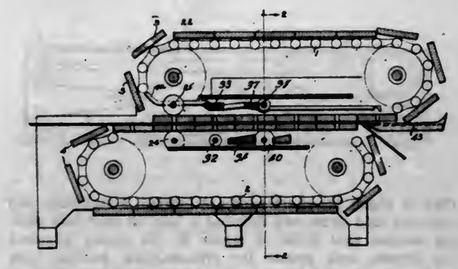
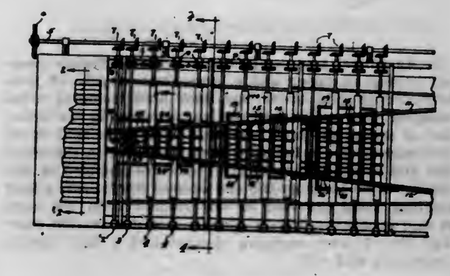
1,457,662. MACHINE FOR MAKING SHINGLES. SILAS M. FORD, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Aug. 2, 1919. Serial No. 315,032. 8 Claims. (Cl. 164—28.)



1. In a machine for making shingles through the operation of dies carried in die bars, the combination with one of said die bars, of a slidable lock block mounted therein and adapted to engage with an aperture in the co-operating die bars, and means for moving said lock block into and out of engagement with said second named die bar.

1,457,663. SHINGLE-MAKING MACHINE. SILAS M. FORD, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Nov. 19, 1919. Serial No. 339,175. 8 Claims. (Cl. 164—87.)



1. In a shingle making machine the combination with a plurality of travelling bars, of means for causing said bars to travel through a predetermined distance in a given plane, means for causing said bars to travel with a circular motion, a punch slidable in one of said bars, a cam co-acting with said punch and taking control of said punch while its bar is travelling in a circular motion, said punch co-operating with said cam throughout the motion of said bar in said predetermined plane.

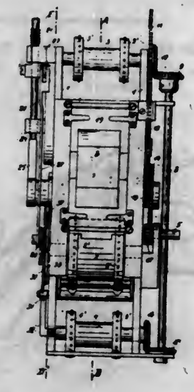
1,457,664. MACHINE FOR MAKING LATH BOARDS. SILAS M. FORD, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Dec. 15, 1921. Serial No. 522,668. 14 Claims. (Cl. 154—30.)

4. In a machine for making lath board, the combination with a plurality of rollers for passing a sheet of corrugated material through the machine with the corrugations thereof running longitudinally of the machine, of a pair of forming fingers for acting on the central corrugation of the sheet, two pairs of forming fingers for acting on the two corrugations adjacent to the central corrugation of the sheet, and a plurality of such pairs of forming fingers for successively acting upon each of the corrugations of said sheet.



1,457,665. COMBINATION PNEUMATIC JACK AND TIRE INFLATER. WILLIAM B. LUCAS, Oak Park, Ill. Filed Sept. 6, 1921. Serial No. 498,685. 1 Claim. (Cl. 138—9.)

A combination jack and tire inflater having a high pressure storage chamber to contain a normally gaseous fluid in liquid form under high pressure, an expansion chamber arranged to receive fluid from said storage chamber to operate said jack and a tubular connection having one end communicating with said storage chamber and its other end being interchangeable with respect to said expansion chamber and a tire to be inflated.

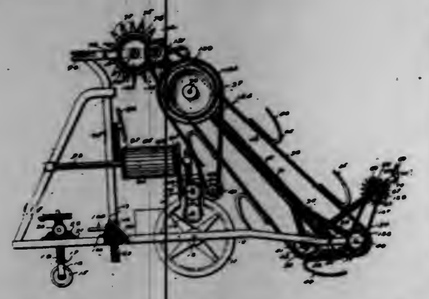
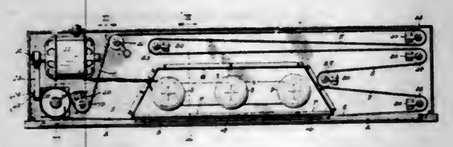
1,457,666. APPARATUS FOR DISPLAYING ADVERTISEMENTS. WALTER MANNOWSKI, Berlin-Nowawes, Germany, assignor to The Firm Ditta "Rema," Milan, Italy. Filed Mar. 23, 1922. Serial No. 546,881. 2 Claims. (Cl. 88—18.2.)



1. An improved apparatus for displaying advertisements on endless bands, specially film bands, comprising in combination a drum for bringing the film before the projection window, a source of power, a transmission gear and means for driving said drum in such a manner that the drum stops for a determined (short) time when the advertisement to be displayed stands behind the window whereupon said drum is suddenly and rapidly revolved for a distance corresponding to the length of one picture upon the film band, said driving means consisting of a ratchet wheel on said drum, a cam keyed upon the shaft of said transmission gear, a spring controlled rod mounted upon said cam, a connecting rod hingedly connected at its upper end with said rod, a lever hingedly connected with the lower end of said connecting rod, a spring influenced pawl pivotally mounted upon said lever engaging with said ratchet wheel so that, if said rod drops suddenly from the highest point of said cam the pawl is operated and makes the drum suddenly revolve for the length of one tooth of said ratchet wheel.

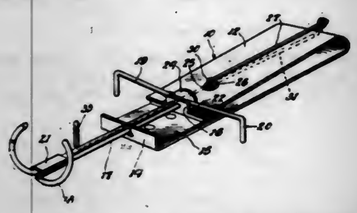
1,457,667. ROLLER SKATE. CHARLES ALFRED MIDON, Paris, France. Filed Sept. 19, 1919, Serial No. 324,862. Renewed Oct. 21, 1922. Serial No. 596,166. 1 Claim. (Cl. 46—51.)

In a roller skate, a bridge piece having an axle for a pair of rollers, a support having a recess in the lower portion of which the bridge piece is arranged, a securing pin passing through said bridge piece and also through opposite walls of the support, a rubber block in the recess of the support and bearing on the bridge piece, the said axle being in the plane vertically below the center of the block.



1,457,668. MANURE LOADER. FAY EDISON NULL, Urbana, Ill. Filed May 27, 1921. Serial No. 472,947. 8 Claims. (Cl. 198—13.)

7. In a machine of the character described, a main frame, an elevator pivotally mounted upon the main frame, a beater cooperating with the elevator, and an extractor coacting with the elevator at the delivery end thereof.



1,457,669. MOVING SIGN. PAUL L. ODLE and GUY L. ODLE, Detroit, Mich. Filed Oct. 20, 1920. Serial No. 418,210. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—32.)

1. In a device of the character described, the combination of a casing having an opening in the front wall thereof, a plate closing said opening, a reflector chamber in the casing opposite said opening with a space at each end thereof between it and the casing ends, said chamber being also spaced from the said plate, a lamp in the chamber, an endless belt having characters depicted thereon, rolls in the casing over which the belt travels and arranged to provide a plurality of runs comprising long runs extending longitudinally of the casing between the back wall thereof and the back of said chamber and short runs between one end of said chamber and one end of the casing, with a single long run adjacent the front wall of the casing passing between said chamber and said plate closing the opening in the front of the casing, a driving drum located at the end of the casing opposite that in which the short runs are located, a tightener roll adjacent said drum and forming a loop in said belt passing around said drum, a motor in the casing adjacent the drums, and means for transmitting motion from said motor to said drum to impart a traveling motion to said endless belt.

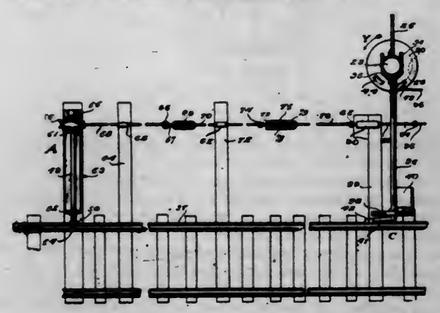
1,457,670. ANIMAL TRAP. ANDREW N. PIETROK, Stayton, Oreg. Filed June 3, 1922. Serial No. 565,650. 2 Claims. (Cl. 43—91.)

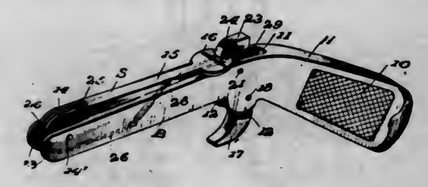
1. An animal trap comprising a V-shaped flexible member having an upper and a lower leaf, a pair of jaws journaled in said lower leaf, said jaws including arms engaging with said upper leaf to be swung in the direction of closing the jaws, means for depressing said upper leaf, said means including a lever fulcrumed in the lower leaf and extending through an aperture provided in the upper leaf, a ledge at the end of said lower leaf, alined bearings being provided in said ledge and in the apex of said member, a trigger slidably mounted in said bearings, and a lever engaging element and a bait holding element on said rod.

1,457,671. BATTERY CASE AND SWITCH. WILLIAM HURLEY RECTOR, Williamson, W. Va. Filed Jan. 17, 1923. Serial No. 613,284. 1 Claim. (Cl. 204—29.)



In a battery case and switch, a tubular battery enclosing device, heads applied to the ends of the tube, each of said heads comprising a plug having recesses in its inner and outer ends, a shank slidable through the plug and having a head on its inner end operative in the recess in the inner end of the said plug for engaging the terminal of the battery and for limiting the outward movement of the shank, and means for normally holding the shank projected outwardly.

1,457,672. ANIMAL POKE. ALOYS J. REISENAUER, Colton, Wash. Filed July 25, 1922. Serial No. 577,303. 3 Claims. (Cl. 119—136.)

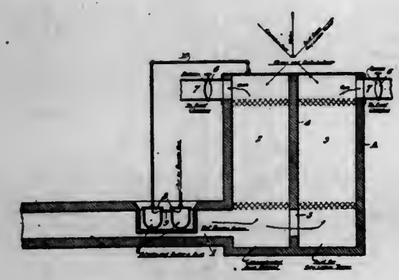


1. An animal poke comprising a single piece of wire fashioned with a spring coil and diverging arms, said arms having opposed laterally extending bows and hooks at their extremities adapted to pierce the animal's ears, and means for retaining said arms against divergent opening movement.

1,457,673. RAILWAY SIGNAL. ANNIS OLI RUSSELL, Story City, Iowa. Filed Sept. 11, 1922. Serial No. 587,476. 7 Claims. (Cl. 246—293.)

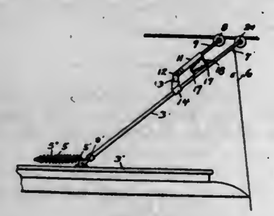
1. A railway signal system comprising a base, a signal post revolubly mounted on said base, means inserted between said base and said post tending to turn the post in one direction, an actuating lever adapted to be depressed by a passing car wheel over the railway track, and tensioning means between said actuating lever and said post; whereby, upon the depression of the actuating lever, the signal post will be turned through the intermediary of said tensioning means against the action of said turning means.

1,457,674. FLY SHOOTER. BERT KENNEDY and LEWIS SAIGER, Gloversville, N. Y. Filed Apr. 22, 1922. Serial No. 555,999. 6 Claims. (Cl. 43—135.)



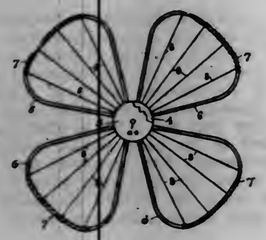
3. A pistol of the character described, comprising a stock provided at its one end with a handle and having its other end bifurcated, a striker consisting in an elongated member having its one end pivoted between the prongs afforded by the bifurcated ends of said stock, a hammer pivotally mounted at the rear end of the stock, an elastic connected to the pivoted end of said striker and extended rearwardly and connected to said hammer whereby to urge the hammer forwardly, a head upon said hammer adapted to engage and hold the striker in a rearward swung position, and a trigger adapted to move the hammer for releasing said striker.

1,457,675. PHARMACEUTICAL PRODUCT. WALTER SCHOELLER, Freiburg, Breisgau, Germany. Filed Aug. 24, 1922. Serial No. 584,135. 2 Claims. (Cl. 260—13.)



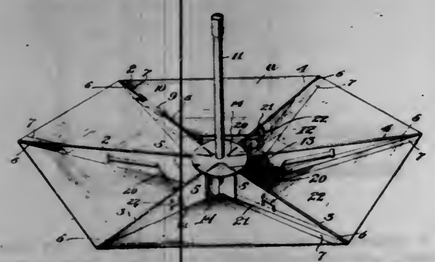
2. As a new product the new mercury compounds derivable from diallylmalonic acid and mercury sulfate, which new product crystallizes in the shape of the free carboxylic acid from hot aniliu in glistening plates almost insoluble in the usual organic solvents; being a valuable therapeutic; forming soluble salts with alkali metals and double salts with alkali salts of amino acids, which salts retain the valuable therapeutic properties of the free acid, substantially as described.

1,457,676. PROCESS OF MAKING SULPHURIC ACID AND APPARATUS THEREFOR. FRANK G. STANTIAL, Melrose, Mass., assignor to Merrimac Chemical Company, Woburn, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed May 27, 1922. Serial No. 564,160. 11 Claims. (Cl. 23—1.)



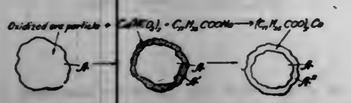
7. Apparatus for concentrating sulphuric acid comprising acid denitrating and concentrating towers, means for supplying said towers with acid directly from the same source, means for supplying said towers with hot gases directly from the same source, and means for varying the ratio of acid to hot gases supplied to said towers.

1,457,677. TROLLEY REPLACER. MILES M. SYKES, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Oct. 26, 1922. Serial No. 597,114. 6 Claims. (Cl. 191—74.)



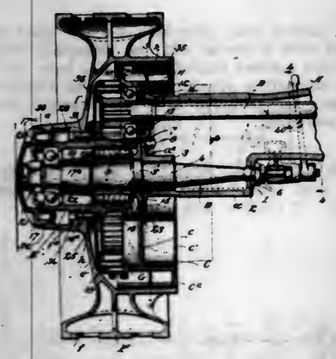
1. In a device of the character described, a trolley wire, a trolley adapted to engage the same, a slanting support for the trolley having means associated therewith for forcing the trolley against the wire and a member having flaring flanges thereon formed to engage the wire only when the latter becomes disengaged from the trolley and to re-engage the trolley with the wire.

1,457,678. PHONOGRAPH TONE RECTIFIER AND AMPLIFIER. CHARLES A. TREMAIN, Bellingham, Wash. Filed Jan. 10, 1922. Serial No. 528,159. 1 Claim. (Cl. 274—39.)



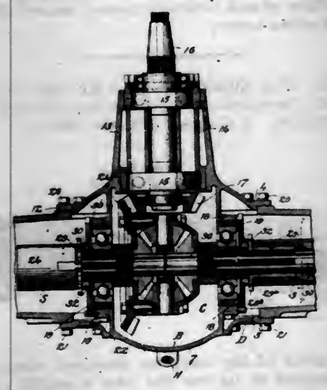
In a phonograph tone improver in combination a metal disc having a central hole, a plurality of spring-metal loops fastened to said disc in the plane thereof, and a plurality of spring-steel wires stretched taut between said disc and said loops and fastened thereto.

1,457,679. UMBRELLA. SIDNEY C. VINCENT, Baltimore, Md. Filed Aug. 11, 1921. Serial No. 491,435. 7 Claims. (Cl. 135—20.)



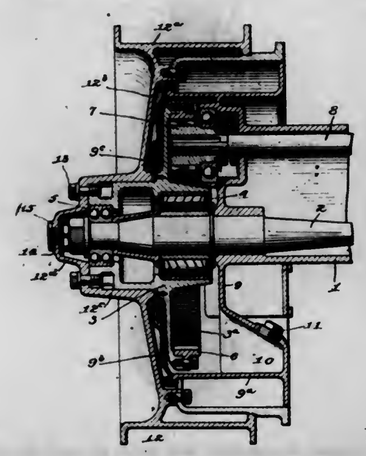
3. An umbrella comprising a canopy normally completely severed from its center to its margin, means for securing the canopy edges together when the canopy is in unfolded position, a plurality of V-shaped ribs secured to the underside of the canopy with their angles converging at the center thereof, a rod carrying near its top a disk adapted to overlie the angles of the ribs, said disk being further provided with a plurality of spanner sections adapted to lie within the angles of the ribs, the rod being adapted to extend through the canopy, and means above the canopy for further securing the rod to the canopy.

1,457,680. FLOTATION PROCESS. WILLIAM A. WHITAKER, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 23, 1919. Serial No. 319,514. 2 Claims. (Cl. 83—85.)



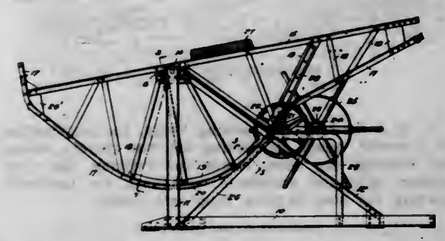
1. The process of concentrating oxidised ores and the like which consists in forming on the metal containing particles by chemical reaction, a film or envelope of an organic compound of the metal of the ore, this film or envelope having the characteristics of capability of attachment to a gas bubble, and difficult solubility in water, and then subjecting the thus treated material to froth flotation.

1,457,681. MOTOR-TRUCK AXLE. RICHARD A. WHITTINGHAM, Newark, Del., assignor to Atlas Axle Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 5, 1919. Serial No. 335,916. 3 Claims. (Cl. 188—79.)



1. The combination with an axle housing and a wheel spindle projecting therefrom, of a brake housing comprising a web portion, secured to the end of the axle housing, a rim portion concentric with the spindle and an annular flange projecting radially outward from the inner end of the rim portion, said rim portion consisting a support for the brake bands, and a wheel mounted on said spindle and having a brake drum extending around said rim portion and close to said flange.

1,457,682. MOTOR-TRUCK AXLE. RICHARD A. WHITTINGHAM, Newark, Del., assignor to Atlas Axle Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 5, 1919. Serial No. 355,917. Renewed Jan. 27, 1923. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)

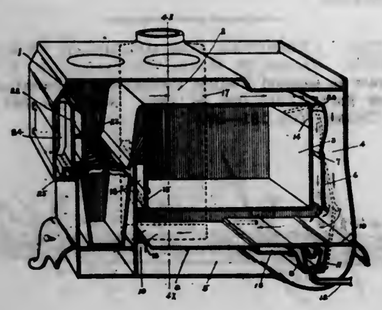


3. The combination with an axle housing, a differential casing removably supported within the housing, and a differential assembly in said casing, of drive shafts in said housing each having a telescopic part movable into and out of said housing.

1,457,683. TRUCK WHEEL. RICHARD A. WHITTINGHAM, Newark, Del., assignor to Atlas Axle Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 6, 1920, Serial No. 428,557. Renewed Jan. 27, 1923. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)

1. The combination with an axle casing, a wheel spindle projecting therefrom, a gear journaled upon the spindle and having an outwardly extended hub, and a housing enclosing said gear, said gear hub projecting through the housing and the interior of said housing being in communication with the bearings of said hub, of a vehicle wheel having a hub fitting on to the gear hub and having a cap, integral with the wheel hub, extending over the end of the gear hub and spindle.

1,457,684. ERECTION OF CONCRETE BUILDINGS. ROBERT H. AIKEN, Winthrop Harbor, Ill. Filed Apr. 17, 1922. Serial No. 553,510. 5 Claims. (Cl. 25—131.)

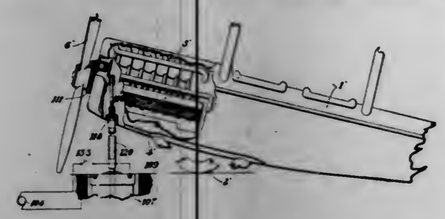


1. In apparatus of the class described, the combination with a supporting frame, of a series of like truss beams all pivotally supported between their ends on a transverse axis with their upper members in an approximately horizontal plane and bearing a floor upon which a concrete wall may be formed, the lower members of all the trusses being marginally geared, far below the upper members, curved about said axis, extending obliquely toward the ends of the upper members, and engaged respectively, by worm gears mounted on a power shaft.

1,457,685. AUTOMOBILE TOP STAY STRAP. GEORGE S. AVEY, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Apr. 25, 1922. Serial No. 556,398. 5 Claims. (Cl. 296—144.)

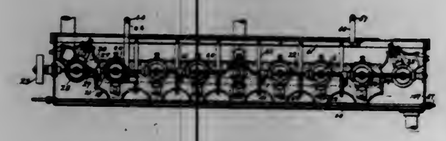
5. An extensible stay of the type described which comprises a single strap folded upon itself to form three adjustable loops, one of which is disposed centrally of the other two and in which the parts of said strap which form portions of the center loop also form respectively a portion of each end loop, and means carried by each end loop for supporting the stay strap in operative position.

1,457,686. RANGE. EDWARD C. BEERS, Rochester, N. Y. Filed Oct. 7, 1920. Serial No. 415,405. 8 Claims. (Cl. 126—36.)



1. In a range, the combination of an oven, a double flue at the bottom of said oven, the upper half of said double flue being connected with the lower half of said double flue, a back flue at the rear of said oven and adjacent thereto, the lower half of said double flue having an exit into said back flue.

1,457,687. MEANS AND METHOD FOR STARTING AIRPLANE ENGINES AND THE LIKE. JOSEPH BIJUR, New York, N. Y., assignor to Bijur Motor Appliance Company, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 8, 1919. Serial No. 270,236. 14 Claims. (Cl. 244—31.)



1. In starting apparatus for airplanes and the like, in combination, an airplane engine, a source of cranking power external of the airplane, a quick-detachable connection between said source and said engine, adapted to separate upon said airplane starting locomotion, and means for relieving the strain exerted by said airplane on said connection prior to separation.

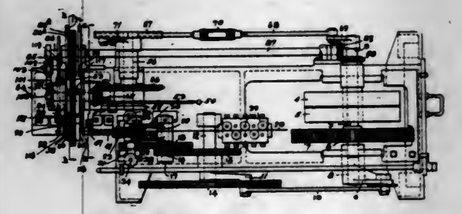
1,457,688. PROCESS OF AND APPARATUS FOR RENOVATING COATED METAL SHEETS. CHARLES F. H. BOHNHARDT, Baltimore, Md., assignor to The Crown Cork and Seal Company of Baltimore City, Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Mar. 8, 1919. Serial No. 281,366. 26 Claims. (Cl. 204—1.)

1. The herein described process of renovating coated tin-plated metal sheets and the like, which comprises immersing the sheets in an electrolytic bath charged with chemical ingredients of a character to soften the coating, and removing the softened and loosened coating from the tin-plate.

1,457,689. CROSSOVER FOR OVERHEAD TROLLEY LINES. GEORGE W. BOWER, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 30, 1922. Serial No. 597,753. 4 Claims. (Cl. 191—37.)

1. In a crossover for trolley lines, the combination of two beams having wire clamping plates connected to their ends through insulation, sectional track members suspended beneath said beams and arranged to provide transverse passageways between their adjacent ends, and means for supporting crossing wires in said passageways.



1,457,690. ELECTRICAL HEATER FOR OIL WELLS. PERCIVAL F. BEINE, Boston, Mass., assignor to Oil Wells Renewal Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 22, 1921. Serial No. 454,582. 14 Claims. (Cl. 219—53.)

1. An electric heater for oil wells, comprising a pair of hollow liquid tight heads, tubes connecting said heads, electrical resistance coils mounted within the tubes in spaced relation to the walls thereof, a substance filling the space between the coils and the tubes for conducting heat from the coils to the tubes, tube spacing means located intermediate said heads to hold the tubes in spaced relation, and conductors for supplying current to said coils.

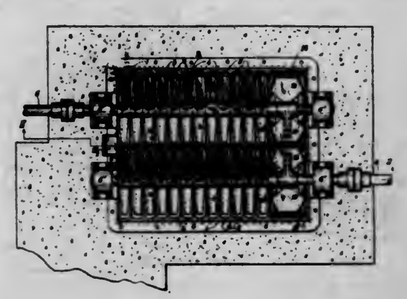
1,457,691. WIRE-HOOP MACHINE. GEORGE E. BULL, Monessen, Pa., assignor to Pittsburgh Steel Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Feb. 9, 1922. Serial No. 535,348. 17 Claims. (Cl. 140—88.)



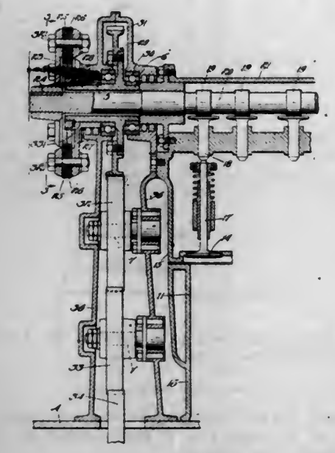
1. In a machine for forming hoops, the combination of a former, means for feeding the wire thereto, means for severing the wire, means for twisting the overlapping wire and automatic mechanism for positively ejecting the hoop entirely from said former.

1,457,692. TRACTOR. SAMUEL C. CARTER, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Sept. 8, 1919. Serial No. 322,583. 22 Claims. (Cl. 180—50.)

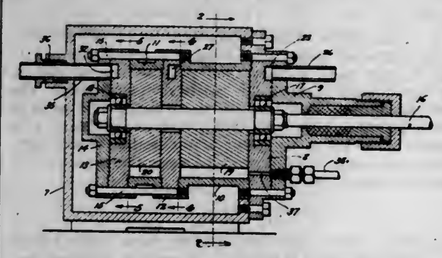
1. In a tractor, front and rear axle housings, a frame interposed between said housings, and L-shaped posts connecting said housings and said frame, the vertical arms of said posts being pivotally connected to said axle housings.

1,457,693. PULVERIZING MACHINE. CHARLES A. DORN, Canton, Ohio. Filed Oct. 15, 1921. Serial No. 507,932. 8 Claims. (Cl. 83—11.)

1. A pulverizing machine comprising a horizontal twin cylinder case having a longitudinal segmental opening between the cylinders, rotating beaters in the cylinders creating a cyclonic action in the segmental opening, a material inlet means at the forward end of the case and suction means at the rear end thereof drawing and discharging pulverized material therefrom.



1,457,694. POWER-TRANSMISSION DEVICE. WILLIAM H. DOUGLAS, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 23, 1919. Serial No. 332,650. 1 Claim. (Cl. 192—8.)

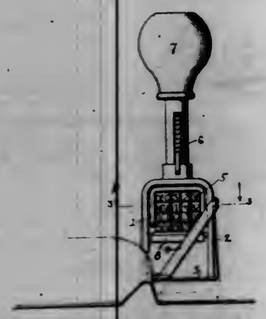


In a device of the class described, a driven member and a fixed member, means normally locking the driven member against rotation in one direction said means comprising wedging surfaces between the two members, and an element movable to and from said wedging surfaces, two spaced projections on the driven member and a flat spring having one arm secured to the driven member, the other arm passing between said projections and engaging the wedging member and normally tending to move it toward the wedging surface.

1,457,695. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. STEPHEN I. FEKETE and STUART G. BAITS, Detroit, Mich., assignors to Essex Motors, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Aug. 16, 1919. Serial No. 317,954. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—90.)

4. In an internal combustion engine, an engine cylinder having a valve, a cam shaft mounted on said cylinder for operating said valve, a universal joint on one end of said cam shaft, an actuating member being located between said universal joint and the cylinder, and means for supporting said member independently of said cylinder.

1,457,696. COMPRESSOR. ETHELBERT T. FORD, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to Fordartic Refrigeration Company, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed June 8, 1920. Serial No. 387,395. 3 Claims. (Cl. 230—30.)



2. A compressor comprising in combination, a rotor chamber, a rotor eccentrically disposed in said chamber and in contact with the wall thereof, blades slidably disposed in pockets in said rotor, said chamber having side walls, one of said walls having a main inlet port communicating with said chamber behind the line of contact of said rotor and an auxiliary inlet port in advance of said main inlet port and adjacent to said line of contact, the other of said walls having a main outlet port in communication with said chamber in advance of said line of contact and an auxiliary outlet port adjacent said line of contact and behind said main outlet port.

1,457,697. HAND-STAMP FRAME. WILLIAM A. FORCE, Jr., Kew Gardens, N. Y., assignor to Wm. A. Force & Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 8, 1922. Serial No. 587,012. 2 Claims. (Cl. 101—108.)

1. A frame for hand stamps comprising a substantially U-shaped frame adapted to contain printing mechanism, one leg of said frame being shorter than the other, and a bottom plate secured to the long leg of the frame and extending toward the short leg.

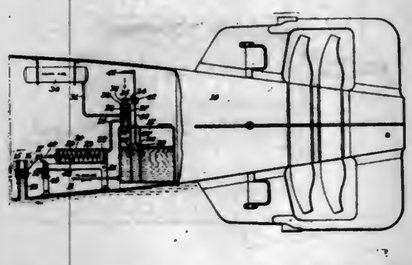
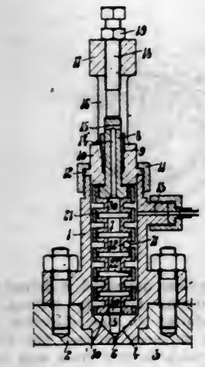
1,457,698. HAIR CURLER. WALTER ADAM GILL, Riverside, N. J. Filed Dec. 2, 1922. Serial No. 604,489. 2 Claims. (Cl. 132—41.)



2. In an article of the class described, a pair of normally separated spring arms integrally joined together at one of their ends, a hook upon the free end of one of the arms, and adapted for receiving therebeneath the free end of the other arm, for maintaining said arms in closed relation with each other, and an auxiliary arm loosely connected to the point of connection of said first mentioned arms and adapted to have its opposite end engaged beneath the said hook.

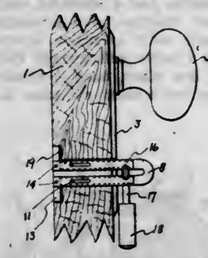
1,457,699. COIN-TESTING MECHANISM FOR COIN-CONTROLLED MACHINES. ALBERT D. GROVER, New York, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Autosales Corporation, a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 24, 1917, Serial No. 187,935. Renewed Apr. 30, 1919. Serial No. 293,809. 23 Claims. (Cl. 194—102.)

23. In a coin-controlled machine, a rotatable coin-carrying disk, a movable member mounted to operate in a plane transversely to the plane of said disk, and means on said member for entering the hole of a washer and for engaging the edge of a too-small coin or check held in said disk, whereby said disk is locked against further forward rotation, said means permitting reverse rotation of the disk for removal of the intercepted coin or check.



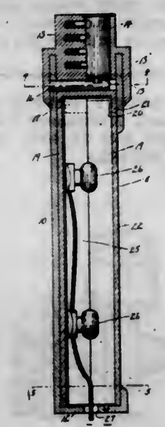
1,457,700. MECHANISM FOR SINKING TORPEDOES. JOHN HAYS HAMMOND, Jr., Gloucester, Mass. Filed Dec. 23, 1918, Serial No. 267,993. Renewed Oct. 27, 1922. Serial No. 597,428. 9 Claims. (Cl. 114—20.)

1. In combination a marine body, a fuel tank on said body, and means operated by a change of level of the fuel in said tank to a predetermined point for causing said body to sink.



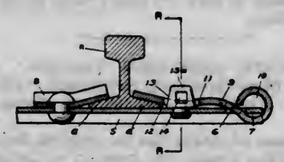
7. In a self-propelled movable body, a fuel tank, means controlled by the amount of fuel in said tank to exert a predetermined effect on the course of said body.

1,457,701. FUEL-INJECTING DEVICE FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. KNUT JONAS ELIAS HESSELMAN, Saltsjo-Storangen, Sweden. Filed Mar. 26, 1920. Serial No. 369,069. 2 Claims. (Cl. 299—133.)



1. In a device for injecting fuel under pressure in internal combustion engines, a casing having a chamber, a fuel inlet and a fuel outlet, an injection valve in said chamber comprising a needle valve to control said outlet, a flexible hollow member carrying said needle valve, said member being formed by a plurality of pairs of annular diaphragms the diaphragms of each pair being connected at their inner edges by means of cylindrical walls formed integral with said diaphragms, the diaphragms of adjacent pairs being connected by separate rings embracing them, spacing means being provided to hold said pairs at proper distances apart.

1,457,702. KEYHOLE GUARD. SIGURD JAHR HOFF, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 28, 1922. Serial No. 547,444. 2 Claims. (Cl. 70—8.)

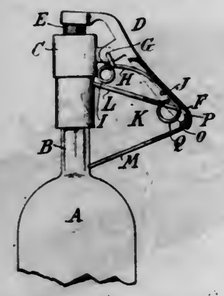


1. A lock of the class described comprising a pair of rigid parallel bars, slotted tubular members slidable on said bars, locking dogs pivoted at the ends of said tubular members, and adapted to be locked in extended position and means for locking the said dogs in locked position.

1,457,703. AUTOMOBILE SIGNAL. JAMES F. HUGHES, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed June 28, 1922. Serial No. 571,447. 3 Claims. (Cl. 40—15.)

1. An automobile signal comprising a tubular casing formed with a sight-opening, a tube within said casing, and having differential faces, a plug mounted in the top of the casing and interlocked with said tube, and means for locking the plug with said casing.

1,457,704. METAL CROSSTIE. CARL L. KENNEY, Dormont, and STANLEY M. CASTERLINE, Crafton, Pa.; said Kenney assignor to said Casterline. Filed July 28, 1922. Serial No. 578,149. 6 Claims. (Cl. 238—354.)

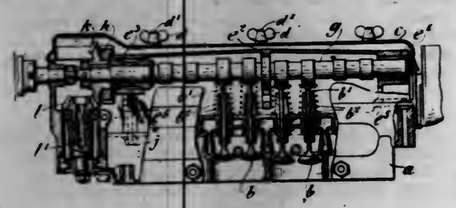


1. A rail tie comprising a cross tie member, means on said tie member for engaging one side of a rail, a strap for engagement with the other side of the rail hingedly secured to said tie and movable into and out of rail engaging position, a projecting member on said tie, said strap having an opening therein through which said projecting member extends when the strap is in rail engaging position, and a cross member slidably engaging the projecting member and adapted to extend over said strap when said strap is in rail engaging position, for locking the strap in such position.

1,457,705. BICYCLE BELL. JOSIAH R. KIDNEY, East Hampton, Conn., assignor to The N. N. Hill Brass Co., East Hampton, Conn., a Corporation. Filed Apr. 4, 1923. Serial No. 629,838. 1 Claim. (Cl. 116—158.)

A bicycle bell, comprising a frame, a vertically-arranged post mounted therein, a rotary hammer, a pinion adapted to rotate said hammer, and a lever formed with a rack meshing with said pinion and with an integral arm turned over one face of the lever and parallel therewith, said arm and lever formed with perforations adapting the lever to set over said post.

1,457,706. SAFETY DEVICE FOR BOTTLES. HENRY P. KRAFT, Ridgewood, N. J. Filed Apr. 20, 1921. Serial No. 463,009. 7 Claims. (Cl. 215—64.)



1. The combination with a bottle and a spring pressed stopper therefor, of a guard supplemental to the spring adapted to hold the stopper in its closed position.

1,457,707. CAM-SHAFT UNIT. AUGUST H. LEIPERT, New York, N. Y., assignor to International Motor Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 5, 1919. Serial No. 302,056. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—90.)

In combination with an engine head, two sets of valves and two actuating cam shafts therefor, respectively, a driving gear carried on one cam shaft, meshing gears carried on the cam shafts whereby rotation is imparted from the first named cam shaft to the other, a one-piece mounting carrying bearings for said shafts and open at its lower side to expose the cams to the valve stems, means to secure the mounting removably to the engine head whereby it may be removed from the head with the cam shafts and gears without disturbing the associated elements of the engine and leaving the valves in place in the engine, and a separate cover plate removable independently of the mounting and completely encasing said mounting and valve stems.

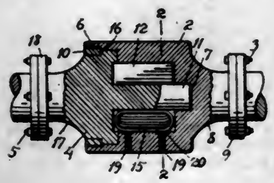
1,457,708. COMPOSITION OF MATTER. ROYER LUCKENBACH, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Luckenbach Processes, Inc., San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of Nevada. Filed Feb. 7, 1920. Serial No. 357,043. 9 Claims. (Cl. 252.)

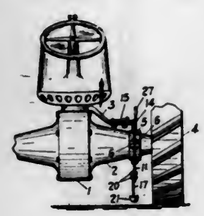
1. A composition of matter, comprising a pyrogeneous bitumin, the reaction product of a phenol and an alkali, and the reaction product of acetone and an alkali.

1,457,709. EXPLOSIVE. CHRISTEN JOHANNES STAUTSBÖLL LUNDSGAARD, Vejen, Denmark. Filed Sept. 1, 1920. Serial No. 407,308. 5 Claims. (Cl. 52—2.)

1. An explosive comprising a perchlorate of an organic cyclic ammonium compound.



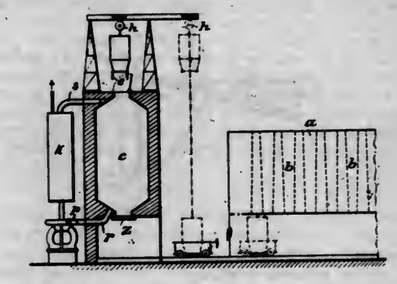
1,457,710. ARM LOCK FOR GOLF PLAYERS. JAMES MAXWELL MACDONALD, East Orange, N. J. Filed Mar. 10, 1922. Serial No. 542,593. 6 Claims. (Cl. 46—4.)



1. An arm lock for golf players, comprising in combination two parts or elements adapted for attachment to the biceps and forearm respectively, and hinged together, and locking means for holding the same in fixed relative position operating upon their change of relative position due to straightening of the arm to full length.

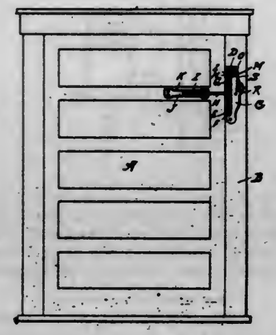
1,457,711. LINE-SHAFT SHOCK ABSORBER. BERENT A. MIKKELSON, Seattle, Wash. Filed May 12, 1921. Serial No. 468,906. 1 Claim. (Cl. 64—100.)

A line shaft shock absorber, comprising a hollow casing member having an open end and a closed end, the latter provided with a central recess, a complementary member closing the open end of the casing member and provided with a circumferential revoluble connection therewith including a coupling ring adapted to resist thrust in one direction and a shoulder bearing to resist thrust in the other direction, said complementary member having an outer shaft extension integral therewith and provided with a collar enlargement having bolt connection with the line shaft, said complementary member having also an inner shaft extension integral therewith and engaging said recess and a radial lug integral therewith and with said inner shaft extension and bracing the same, said inner shaft extension being of less diameter than said outer shaft extension, and a flattened spiral spring within the casing member and engaging said lugs, said casing member having a shaft extension integral therewith and having a collar enlargement having bolt connection with the line shaft.



1,457,712. SAFETY DEVICE FOR TRACTORS. ERNEST R. MILLER, Montgomery County, near Centerville, Ohio. Filed July 31, 1920. Serial No. 400,436. 2 Claims. (Cl. 180—82.)

1. In a device of the type described, the combination with the clutch pedal of a tractor, of a lever operatively secured at one end to said clutch pedal, fulcruming means for said lever, attachable to the tractor, whereby, when the latter starts to turn over backwards, the free end of said lever may engage the ground to pull down upon said clutch pedal to release the clutch, a lug on said fulcruming means, an arm pivotally secured to the free end of said lever, and teeth on the free end of said arm adapted to engage said lug, when the free end of said lever is elevated, to hold the clutch pedal in its clutch-releasing position.



1,457,713. COKE-QUENCHING PROCESS. ARNOLD MOETTELI, Ober-Winterthur, Switzerland. Filed July 19, 1920. Serial No. 397,400. 2 Claims. (Cl. 202—11.)

1. The process of cooling the hot residues from a plurality of distilling vessels with recovery of the heat contained within the residues, characterized in that the hot residues at obviously varying temperatures from a plurality of distilling vessels are cooled in a common receptacle or cooling vessel large enough to receive the whole contents of said distilling vessels, for the purpose of storing up the residues and equalizing the temperature thereof, whereby a constant and uniform supply of heat may be obtained and the cooled or cooling residues may be removed at will.

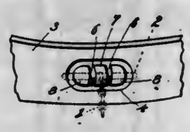
1,457,714. SPRING FOR DOORS. CHERUBINO MONTAGNA, Cecil, Pa. Filed May 17, 1921. Serial No. 470,396. 1 Claim. (Cl. 16—72.)

A new article of manufacture, in the nature of a door spring, comprising a plate which is provided with lugs or shoulders which are adapted to receive and hold the ends of a pin, a ratchet-wheel secured to the upper end of said pin, a pawl pivotally secured to the upper lug or shoulder and engaging with said ratchet-wheel for holding same after the tension has been put on, retaining lugs formed in or on said plate for holding a pin for turning said ratchet-wheel, a bolt on the back edge of the plate for holding the arm or lever out of engagement when not in use, together with an annular plate adapted to be secured to the door for receiving a disc or wheel in the end of the arm or lever, all substantially as shown and for the purposes described.



1,457,715. WATER-SUPPLY DEVICE FOR LOCOMOTIVE TENDERS. CHARLES E. RICE, Livermore, Ky. Filed July 5, 1922. Serial No. 573,028. 3 Claims. (Cl. 214—41.)

1. In a water supply device for the tenders of locomotives, a vertically reciprocatory receptacle having normally a lowered position below ground, and means operable by a car in its movement, adapted to raise said receptacle to a suitable height for said supply and including a winding drum, a cable attached to said receptacle and adapted to be wound upon said drum, a reciprocatory rack having an operating connection with said drum, and a device carried by said car and operable at will to engage said rack.

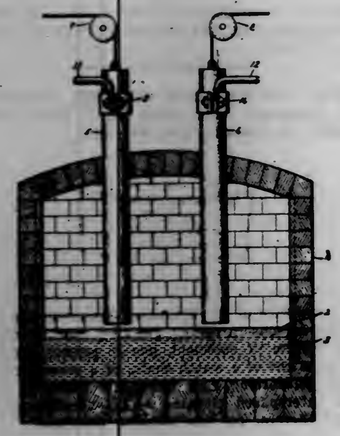
1,457,716. WATCH-CHAIN HOLDER. GEORGE STIEGLER, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Dec. 1, 1922. Serial No. 604,290. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—3.)

1. In a device of the character described, the combination with a trousers belt or the like, same having a hole formed therein of sufficient size to permit the insertion of the cross bar of a watch chain, of a grommet surrounding and reinforcing said hole, said grommet having a pair of interspaced elevated arms extending across the aperture therein, for the purpose described.



1,457,717. PRINTING PRESS. RALPH S. TYLER, Cleveland Heights, Ohio, assignor to The Chandler and Price Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 22, 1921. Serial No. 439,083. 2 Claims. (Cl. 101—338.)

1. In a platen printing press, the combination with the bed, ink-distributing disk and composition rolls adapted to pass over said bed and disk; of separate steel tracks located one on each side of said bed and adapted to engage the ends of said rolls, each such track having a plurality of transverse slots formed in its rear edge, such slots being counter-bored to present open recesses substantially coextensive therewith; bolts threaded in the bed and adapted to receive such slots for securing the tracks to the latter; and washers rotatably mounted on said bolts and having eccentric portions disposed to lie in such recesses and engage with the inner ends thereof, whereby said track may be adjusted transversely of said bolts by rotating said washers, said bolts being adapted to press said washers against said tracks and thus clamp the same to the bed in such adjusted position.

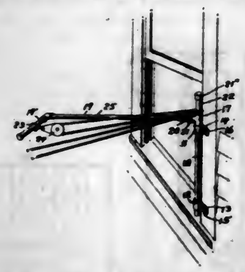
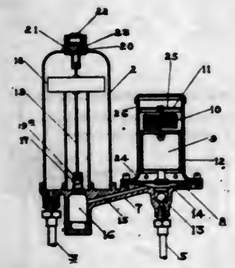
1,457,718. ELECTRIC FURNACE. IRVING R. VALENTINE, Erie, Pa., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed May 5, 1921. Serial No. 467,102. 6 Claims. (Cl. 204—64.)

1. An electric furnace comprising a receptacle adapted to contain molten charge, a refractory, heat conducting solid body therein located above a charge in said receptacle and in close thermal relation thereto and means for heating said body by one or more electric arcs.



1,457,719. WRENCH. JOHN WAHL, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to A. Schrader's Son, Incorporated, Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 5, 1921. Serial No. 490,101. 11 Claims. (Cl. 81—121.)

1. A wrench or the like comprising a handle and a screw-threaded socket member connected to said handle and adapted for a limited movement with relation thereto, the normal diameter of the socket member being adapted to be expanded and contracted by the movement of the handle.



1,457,720. CLOTHESLINE BRACKET. IVAN A. WASILEWSY, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed July 18, 1921. Serial No. 485,727. 1 Claim. (Cl. 68—3.)

In a clothes hanger of the character described, the combination of a tubular arm, spaced sleeves in which said arm is rotatably secured, perforated wings on said sleeves for allowing a securing of the device to a window or door frame by the passing of fastening means through the perforations in said wings, a T sleeve on said arm, a head on the upper end of said arm, a rotatable sleeve on said arm between said head and T sleeve for guiding the clothes line, an angular arm adjustably attached with one end to said T sleeve, means for locking said arm in any of its adjusted positions to the T-sleeve, and a pulley on said angular arm for guiding a clothes line.

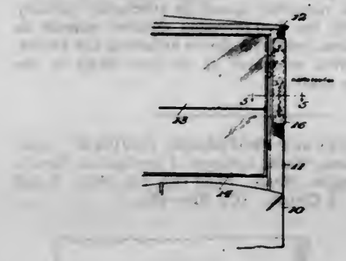
1,457,721. LIQUID-FEEDING SYSTEM. AUSTIN M. WOLF, Plainfield, N. J. Filed May 5, 1917, Serial No. 166,574. Renewed July 12, 1922. Serial No. 574,541. 19 Claims. (Cl. 158—36.)

1. In a device of the kind described, a source of fuel supply, and destination therefor, a prime mover of a vibratory character, and means mounted on said prime mover for pumping fuel from said supply to said destination by means of the vibration of said prime mover.



1,457,722. TILTING AND LOCKING DEVICE FOR STEERING WHEELS. ROBERT S. BUSBY, Jacksonville, Fla. Filed June 25, 1921. Serial No. 480,313. Renewed Apr. 20, 1923. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—33.)

1. In a steering device, the combination with a steering column including a shell, a steering shaft and a steering wheel, of an attachment therefor interposed between the wheel and shaft including a pair of hingedly connected normally abutting members, the members being connected respectively with the steering shaft and wheel, whereby the steering wheel is permitted to be swung to a tilted position in relation to the steering column, locking members formed on the shell at spaced points around the same, and a rigid locking member formed on the member carrying the wheel for engaging certain of the locking members carried by the steering shell when the steering wheel is swung to a tilted position irrespective of the position of the steering wheel in relation to the column, whereby steering movement of the wheel will be absolutely precluded when the steering wheel is moved to its tilted position.

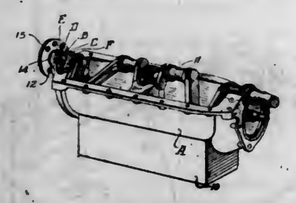
1,457,723. DIRECTION INDICATOR. BURNETT BUSH, Kennedy, N. Y., assignor of one-half to A. C. Keppler, South Bend, Ind. Filed Apr. 23, 1921. Serial No. 463,864. 13 Claims. (Cl. 116—54.)



1. A direction indicator for automobiles, comprising in combination a hollow arm having its one end pivoted to a wind shield standard of an automobile, and having its forward and rear side formed with a slot, each end of said slot terminating in an arrow head, a member slidable within said arm, means to cause said slidable member to move within the arm when said arm is swung upon its pivot, and means carried by said slidable member adapted to cooperate with the slots and arrow heads in said arm to give a plurality of signals during the swinging movement of the arm.

1,457,724. MACHINE FOR MAKING CIGAR BUNCHES. ADELARDO CARABALLO, Habana, Cuba. Filed Dec. 31, 1919. Serial No. 348,648. 3 Claims. (Cl. 131—42.)

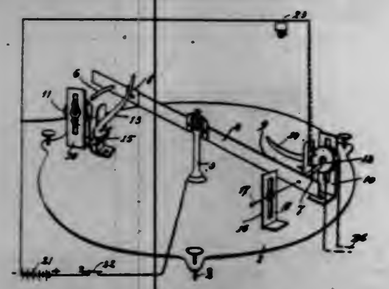
3. In a cigar bunching machine, a platform having a recess open at its upper side, a flexible band on said platform and arranged to pass over and to form a pouch in said recess, said band being secured at one end, a lever connected to the opposite end of the band to put the same under tension when said lever is operated, a roller over which said band passes, a longitudinally movable frame by which said roller is carried, means to move said frame in either direction, and means to cause said frame to operate said lever, said frame having limited movement in either direction independently of said lever.

1,457,725. REFACING TOOL. EDWARD O. COATS and ROY JNO. BARTHOLOMEW, Leeton, Mo.; said Coats assignor to John L. Stacy and Edwin F. Hausam, both of Sedalia, Mo. Filed Dec. 19, 1921. Serial No. 523,541. 9 Claims. (Cl. 82—4.)

1. A refacing tool for the thrust collars of crank shafts comprising a body arranged to engage and constitute a part bearing for the crank shaft, and a cutting tool carried by the body adjustable longitudinally of the crank shaft for engaging the thrust collar.

1,457,726. BARBER'S COMB. ARTHUR CORNELLIER, Dracut, Mass. Filed Apr. 28, 1922. Serial No. 557,210. 2 Claims. (Cl. 132—45.)

1. The combination in a comb having a straight back and substantially parallel teeth running at substantially right angles therefrom, of a series of cutter guides each projecting from a tooth and having a guiding surface between its base and its tip, said guiding surfaces each having an overhanging top and facing towards and running in a straight line substantially parallel with but at a distance from the bases of the teeth.



1,457,727. CLOTHES STICK. WILLIAM WESLEY CROCKER, Junction City, Kans. Filed Oct. 16, 1920. Serial No. 417,295. 1 Claim. (Cl. 68—6.)

A clothes stick including a head formed with a socket member, integral elongated lateral projections formed at the free end of the head, said projections being disposed adjacent to each other and having approximately flat side faces, the projections being disposed at right angles to each other and in staggered relation and tapered to the ends thereof.

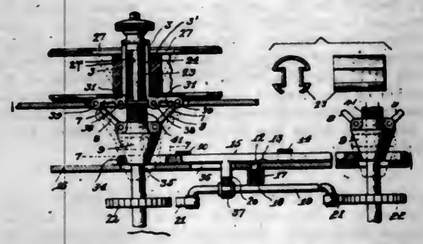
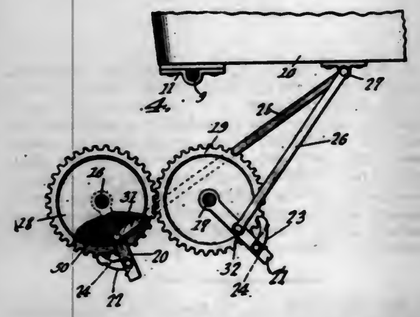
1,457,728. AUTOMATIC APPARATUS FOR SIGNALING RAILROAD TRAINS IN MOTION. GIUSEPPE DALLA BONA, Como, Italy. Filed Aug. 11, 1921. Serial No. 491,503. 2 Claims. (Cl. 246—249.)

1. Automatic apparatus for signaling running railroad trains consisting of a metal bar rotatably mounted on a pivot and placed in such proximity of the rails as to be subjected to the magnetic attraction from the wheels of the cars, said bar being provided with two contacts and two projections, pawls connected to a local circuit comprising a battery and a bell, said pawls being so placed as to be engaged by the bar when same oscillates due to the passage of a train, a coil in the electric circuit, said coil having an axial recess into which is drawn one of the projections on the bar as soon as the local circuit is closed by the pawls, and a horizontal spindle to damp the oscillations of the bar as soon as the circuit is interrupted.



1,457,729. CUE TIP. JOHN LUKAS DORSCHEL, Kitchener, Ontario, Canada. Filed Jan. 25, 1922. Serial No. 531,695. 6 Claims. (Cl. 46—9.)

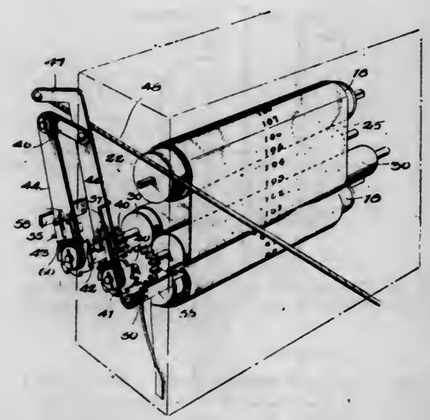


6. In a cue, the combination of a head, spring fastening clips carried thereby and having longitudinal openings, a tip arranged at the forward portion of the head, and fastening pins carried by said tip and securely and detachably received in the longitudinal openings in said spring clips.

1,457,730. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. PHILIPPE DE CLAMECY, Charlestown, Mass., assignor to Corona Typewriter Company, Inc., Groton, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 3, 1918. Serial No. 256,671. 16 Claims. (Cl. 197—100.)

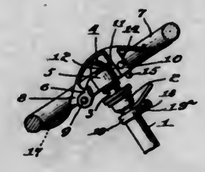
6. Ribbon feeding mechanism for writing machines, comprising a pair of spool shafts, spools rotatable with the shafts, driven members rotatable with the shafts, driving means, a feed-reversing member shiftable endwise in opposite directions transversely of the shafts for connecting the driven members alternately with the driving means, a pair of ribbon-controlled cam devices reciprocable longitudinally on the shafts upon exhaustion of a ribbon from the respective spools to alternately slidably engage and shift the feed-reversing member endwise in opposite directions, each cam device actuating the reversing member during movement of the cam device in one direction on the shaft.

1,457,731. OCCUPANT-PROPELLED VEHICLE. NOËL DUPUIS, Tacoma, Wash., assignor of one-half to Charles M. King, Tacoma, Wash. Filed Oct. 31, 1921. Serial No. 511,919. 2 Claims. (Cl. 208—36.)



1. In a device of the class described, a frame; an axle journaled in the frame; a ground wheel on the axle; a ratchet wheel on the axle; a gear wheel on the axle; a pinion on the frame and meshing with the gear wheel; arms mounted to swing on the axle and on the frame; pawls on the arms and cooperating directly with the ratchet wheel and with the pinion; pitmans pivoted to the arms; a seat mounted to tilt on the frame; and means for connecting the pitmans pivotally with the seat.

1,457,732. STREET INDICATOR. WILLARD MORTIMER FLEWELLING, Healdsburg, Calif. Filed June 19, 1922. Serial No. 569,465. 4 Claims. (Cl. 40—90.)



1. A street indicator comprising a casing, upper and lower main rollers arranged therein, an apron trained about said rollers, a pair of actuating rollers arranged between said upper and lower rollers and having axles connected to said casing, said casing being provided with sight openings on opposite sides of said actuating rollers and in the plane of the same, said apron being trained about said actuating rollers and extending between the same for operation thereby, a U-shaped tensioning member having hooked terminal portions engaged with said axles for urging the actuating rollers firmly into contact with the apron, gears mounted on said axles for causing the actuating rollers to move together, arms rotatable on said axles and carrying pivoted pawls, ratchet wheels secured on said axles and separately engaged by said pawls, a link connecting the arms for movement together, and stop elements arranged in the path of said arms.

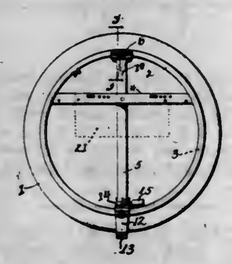
1,457,733. TURNING STEERING WHEEL AND LOCK. CLAYTON E. FREDERICKSON, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 10, 1921, Serial No. 443,901. Renewed Mar. 19, 1923. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—33.)

1. The combination with the steering post and the steering spindle; an attachment secured on the spindle, a steering wheel hinged to said attachment, a releasable means to secure said wheel and attachment together to permit hinged movement, an ear on the steering post, said wheel having a slotted arm designed to hold said wheel from movement, means to lock said wheel and ear together, said attachment comprising a body having a projection and having an arm provided with one element of a hinged joint, said wheel including a spider having another element of the hinged joint and having a bifurcated member to fit over said projection when the wheel is in the normal position, and a releasable connection between said bifurcated member and said projection to hold the wheel in the normal position.



1,457,734. GRAIN GRADER AND CLEANER. ALBERT E. FROMMEL, Groton, S. Dak. Filed Aug. 19, 1921. Serial No. 493,516. 4 Claims. (Cl. 130—17.)

1. In combination, a grain cleaner and grader including a main frame supporting an air blast and a scalping sieve, a curtain forming hopper receiving the grain from said sieve, an auxiliary frame slidably mounted on the main frame to permit adjustment thereof relative to the curtain forming hopper, and a combined dividing wing and grain collector carried by the auxiliary frame and adapted to catch the graded and cleaned grain after passing the air blast.

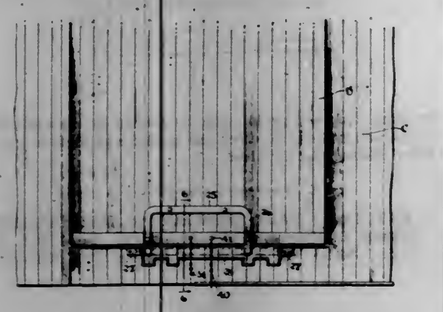
1,457,735. VALVE-PROTECTING TIRE CARRIER. JOSEPH B. HEISER, Williamsport, Pa. Filed Dec. 16, 1921. Serial No. 522,798. 4 Claims. (Cl. 224—29.)

2. In a valve protecting carrier for a pneumatic tire provided with an inflating valve and a rim; the combination of an arc shaped member adapted to fit inside said rim; a hollow diametrically disposed post adapted to receive and protect said valve associated with said arc shaped member; means to secure said post to said arc shaped member; and means to securely hold said tire and rim to said post and arc shaped member, substantially as described.



1,457,736. LOCK NUT. OSCAR C. JOHNSON, Pittsburgh, Pa. Substitute for application Serial No. 120,473, filed Sept. 16, 1916. This application filed Sept. 18, 1922. Serial No. 589,011. 1 Claim. (Cl. 151—5.)

In a nut lock, a bolt provided through its threaded portion with a longitudinally extending groove shaped to provide a substantially radially disposed shoulder and an inclined surface extending from the base of said shoulder, a nut threaded on the bolt and provided with a radial bore, and a locking pin inserted through said bore and fitting tightly therein so as to be frictionally secured in the nut, the inner end of said pin being inclined and directed similarly to the inclined surface of said groove whereby the pin when in its innermost position will engage said radial shoulder so as to positively lock the nut against reverse rotation, the pin being moved into inoperative position by turning the nut in such direction as to thread it upon the bolt and frictionally maintained in this position to permit subsequent reverse rotation of said nut.

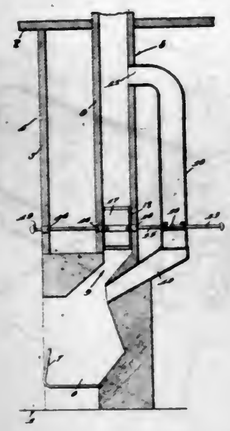
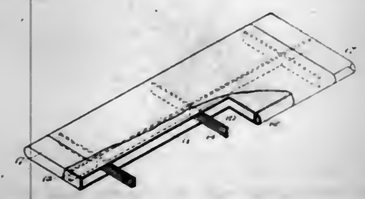
1,457,737. CAR-DOOR FASTENER. WALTER KANE, Sarnia, Ontario, Canada. Filed July 25, 1922. Serial No. 577,484. 4 Claims. (Cl. 293—213.)



2. In a lock for car doors, a locking frame adapted to be secured upon the car door and having locking arms projecting beyond the same, spaced angle brackets secured to the car, a locking bar pivotally mounted upon the angle brackets and having a plurality of offsets therein defining keepers cooperable with the locking arms of the frame.

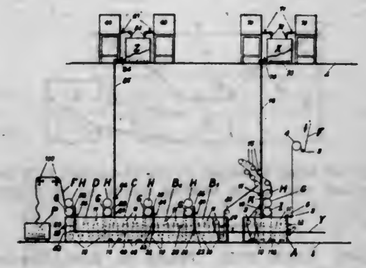
1,457,738. TASSEL. GEORGE H. KELLEY, Lowell, Mass. Filed Feb. 13, 1922. Serial No. 536,356. 1 Claim. (Cl. 156—40.)



A tassel having a plume comprising a mass of fibers, a retaining ring engaging said fibers adjacent to one end and securing them together, and a hollow one-piece head enclosing said end and said ring and having an opening through which said fibers extend, said opening being smaller than said ring to prevent the withdrawal of said ring therethrough, said head having an aperture through its top portion for the passage of a cord.

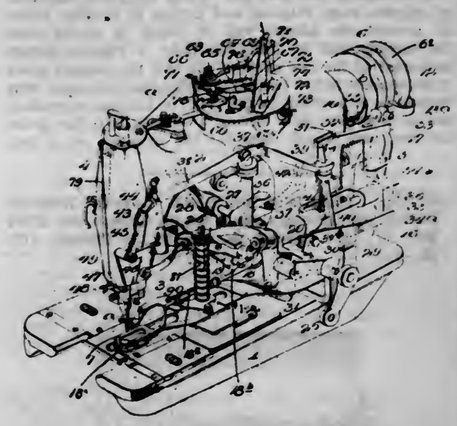
1,457,739. CHIMNEY. CAMERON A. KIDD, Ansted, W. Va. Filed Mar. 20, 1923. Serial No. 626,407. 3 Claims. (Cl. 126—125.)

1. In a device of the class described, separate rooms, a heater so located as to heat one room, a chimney through which the products of combustion pass from the heater, a flue located in the other room and communicating at its ends with the heater and with the chimney, dampers controlling the flue and the chimney, and means for moving one damper to a closed position when the other damper moves to an open position.



1,457,740. FABRIC BOARD. SEMON S. LEWIS, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 11, 1921. Serial No. 506,964. 2 Claims. (Cl. 206—50.)

2. A fabric board consisting of an elongated shallow tray of cardboard like material, a second similar tray fitted within the sides and substantially of the same depth as the first tray, the bottoms of said trays being oppositely disposed to form the main side portions of the board, and interlocking spaced strips within the board between the bottoms of the inner and outer trays to hold said bottoms against collapse, said strips extending from side to side and end to end of the trays in parallel relation to the end and side walls thereof respectively, the ends extending from side to side engaging the side walls of the inner tray and supporting the same against collapse under pressure from cloth wound on the board.



1,457,741. PROCESS AND MACHINE FOR CONTINUOUS DYEING. HARRY METCALFE, Somersworth, N. H. Filed Jan. 3, 1922. Serial No. 526,731. 10 Claims. (Cl. 8—5.)

1. The process of uniformly dyeing a strip of cotton cloth which consists of passing it from one end continuously through one main body of dye, then sprinkling on the back thereof dye from another body of dye, then squeezing the cloth so that the dye will be driven through the cloth uniformly, then treating it with fixing material and washing it.

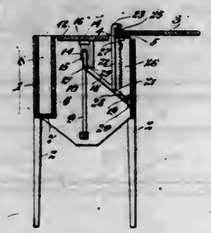
1,457,742. BUTTONHOLE MACHINE. HENRY C. MILLER, Waterford, N. Y. Filed Sept. 15, 1917. Serial No. 191,573. 33 Claims. (Cl. 112—73.)

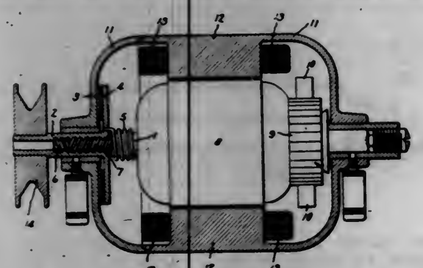


1. A sewing machine having, in combination, stitch-forming mechanism including a reciprocating needle, a work-clamp, means for relatively moving the stitch-forming mechanism and work-clamp to sew a group of stitches, a stop-motion device for arresting the action of the stitch-forming mechanism with the needle out of the work after the stitches have been formed work-clamp opening means, a locking element for preventing the opening of the work-clamp during the stitching, and means connected with said stop-motion device for shifting said locking element to ineffective position after the machine has come to rest.

1,457,743. VALVE FOR TANKS, ETC. THOMAS C. MORRIS, Harrisville, W. Va. Filed Mar. 18, 1920. Serial No. 367,020. 2 Claims. (Cl. 137—21.)

1. A valve comprising an elongated casing having two tubular sections, one end of one section being secured within the adjacent end of the other section, the secondnamed section having means on the exterior adjacent to said end for securing it in the wall of a tank with the firstnamed section within said tank, the secondnamed section having an outlet, the firstnamed section having a valve seat at its opposite end, a valve rod extending through the casing and out through the secondnamed section thereof, and a valve member carried by said rod beyond the end of the casing having the valve seat, to bear against said seat.

1,457,744. CONTAINING CABINET. EMIL C. NEWMAN, Cincinnati, Ohio, and EDWARD A. NEWMAN, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 25, 1922. Serial No. 577,468. 3 Claims. (Cl. 45—27.)



1. A telephone cabinet including a tubular enclosure having vertically arranged front, rear and side walls, a partition extending across the interior of said enclosure and spaced from one of said side walls, a bottom connected to said partition and to the last mentioned side wall and cooperating with said partition to form a pocket within the enclosure adapted to receive a telephone directory, a vertically disposed track arranged within the enclosure and connected to the rear wall, a shoe slidably mounted on said track, a platform carried by said shoe and adapted to support a desk telephone, a link pivotally connected to said shoe, a lever having one of its ends pivotally connected to said link and its other end pivotally connected to the other side wall, a second link having its lower end pivotally connected to the intermediate portion of said lever, a stationary top covering a portion of the upper end of said enclosure and connected to the last mentioned side wall, a spring having one of its ends connected to said lever and its other end connected to said stationary top, a movable top hinged to the stationary top and adapted to cover the upper end of said pocket and the upper end of the portion of said enclosure in which said platform moves, said second link having its upper end pivotally connected to the movable top, and a slot arranged in the rear wall and adapted to permit telephone wires to be connected to a telephone carried by the platform and to move with said telephone.

1,457,745. FRICTION-GOVERNING DEVICE. MARVIN L. NORRIS, Fort Wayne, Ind., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 18, 1918. Serial No. 229,319. 7 Claims. (Cl. 192—81.)

1. In combination, a variable speed electric motor, a shaft driven thereby, a torque transmitting member in operative relation to said shaft, a friction brake comprising friction members in operative relation to said torque transmitting member, resilient means connecting said shaft and said torque transmitting member, and means responsive to the torque on the torque transmitting member for varying the pressure between said friction members and thereby maintain the speed of said shaft substantially constant.

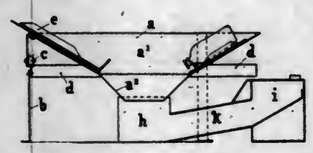
1,457,746. RAIL JOINT. ARTHUR POWELL and C B NEAL, McAlester, Okla. Filed Apr. 13, 1922. Serial No. 552,123. 3 Claims. (Cl. 238—205.)

1. A rail joint comprising a chair adapted to slidably receive rails in an endwise direction, inclined seats at intersecting angles on said chair, and wedging means movable along said seats and constituting a support for the rails so that during their movement away from each other said wedging means will wedge against said rails and chair to firmly lock the rails against separation.



1,457,747. PIN GUARD FOR TRAILER HITCHES. GEORGE H. PRESCOTT, Oakland, Calif. Filed Nov. 30, 1921. Serial No. 518,830. 3 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.2.)

1. In combination with a trailer hitch, pins on said hitch a pin guard formed with a flat body and mounted on said hitch to prevent the coupling pins thereof from coming out of place.

1,457,748. BOTTLE-STOPPER-VARNISHING DEVICE. PAUL WILHELM RAMMER, Hamburg, Germany. Filed June 17, 1920. Serial No. 389,787. 3 Claims. (Cl. 91—60.)

1. Apparatus for lacquering bottle closures, comprising a supporting member, an immersion vessel in the center of the supporting member and open in the upper side, a dripping frame mounted for rotation on the supporting member and having a centrally arranged funnel, said funnel being arranged to discharge into said immersion vessel, and bottle holding means on said dripping frame.

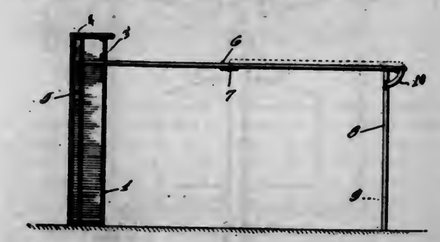
1,457,749. LOCK NUT. JULIUS H. RAST, Charleston, S. C. Filed Nov. 17, 1921. Serial No. 515,833. 4 Claims. (Cl. 151—21.)

1. A unitary two part nut having the parts separable by relative axial rotation and having in internal annular groove, the lateral wall of which is spaced from the threads and is frangible under a relative rotary movement of the two parts of the nut, the relative pitch of the threads in the two parts remaining unchanged with respect to each other in the relative turning movement, one of said two parts having a substantially flat outer end face and lateral faces for the reception of a tool.



1,457,750. WASHING MACHINE. FRANK KNOERLE RENNER and ERNEST CONRAD PFAFF, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 21, 1921. Serial No. 454,118. 2 Claims. (Cl. 68—21.)

1. In a washing machine of the character described, a casing having parallel end walls, an article holding receptacle disposed in said casing and having its end walls substantially parallel to the end walls of said casing, a bearing sleeve on one end wall of said receptacle, the bore of said bearing sleeve being substantially aligned with an opening provided through said end wall of said receptacle, a tubular journal carried by the wall of said casing adjacent the bearing sleeve and disposed partially within the latter, a conduit extending through the bore of said journal substantially flush with the inner wall of said receptacle for introducing a liquid into the receptacle, and bearing means carried by the opposite end wall of said receptacle and the adjacent wall of said casing for rotatably supporting that end of said receptacle in said casing.

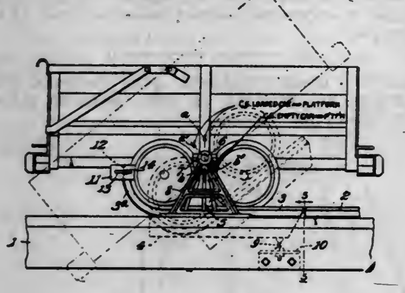
In combination with a receiving compartment having the top and the upper portion of the front wall thereof open, a sectional door hingedly connected to said compartment and adapted to close the open top thereof and the opening formed at the upper portion of the front wall, a table comprising a sectional top, one section of said table top having one end thereof slidably and pivotally connected to the side walls of said compartment, a second table section hinged to the free edge of the first table section and adapted to fold thereupon, the ends of the two sections lying above the hinge and in abutting relation when the table is in position for use, the first table section having its inner end portion resting on the top of the front wall of the casing when in use, legs hingedly connected to the free edge of the second table section, said legs adapted to extend in a vertical direction below the second section of the table when the latter is in use and adapted to be folded upon said second section when not in use, said table sections and legs being of the same length and adapted to be folded within said compartment, and said sectional door adapted to close the upper end of said compartment, when said table is in use, or when the latter is folded within the compartment.

1,457,752. UNDERGARMENT. WILLIAM B. ROOD, Ware, Mass., assignor to Otis Company, Ware, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed May 11, 1921. Serial No. 468,515. 2 Claims. (Cl. 2—144.)

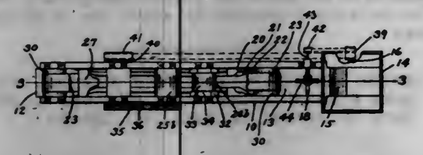


1. In combination, a body portion of a union undergarment, a seat flap having a free upper edge, a transverse strap the ends of which are secured to the body of the garment and on which the upper edge of the seat flap is slidable, said strap being located with the end which is at the side of the garment slightly lower than the end which is adjacent the median line of the garment.

1,457,753. BOILER-FLUE-SETTING DEVICE. FREDRICK SCHMITT, Oakland, Calif. Filed Oct. 21, 1920. Serial No. 418,846. 5 Claims. (Cl. 285—5.)

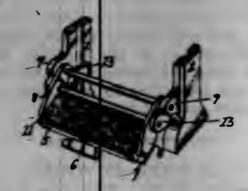
5. In combination, a flue sheet having threaded openings therein, flues, and fastening means for connecting the flues in the openings comprising a bushing exteriorly threaded and having a shoulder at one end and a flue seat at its opposite end, said bushing being provided with an interior contracted bearing surface, and a securing and clamping member formed intermediate its length with a bevelled bearing surface corresponding to the contracted surface of the bushing, said securing member being exteriorly threaded at one end to extend into the flue and headed at its other end to coact with the bushing when screwed home.

1,457,754. CAR-DUMPING PLATFORM. CLEMENT C. SMITH, Wheeling, W. Va. Filed June 8, 1921. Serial No. 475,888. 4 Claims. (Cl. 214—55.)



1. The combination with a tipple structure, of a car-dumping mechanism comprising a dumping platform, a pair of supporting members mounted on said structure at opposite sides of said platform, hangers journaled on and depending from said members, said platform being carried by said hangers, rail sections carried by said platform, and wheel chocks located adjacent to the front ends of said sections and means for adjusting the positions of said chocks.

1,457,755. CIDER MILL. LUTHER EDWIN SMITH, Shelburne Falls, Mass., assignor of one-third to Clifton E. Davenport and one-third to John C. Hoffman, both of New Britain, Conn. Filed Jan. 11, 1922. Serial No. 528,380. 1 Claim. (Cl. 100—37.)



In a cider mill having an elongated trough and endless belt structures and a set of rolls associated with said trough, said belt structures comprising the combination of a wide lower belt and an upper belt that covers the middle and major portion of said lower belt in the active cooperating position, means on the receiving side of said rolls for turning the edges of said lower belt over the edges of said upper belt and means on the delivery side of said rolls for opening out said turned edges.

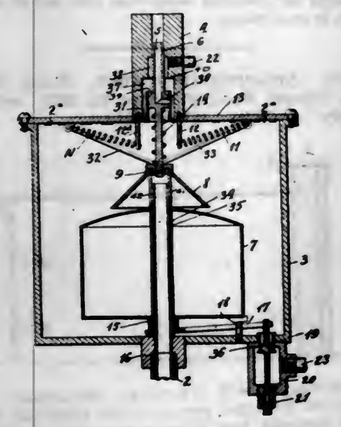
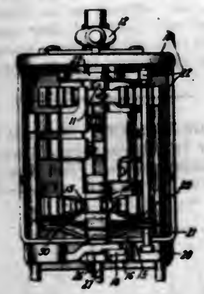
1,457,756. INK-PAD MECHANISM FOR NUMBERING MACHINES. CHARLES SPIELMAN, Richmond Hill, N. Y., assignor to Wm. A. Force & Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 16, 1922. Serial No. 588,627. 2 Claims. (Cl. 101—83.)



1. Ink pad mechanism for hand stamps comprising an ink pad holder, resilient means secured to the ink pad holder, side bars on which the ink pad holder is pivotally mounted, the ends of the bars adjacent the pivots being shaped to engage the resilient means in either of two positions.

1,457,757. COMB CLEANER. JOHN STETTNER, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed May 18, 1922. Serial No. 561,969. 6 Claims. (Cl. 132—29.)

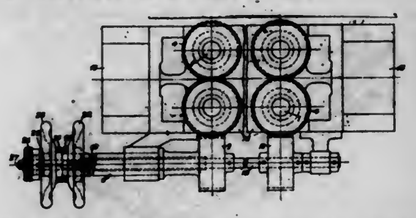


1. As a new article of manufacture a comb cleaner comprising a bow-shaped holder, yokes carried by each end of said holder and a series of spaced blades the ends of which are secured in said yokes.

1,457,758. LIQUID-FEED SYSTEM. CHARLES LAWRENCE STOKES, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed July 25, 1917, Serial No. 182,640. Renewed Oct. 10, 1922. Serial No. 593,659. 8 Claims. (Cl. 158—36.)

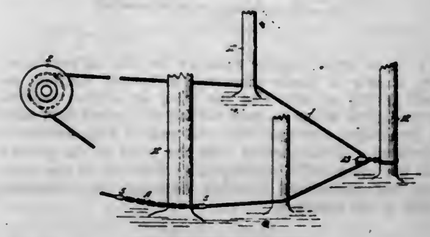
1. In a device of the class described, a reservoir having a cover, a pipe to feed liquid thereto, a float, means to alternately open and close said reservoir to suction and atmosphere actuated by the float; and spring means to control the movement of the float, said means embodying two levers engaging opposite sides of the head of the float and springs, each fixed at one end to its corresponding lever and at the other end to anchorage fixed to said cover.

1,457,759. CONTROLLING MECHANISM FOR ELECTRIC VEHICLES AND THE LIKE. PAUL E. TWISS, Swampscott, Mass., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 4, 1921. Serial No. 458,321. 8 Claims. (Cl. 192—2.)



1. The combination with a motor controller of a switch movable with respect thereto for controlling the motor, a brake rod for mechanically operating the switch from and to an operative position, and means whereby the brake rod is rendered inoperative in returning the switch to the operative position unless the controller is in a predetermined position.

1,457,760. BISCUIT OR LIKE EMBOSSING AND CUTTING MACHINE. THOMAS VICARS and EDWARD LYNTON VICARS, Earlestown, England. Filed Jan. 5, 1921. Serial No. 435,264. 3 Claims. (Cl. 107—26.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)



1. In a biscuit or like cutting or embossing machine table adjusting means having screw means at different parts of it adapted to be actuated together or separately at the different ends, at will, in combination with means for adjusting the table circularly about its longitudinal axis; substantially as set forth.

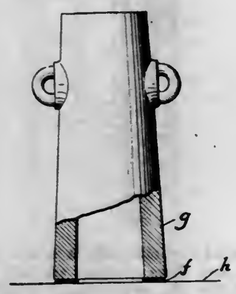
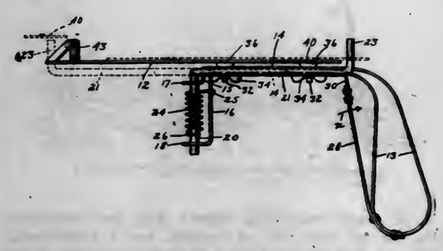
3. A biscuit cutting and embossing machine, including a cutting table composed of a base portion and an upper portion for receiving the biscuits to be cut, means for adjusting the base portion about its longitudinal axis, and means carried by the base portion for adjusting the upper portion, including a pair of intermeshing gears rotatably mounted in the base at each end thereof, having rods extending axially therethrough to engage the upper portion, said rods being in screw-threaded engagement with said gears and being held against rotation, and means adapted for operating each pair of gears independent of the other pair for adjusting the upper portion on its transverse axis or interengaged and operated together for raising or lowering the upper portion.

1,457,761. TIMBER-FELLING APPARATUS. JOHN D. WILSON, Jacksonville, Fla., assignor of one-half to F. H. Garner, Union, S. C. Filed Sept. 19, 1922. Serial No. 589,051. 5 Claims. (Cl. 144—36.)



1. Timber felling apparatus comprising, in combination with the reversible cable-winding drums of a power mechanism, a cable having its ends wound on said drums, and a saw carried by said cable, said saw being formed of a plurality of members arranged to allow relative angular adjustment, each member being of cylindrical form and having radially disposed teeth.

1,457,762. FISHHOOK. HENRY CARL AUGUST WIPP, Port Elgin, Ontario, Canada. Filed Apr. 7, 1921. Serial No. 459,454. 1 Claim. (Cl. 43—27.)

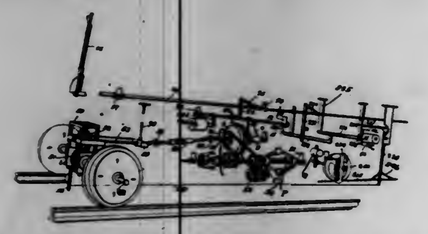


The improved fish hook herein described, comprising a body portion having a barb at one end, an annular protector on the other end of said body, means wound upon said body upon opposite sides of said protector, to hold the latter in place, and a gut line affixed to the said body beyond said protector by said means, said protector serving to prevent the bait from sliding up on the line.

1,457,763. METHOD OF CASTING INGOTS AND SEAL FOR INGOT MOLDS. JAMES R. ADAMS, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Aug. 14, 1922. Serial No. 581,583. 6 Claims. (Cl. 22—159.)

1. The method of casting ingots comprising the steps of placing on a casting base a compressible packing of non-combustible material with non-communicating openings therein, then placing the mold on the packing and first displacing the walls between adjacent openings relative to each other in accordance with the conformation of the surfaces of the mold and base and compressing the packing between the mold and the casting base to seal the space between the mold and base, and then pouring hot metal into the mold.

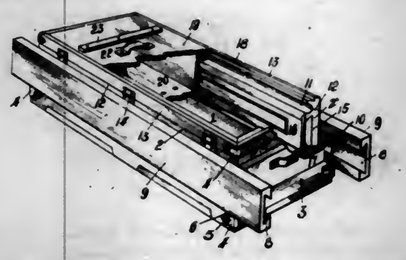
1,457,764. BOOMERANG THROWER. CARL A. ANDERSON, Boston, Mass. Filed July 3, 1922. Serial No. 572,563. 8 Claims. (Cl. 124—1.)



1. A boomerang thrower comprising a tablet; a holder including a base portion attached to the tablet, bearings at one end of the base portion, and a handle at the opposite end of said portion; a rod journaled to turn in said bearings and provided with an arm having an upstanding finger at its outer end; a spring engaged with said holder and rod, adapted to turn the latter in said bearings, a trigger carried by the holder and adapted to engage said arm and releasably confine the latter with its finger in a starting position at one end of the tablet, the finger being movable by the spring to a stopping position at the opposite end of the tablet, and adapted to enter an opening in a boomerang supported by the tablet, so that the finger, in moving from its starting to its stopping position, imparts a whirling edgewise movement to the boomerang, means being provided for permitting the projection of the boomerang from the thrower when the pin approaches its delivering position.

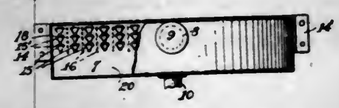
1,457,765. FOUNTAIN PEN. LOUIS BADOIS, Paris, France. Filed July 16, 1921. Serial No. 485,211. 5 Claims. (Cl. 120—42.

1. An improved fountain pen in which the ink from the reservoir only flows through capillary passages in order to reach the nib, comprising a hollow spindle the displacement of which regulates by capillarity and stops the flow of ink, said spindle coacting with a feed regulator characterized by the fact that all its passages are capillary, allowing alternately the outflow of ink and the entrance of air under the desired conditions for a good feed regulation, said feed regulating device being itself provided with means for ensuring the starting of the ink in the nib by the removal of the cap.



1,457,766. POWER BRAKE FOR RAILWAY CARS. ALFREDO EUTERPINO BORGES, Fortaleza, Ceara, Brazil. Filed May 23, 1922. Serial No. 563,179. 7 Claims. (Cl. 188—181.)

4. In power brakes for railway cars, the combination with the car body, the car wheels, and a brake-mechanism, of means for operating said brake-mechanism, a current generator operated by one of the car wheel axles, an electric circuit, an electromagnet included in said circuit, controlling the said brake-mechanism operating means, stationary contacts in said circuit, a movable contact adapted to co-operate with the said stationary contacts to open and close the said electric circuit, a rotatable axle adapted to be rotated by one of the car wheels, a centrifugal governor mounted on said rotatable axle and a connecting means between the said governor and the said movable contact, the arrangement being such that on the speed of the car wheels exceeding a predetermined rate the said movable contact automatically closes the said electric circuit, thereby causing the operation of the said brake-mechanism.



5. The combination as set forth in claim 4, including also a means comprising a compressible spring and an adjustable stop therefor for predetermining the maximum rate of speed of the car wheels.

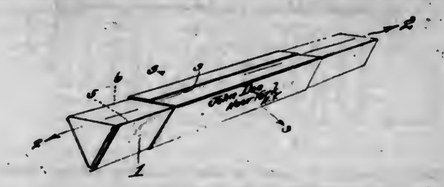
1,457,767. MOLD FOR PLASTIC FLOWER BOXES OR THE LIKE. WILLIAM A. CAREY, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Nov. 12, 1921. Serial No. 514,470. 4 Claims. (Cl. 25—121.)

1. A mold of the class described having separable side and end members, a side bar disposed at the outer side of each side member longitudinally thereof, the end members and side bars having releasable dove tail connection which permit movements of the end members longitudinally of the side bars and cause the side bars and end members to cooperate to firmly hold the side members against outward movements.

1,457,768. LIQUID-COOLING RADIATOR FOR MOTOR VEHICLES. EDWARD T. CURRAN, Detroit, Mich. Filed Apr. 2, 1920. Serial No. 370,813. 10 Claims. (Cl. 257—29.)

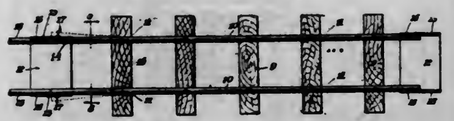
1. In a liquid cooling radiator for the purpose specified, a pair of tanks supported in spaced relation, one tank having an inlet and the other an outlet; conduits of triangular shape in cross section to connect said tanks in circulation arranged with one wall of each conduit to extend in a plane parallel with the front of the radiator and the other walls converging to the rear of the radiator; and corrugated members adjacent the converging walls of the conduits.

1,457,769. PROCESS OF PRODUCING POLO FELT. DAVID L. DAVIS, South Norwalk, Conn., assignor to Davis-Pope Company Incorporated, South Norwalk, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Jan. 14, 1921. Serial No. 437,162. 4 Claims. (Cl. 28—5.)



1. The method of producing polo felt consisting in subjecting the felt to the action of an abrasive agent, thereafter raising the nap and finally subjecting the raised nap to the action of an element to twist the same.

1,457,770. MAILING TUBE. RYLAND T. DODGE, Chester, Va. Filed Sept. 3, 1921. Serial No. 498,246. 1 Claim. (Cl. 229—92.)



In a mailing tube, a folder of elongated form constructed of relatively thick fibre material, said folder being scored longitudinally, thereby causing three elongated sections, which, when the folder is closed, cause to be formed a tube triangular in shape, a wrapper secured to the outer face of one of the sections of the folder, said wrapper being extended beyond the folder section remote from the section to which the wrapper is secured, said wrapper adapted to engage around the folder when folded, the extended part of the wrapper having a flap to pass about the exterior of and engage three of the folds of the wrapper, means for securing one edge of the flap to the wrapper, thereby holding the folder in a folded condition, triangular in cross section, said wrapper being extended beyond the opposite ends of the folder and provided with scored lines arranged in triangular formation, whereby when the folder is folded, and the wrapper extended about the same, the ends of the wrapper may be folded over and partially inserted in the mailing tube to conform to the triangle shape thereof.

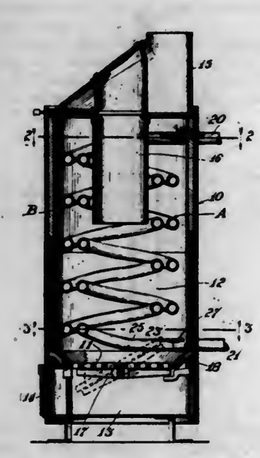
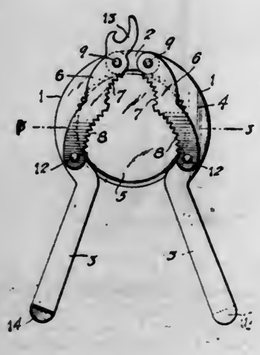
1,457,771. TOY RAILWAY. ALAN R. FERGUSSON, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed July 22, 1922. Serial No. 576,656. 35 Claims. (Cl. 238—10.)

1. A toy railway comprising supporting means, rails mounted thereon and means for joining the ends of certain rails by placing a rail under tension.



1,457,772. FORMING AND TEMPERING DISK WHEELS. GEORGE H. FORSYTHE, Harvey, Ill. Filed Jan. 12, 1920. Serial No. 350,884. 11 Claims. (Cl. 266—6.)

1. The method of shaping sheet metal bodies which consists in forming the sheet in a die and concurrently with the final stage of forming applying a tempering fluid thereto.



1,457,773. WATER HEATER. JOSEPH FRUMVELLER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Vapor Car Heating Company, Inc., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 1, 1920. Serial No. 393,301. 1 Claim. (Cl. 122—249.)

A water heater comprising a fire box to contain a solid fuel, a grate at the bottom of the fire box arranged to tilt upwardly into the fire box at the back of the heater and a pair of water coils in the fire box in the form of right and left helixes with their axes off set laterally with respect to each other and their turns in alternate arrangement one above the other, said coils having lower terminals extending through the wall of the heater at the back thereof and lower turns arranged close to the grate so that the back of the grate in tilting may pass between them.

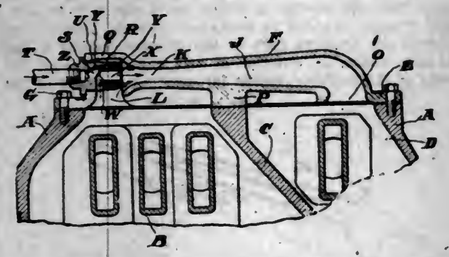
1,457,774. CAN-OPENING WRENCH. THOMAS HARDING and BERNARD BIEHL, Sr., Newark, N. J., assignors to J. L. Sommer Manufacturing Co., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Apr. 5, 1922. Serial No. 549,790. 7 Claims. (Cl. 81—3.1.)

1. In a wrench, the combination of gripping jaws pivotally connected at two of their adjacent ends and having handles at their other ends, said jaws comprising cooperating main portions oppositely bowed apart and chordal portions on said main portions offset from the plane thereof, all said portions having their oppositely adjacent edges adapted to grippingly engage an article.

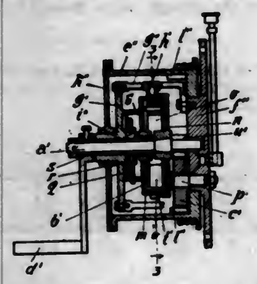
1,457,775. SEPARATING MECHANISM FOR SHEET MATERIAL. CARL HENDERSON, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Miehle Printing Press & Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 1, 1922. Serial No. 533,183. 10 Claims. (Cl. 294—64.)

1. In separating mechanism for sheet material, the combination of means for causing sheet material to be withdrawn from a pile, and means for separating a second sheet from the first sheet with a hammer-like blow if a second sheet adheres to the first sheet.



1,457,776. SHEET-SEPARATING MECHANISM. CARL HENDERSON, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Miehle Printing Press & Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 1, 1922. Serial No. 533,185. 7 Claims. (Cl. 294—64.)

1. In sheet separating mechanism, the combination of means for causing sheet material to be withdrawn from a pile, and vibratory means for separating a second sheet from the first sheet if a second sheet adheres to the first sheet.



1,457,777. JET AUGMENTER OR EJECTOR. JOHN F. KIRGAN, Phillipsburg, N. J., assignor to Ingersoll-Rand Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed July 20, 1922. Serial No. 576,302. 10 Claims. (Cl. 230—13.)

1. A unitary augmenter or ejector comprising a plate adapted to act as a closure for an opening in the casing of a condenser or similar vessel, and a diffuser body for the ejector integral with said plate, said diffuser body having openings at opposite ends extending through said plate and terminating in the same plane.

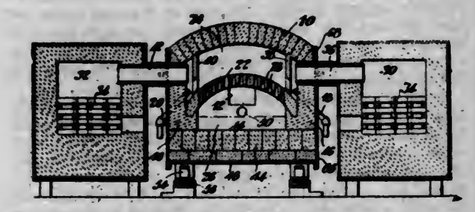
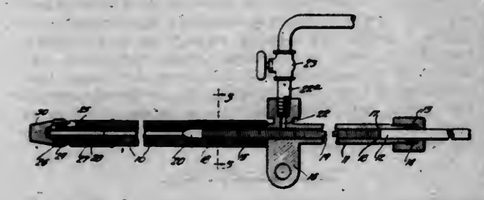
1,457,778. SURETY WINDLASS FOR ATTACHMENT TO WALLS. ANTON LANG, Munich, Bavaria, Germany. Filed Aug. 9, 1920. Serial No. 402,491. 6 Claims. (Cl. 254—186.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)



1. In a windlass of the character described, a wall bracket having an annular bearing surface, a reel associated with said bearing surface, operating means carried on the face of said bearing surface and connected to said reel for imparting rotary movement to the latter, a cover member associated with the reel and adapted to cover the said operating means, said operating means being provided with a projecting member adapted to project through an opening in the cover to receive a handle.

1,457,779. STEAM-DRYING SYSTEM FOR PAPER-MAKING AND OTHER MACHINES. HARRY LIEBECK, Swarthmore, Pa., assignor to Scott Paper Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 15, 1922. Serial No. 560,938. 4 Claims. (Cl. 34—48.)

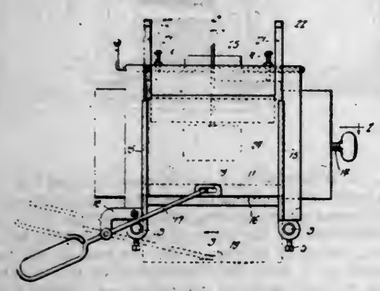


1. In drying apparatus for paper making and other machines, the combination of a plurality of drying cylinders arranged in a plurality of groups constituting separate sections, with a continuous steam supply main having communication with the drying cylinders of the several sections for supplying steam thereto, a continuous return main also in communication with the drying cylinders of the several sections for receiving the water of condensation and uncondensed steam therefrom, by-pass pipes connecting the steam supply main and the return main at intervals along their lengths, said by-pass pipes provided with valves for respectively opening or closing communication through them, valves in the supply main at intervals along its length for dividing it into sections corresponding to the sections of the drying cylinders, valves in the return main at intervals along its length for dividing it into sections corresponding to the sections of the drying cylinders, said valves in the supply and return mains arranged in pairs and each pair of valves controlling said mains adjacent to but respectively on opposite sides of one of the by-passes, whereby the steam from one section of the return main corresponding to one section of the drying cylinders may pass by a by-pass pipe into the section of the supply main corresponding to the next section of drying cylinders and so on, and means for removing the water of condensation from the return main.

1,457,780. GAS-FIRED MELTING FURNACE. HENRY O. LOEBELL, New York, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Doherty Research Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 20, 1920. Serial No. 375,251. 6 Claims. (Cl. 263—43.)

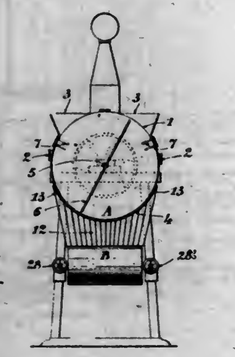
1. The combination of a furnace, an arch dividing said furnace into a combustion chamber and a melting chamber, regenerators on opposite sides of said furnace, aligned tubular conduits between said regenerators and said combustion chambers, means for tilting said furnace about the axis of said connections, and fuel supply means for said combustion chamber.

1,457,781. NONEXPANSIVE HOSE AND METHOD OF MAKING SAME. MALCOLM LOUGHEAD, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Four Wheel Hydraulic Brake Company, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Nov. 15, 1922. Serial No. 601,019. 17 Claims. (Cl. 137—90.)



1. In a hose for fluid operated braking systems, a flexible hose of fabric or similar construction, and a flexible relatively incompressible tube positioned within the bore of said hose and forcibly engaging the inner surface thereof so as to render the hose relatively non-expansive at pressures ordinarily employed in braking systems.

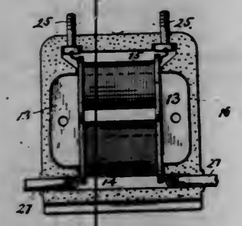
4. The method of rendering a hose substantially non-expansive at pressures ordinarily employed in braking systems, which consists in subjecting the hose to a high internal pressure, and snugly inserting a flexible relatively incompressible tube within the hose while subjected to the internal pressure.



9. In a tool of the class described, a cylinder, a plunger slidable within said cylinder, a stuffing box at one end of said cylinder through which said plunger extends and a nipple at the other end of said cylinder adapted to be received within the bore of a flexible hose.

1,457,782. PICTURE-PROJECTOR ATTACHMENT. FRANK J. MCGETTIGAN, Portland, Oreg. Filed Mar. 25, 1921. Serial No. 455,624. 4 Claims. (Cl. 88—24.)

2. The combination with a picture projector, of a screen having a curtain adapted to be raised for exposing the screen, and means adjacent the projector and movable in the path of the projected rays so as to gradually expose the picture on the screen as the latter is gradually uncovered by the curtain.



1,457,783. MACHINE FOR SETTING AND MIXING PIG BRISTLES. DANIEL MAGNY, Issoudun, France. Filed May 2, 1922. Serial No. 558,032. 3 Claims. (Cl. 300—18.)

1. A machine for "setting" and mixing pig bristles comprising a stationary horizontal cylindrical drum, the lower part of which is perforated, means for introducing pig bristles into said drum, a stationary comb on the inner surface of said drum, a central horizontal shaft rotatably mounted in said drum, means for rotating said shaft, radial arms on said shaft, a set of conduits arranged under the perforated lower part of said drum, said conduits being slightly inclined to the vertical, a straight endless apron mounted under said conduits and having its discharge end which extends beyond the set of conduits and means for supporting and actuating said endless apron.

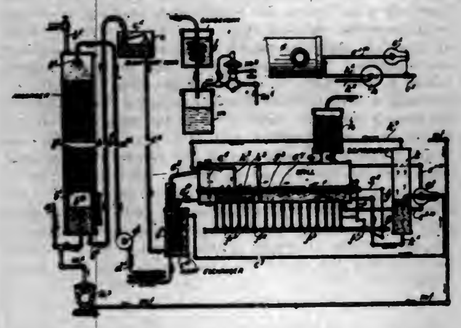
1,457,784. TRANSFORMER. EDWARD P. MAURER, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Sept. 6, 1919. Serial No. 322,069. 10 Claims. (Cl. 175—361.)



1. In combination, a transformer composed of a core and coils, and a casing composed of two parts each provided along opposite sides with recessed portions shaped to accommodate the ends of the transformer core, and having shoulders between which the ends of the core are clamped in a direction transversely of the core laminæ when the two parts of the casing are secured together, the shoulders of one part of the casing engaging one side of the core, and the shoulders of the other part engaging the opposite side of the core.

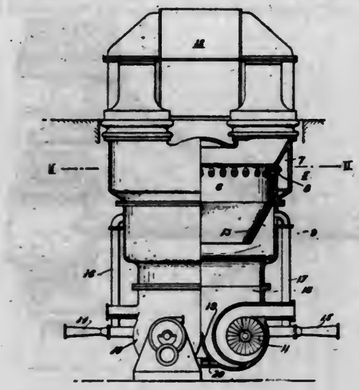
1,457,785. VALVE GRINDER. FRED MERADIAN, Vancouver, Wash. Filed Sept. 13, 1922. Serial No. 587,977. 6 Claims. (Cl. 51—29.)

1. In valve grinding mechanism, a valve engaging element, and means for continuously oscillating the element and rotatably advancing the same in a given direction, including a pinion operatively connected with the valve engaging element, a worm engaging said pinion, and means for simultaneously reciprocating the worm and rotating the same in a given direction.

1,457,786. RECOVERY OF GASOLINE FROM NATURAL GAS, ETC. EDMUND S. MERRIAM, Marietta, Ohio. Filed Oct. 16, 1920. Serial No. 417,391. 9 Claims. (Cl. 196—25.)

1. The method of recovering condensable vapors from gas which consists in causing the vapors to be absorbed by a menstruum, permitting the more readily separable vapors to be separated from the menstruum, thereafter heating the menstruum to separate the more readily condensable vapors, causing the vapors first separated to pass through the heated menstruum to facilitate the separation therefrom of the more readily condensible vapors, and withdrawing the vapors separated from the heated menstruum.

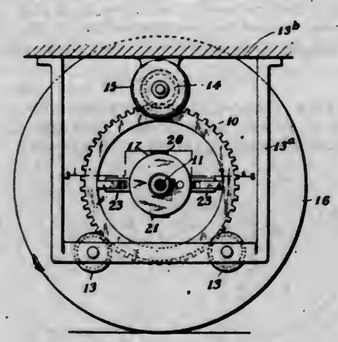
6. In an apparatus for separating condensable vapors from a liquid menstruum without substantially changing the character of the menstruum except for the withdrawal of such vapors, the combination of a still, means to supply the menstruum thereto at one end continuously, means for heating the menstruum as it flows through the still, a separator to which the charged menstruum is admitted before it enters the still and in which the less readily condensable vapors are permitted to separate from the menstruum, a connection by which the menstruum is conducted from the separator to the still, means whereby the vapors separated in the separator are caused to pass through the menstruum in the still where the temperature of the menstruum is higher than that in the separator, and means to withdraw from the still all of the vapors released therein from the menstruum.



1,457,787. PROCESS OF TREATING AULMINOUS MATERIALS. EDEL MOLDENKE, Watchung, N. J., assignor to Moldenke Process Corporation, Watchung, N. J. Filed Sept. 28, 1920. Serial No. 413,402. 10 Claims. (Cl. 23—13.)

1. In the treatment of materials which when subjected to heat tend to become sticky or pasty, the process which comprises heating the said materials in a plurality of stages, a preliminary heating stage being at a temperature lower than a subsequent stage and being performed upon the material in the form of a layer, thus hardening the material, breaking the hardened material into pieces and subjecting it to a subsequent heating stage at a higher temperature than the preceding heating stage and in bulk.

1,457,788. LARGE JET CONDENSER. DAVID W. R. MORGAN, Swarthmore, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Dec. 3, 1920. Serial No. 428,059. 10 Claims. (Cl. 261—118.)



5. In a jet condenser, means providing a single mixing chamber of elongated plan section, and spray nozzles arranged in the wall thereof, whereby the spray travel of each nozzle for effective condensation is less than would be the case with a similarly arranged mixing chamber of circular plan section.

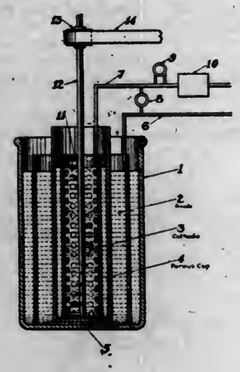
1,457,789. FLEXIBLE POWER TRANSMISSION. HOWARD J. MURRAY, Brooklyn, N. Y., and WALTER S. RUGG, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Oct. 3, 1918. Serial No. 256,648. 9 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)

1. In a power transmission, the combination of a driving and a driven member, one of said members constituting a wheel, and the other member constituting a shaft normally extending transversely of the plane of the wheel adjacent the axis of rotation thereof and having three degrees of rotational freedom relative to the plane of the wheel and a flexible driving connection including telescoping driving members between the wheel and shaft, said connection fixedly coupling the wheel and shaft in all relative driving positions of the same, whereby the wheel and shaft will both have the same angular velocity for all fractions of each rotation while permitting telescopic movement of said driving members during relative displacements of the driving and driven members.



1,457,790. CONTAINER. HOWARD M. NICHOLS, Swarthmore, Pa., assignor to The Atlantic Refining Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Feb. 17, 1921. Serial No. 445,593. 3 Claims. (Cl. 229—5.6.)

2. An end closure member for a drum of fibrous material, comprising a substantially circular sheet metal member provided with a channel portion adjacent to its periphery, the peripheral portion of said member being bent to substantially circular form to provide a rounded surface for clamping the end of the drum against the side of the channel opposite thereto.

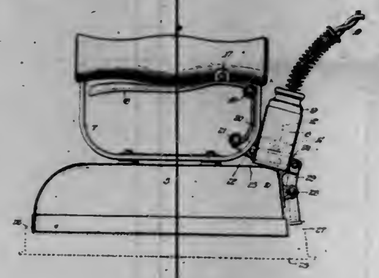
1,457,791. PROCESS OF MAKING SUCCINIC ACID. JAMES F. NORRIS and EDMUND O. CUMMINGS, Cambridge, Mass. Filed Oct. 20, 1922. Serial No. 595,754. 18 Claims. (Cl. 204—9.)



1. In a process of making succinic acid, electrolytically reducing a dispersion of an acid of the formula $C_2H_2(COOH)_2$ in a solution of a mineral acid which will not react in substantial amounts with the electrodes employed for the electrolysis.

1,457,792. ELECTRICALLY-HEATED FLATIRON. ROY BURTON OLDER, Danville, Ill. Filed Apr. 14, 1921. Serial No. 461,276. 10 Claims. (Cl. 219—23.)

1. In an electrically heated flat iron and a stand therefor, in combination, a single switch in the circuit to the heating element maintained normally in open position, means on said iron for closing said switch and means co-operating with the iron stand for closing said switch to heat the iron under certain conditions.

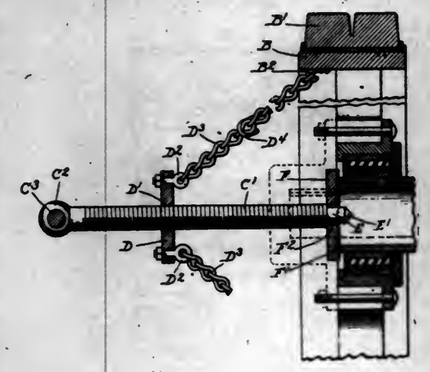
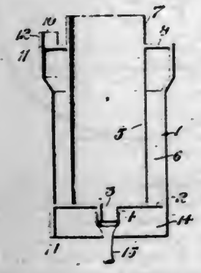
1,457,793. PROCESS FOR OBTAINING SULPHUR. ROBERT S. PERRY, Cave Spring, Ga., PAUL W. WEBSTER, Pelham Manor, and VERE K. BOYNTON, New York, N. Y., assignors to Perry & Webster Incorporated, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 6, 1920. Serial No. 371,662. 17 Claims. (Cl. 23—10.)



1. In a continuous process of separating sulphur from sulphur containing material, the step which comprises passing a mixture of an extractive liquid, spent ore and molten sulphur into an agitated fluid body thereby removing the extractive liquid and the spent ore from contact with the sulphur.

1,457,794. SETTLING APPARATUS. WILLIAM EUGENE PIPER, New Canaan, Conn., assignor to The Dorr Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Feb. 15, 1923. Serial No. 619,148. 11 Claims. (Cl. 210—55.)

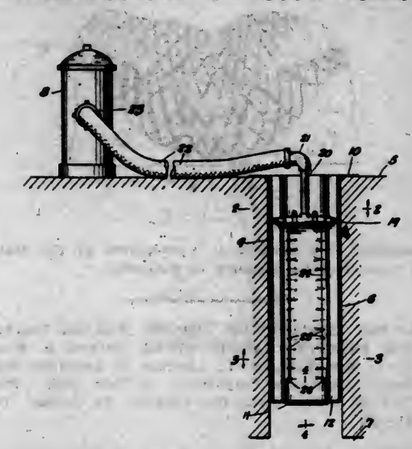


1. In an apparatus of the character described, rotating means for moving solid material over a non-circular surface, said means being pivotally articulated and capable of expanding and contracting to accommodate itself to the area of the surface.

1,457,795. WHEEL REMOVER. GIUSEPPE PIZZUTI, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 27, 1921. Serial No. 510,788. 2 Claims. (Cl. 29—85.)

1. A wheel remover comprising a rotatable screw threaded shaft, and a handle secured thereto, a member adapted to be moved along said shaft by the rotation of said shaft, means, adapted to prevent its rotation with the shaft, for securing it to an automobile wheel, the end of said shaft opposite the handle terminating in a cylindrical section of lesser diameter than the screw threaded portion of the shaft, an apertured bearing plate, in rotatable relation with the shaft, and removably mounted upon said cylindrical section and adapted to abut against the shoulder formed by the intersection of the reduced portion and the screw threaded portion of the shaft.

1,457,796. BLOOD-TRANSFUSION APPARATUS. MARION C. PRUITT, Atlanta, Ga. Filed May 25, 1920. Serial No. 384,026. 3 Claims. (Cl. 128—214.)



1. A transfusion receptacle, comprising an outer cylindrical shell provided above the lower end thereof with an apertured bottom wall, and having the said lower end externally threaded to receive thereon a threaded cap, said cap forming in conjunction with the bottom wall an intervening compartment, an inner shell rising from said bottom wall in spaced relation to the outer shell and projecting above the upper end of said outer shell, a closure for the projecting end of said outer shell.
